Railway Dispute Heads For Courts

Office Changed In White House For Johnson

WASHINGTON (AP) — The presidential office doesn't look at all like it did last Thursday when John F. Kennedy left it for a tragic trip to Texas.

With one exception, that is. At one end there still is what you might call a reception center for distinguished visitors, with the sofas, coffee table and a rocking chair facing the fireplace.

But it isn't the rocker that Kennedy and his ailing back helped make famous. This is a new one that White House officials said Johnson brought from home.

The cocktail table in this intimate little grouping has a white marble top. The old one was walnut. The telephone now is on an end table at the end of a sofa rather than on the edge of the coffee table.

Mementos Gone

Otherwise there is little that remains to remind anyone of Kennedy. That is true partly because of some Kennedy decisions, rather than Johnson changes.

A redecorating had been planned to start and finish while Kennedy was in Texas. That has been carried out. In the Kennedy days there was a light green sculptured rug on the floor, with the presidential seal. A brilliant red one has taken its place. The White House said Kennnedy picked it out.

The walls have been repainted to a bone-white, lighter than before. White draperies, edged in red, and white mesh curtains hang at the windows.

Former Navy man Kennedy had models of ships and prints of naval battles around the place in profusion. His desk was an ornately carved black piece made from the timbers of a British ship.

All these are gone, along with other Kennedy knickknacks and mementos, such as the plastic-encased coconut shell on which he carved a message for help after the PT-boat he commanded in World War II was sunk by a Japanese destroyer in the Pacific.

Big New Desk

Johnson has a few mementos around on tables and bookshelves—a scroll and quill awarded him by national business publications and a plaque from the American Heart Association—for a man who suffered a heart attack in 1955.

There are pictures of his mother, wife and daughters on desks and tables and one of himself and Kennedy in color on a bookshelf.

The shelves are only partly filled with books, mostly sets of volumes of writings and papers of presidents.

There are copies of Kennedy's "Profiles in Courage" and "The Strategy of Peace," of former President Harry S. Truman's two volumes on his White House years and former President Dwight D. Eisenhower's "Crusade in Europe."

The biggest thing in the room was the new desk to replace the Kennedy desk that is expected to wind up at the Kennedy Memorial Library at Harvard University.

The Johnson desk is twice as big, a light mahogany, with an open kneehole and minus the "secret panel" that was the delight of Kennedy's son John Jr.

Johnson Asks Approval Of Tax Cut, Civil Rights

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson told the nation and the world today that the ideas and ideals of John F. Kennedy "must and will be translated into effective action."

The new President appealed at the same time for "an end to the teaching and preaching of hate and evil and violence."

In a 1,500-word address prepared for a joint session of the Senate and House, Johnson specifically called for early congressional action to set up new civil rights safeguards and enact an $11-billion tax cut.

"No memorial oration or eulogy, could more eloquently honor President Kennedy's memory than the earliest possible passage of the civil rights bill for which he fought," Johnson said.

And he said, "No act of ours could more fittingly continue the work of President Kennedy than the earliest passage of the tax bill for which he sought."

The new chief executive said: "This is no time for delay—it is a time for action."

Johnson opened his address by saying:

"All I have I would have given gladly not to be standing here today."

Johnson, who called the assassination of President Kennedy "the foulest deed of our time," declared that Kennedy must be commemorated in actions.

Plea For Tolerance

"Our most immediate tasks," Johnson said, "are here on this hill," meaning in Congress.

Johnson appealed for United effort by a nation that goes forward "in action, in tolerance and mutual understanding." In one of his most emotional passages Johnson asserted:

"The time has come for Americans of all races and creeds and political beliefs to understand and respect one another. Let us put an end to the teaching and preaching of hate and evil and violence. Let us turn away from the fanatics of the far left and the far right, from the apostles of bitterness and bigotry, from those defiant of law, and those who pour venom into our nation's bloodstream."

Johnson expressed the hope that "the tragedy and torment of these terrible days will bind us together in new fellowship."

"Let us here highly resolve,"

Grave Visited Third Time By Mrs. Kennedy

WASHINGTON (AP) — The last of thousands had left Arlington National Cemetery when Jacqueline Kennedy, accompanied by her daughter Caroline, trudged up the slope to the grave of her husband.

It was Mrs. Kennedy's third appearance on the hillside overlooking Washington where President John F. Kennedy is buried among the nation's war dead. It was Caroline's first.

After Monday's graveside services, Mrs. Kennedy returned just before midnight with the late President's brother, Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy, to place flowers there.

At 5 p.m. Tuesday after the mighty and the humble had made a silent pilgramage, the cemetery was closed to the public. About two hours later, Mrs. Kennedy appeared with Caroline. They stayed about 10 minutes.

Thursday, Mrs. Kennedy keeps alive a family tradition for Caroline, 6 today and John Jr., 3, taking them to their grandparents' home on Cape Cod for Thanksgiving.

The grieving Kennedy family will gather as they have for years at the big oceanfront home of the late President's father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph P. Kennedy, at Hyannis Port, Mass.

Mrs. Kennedy and the children will fly to Cape Cod on Thanksgiving morning aboard the Kennedy family plane "Caroline."

She will stay over the holiday weekend, returning to the White House Monday to complete plans for moving out to make way for the family of President Johnson.

Presidential press secretary Pierre Salinger said Mrs. Kennedy will probably finish moving Thursday of next week. It is expected she will take up residence in Washington.

Before they came to the White House in January 1961, the Kennedys lived in a narrow red brick house in Georgetown.

It is understood that Mrs. Kennedy will rent or buy another house not too far away.

'Empty Place' At Dinner Table In Hyannis Port

By The Associated Press

With heavy hearts and prayerful resolve, Americans prepare to observe Thanksgiving Day, while still mourning the death of President John F. Kennedy.

"Our president's death has created an empty place at every dinner table," said a New Yorker busily shopping for Thursday's dinner.

The "empty place" is surely to be more keenly felt at Hyannis Port, Mass., where the Kennedy family will gather.

Mrs. Kennedy, the President's widow, has announced plans to fly to Hyannis Port Thanksgiving Day with her two children.

Perhaps the nation's mood was best summed up by the Rev. John W. Regan, a curate at St. Francis Xavier church in Hyannis Port, when he said last Sunday:

"Here in America, this Thanksgiving will be different. This year, as the Pilgrims did, we will turn again to God. We have a great deal to be thankful for—the men who fought and died for us in the hot wars and in the cold war. We should be grateful for the great men God has given us."

President Johnson has urged that the Thanksgiving proclamation issued by President Kennedy Nov. 5 be read in churches Thursday.

The proclamation said in part:

"on that day let us gather in sanctuaries dedicated to worship and in homes blessed by family affection to express our gratitude for the glorious gifts of God; and let us earnestly and humbly pray that He will continue to guide and sustain us in the great unfinished tasks of achieving peace, justice and understanding among all men and all nations and of ending misery and suffering wherever they exist."

Ruby May Face Murder Trial Within 2 Weeks

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — Jack Ruby, who shot the accused assassin of President John F. Kennedy as thousands watched on television, may go to trial on a murder charge within two weeks.

County grand jurors indicted Ruby Tuesday in the shooting of Lee Harvey Oswald. Ruby's trial is tentatively set for Dec. 9.

Dist. Atty. Henry Wade said he will ask the death penalty.

Defense lawyer Tom Howard of Dallas said the highly emotional Ruby had settled down somewhat since the shooting in the City Hall basement as police started to move Oswald to the county jail.

"He was much more calm than he was yesterday," Howard said. "He talked in more normal tones but he is still an excitable person when he talks normally."

The lawyer said Ruby mentioned seeing a picture of Mrs. Kennnedy with blood on her dress.

"Tears came to his eyes," Howard said. "He showed tremendous concern for the Kennedys."

Ruby, 52, who owns a downtown strip tease establishment and a dance hall in Dallas, told Howard he stopped Sunday at the spot where Kennedy was shot two days earlier. This was shortly before Ruby went on to the city jail where Oswald was killed.

Ruby, known to many Dallas policemen, waited outside the jail with newsmen Sunday. As Oswald was being escorted to an armored car, Ruby lunged from the crowd and fired.

President Signs His First Bills

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson has signed his first bills, one for financing of the Arms Control and Disarmament Agency and the other extending to June 30, 1964, the national debt limit of $315 billion.

The White House said today the arms control measure, authorizing $20 million for the agency for the two-year period which began last July 1, was signed Tuesday night as the new administration's first. A separate appropriation bill is necessary to provide the actual money.

The debt limit bill was signed a few moments later.

At one point, the White House erroneously reported that Johnson had signed the debt limit bill first.

Peking Steps Up Border Wars In Southeast Asia

TOKYO (AP) — Red China has thrown down the gauntlet to President Johnson. He faces the prospect of stepped-up warfare in South Viet Nam and Laos and possibly new crises in Korea and Cambodia.

The Peking regime has made it clear it is determined to probe for any sign of U.S. uncertainty or weakness in Asian policy following the death of President Kennedy.

The Chinese swiftly denounced Johnson as a supporter of Kennedy's "various reactionary policies." This has been followed by hostile appraisals of Johnson from North Viet Nam and the pro-Communist Pathet Lao of Laos.

Guerrillas Attack

North Korea has not reacted officially to the American change of leadership. But it has stepped up the virulence and volume of its anti-U.S. campaign.

The war in South Viet Nam is a prime proving ground for China's tough revolutionary theories.

North Viet Nam, which directs and assists Communist subversion in the south, quickly announced the fighting would continue as it had when Kennedy was directing U.S. assistance to South Viet Nam's anti-Communist forces.

To underline this threat, the Viet Cong guerrillas mounted powerful attacks on strategic hamlets in the south, dealing the young military regime some of the heaviest blows of the war.

In Laos, the Pathet Lao Tuesday removed all doubts about where its allegiance lies. Once supported by the Russians, it now echoes Peking's line.

Korean Reds Active

The Pathet Lao radio said: "The U.S. imperialists will continue their policy of intervention in Laos and become more inflexible. Under such circumstances the Laotian people should never harbor any illusions about Johnson. No matter who becomes president, the nature of U.S. imperialism remains unchanged and its policy will continue to be aggressive and bellicose."

This means that the Pathet Lao will no longer respond to Soviet attempts to check its aggressive moves.

Kennedy's death was the signal for harsh, new attacks from North Korea.

The North Koreans, without apparent reason, have staged several shooting incidents on the 38th parallel in recent months. Now they may again test military reactions in their sector.

Moon Platform Shot Into Space

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP)—An interplanetary monitoring platform — IMP — soared through space today on a radiation-sensing mission vital to the lives of travelers to the moon.

IMP's prime assignment is to determine if satellite instruments can forecast solar flares on the sun. Flares spew torrents of radiation into interplanetary space.

As IMP shot skyward Tuesday night, another Cape Canaveral launch crew made preparations to fire the high-energy Atlas-Centaur space rocket on an orbiting development flight between 10 a.m. and 4 p.m. (EST) today.

IMP is a step toward a U.S. goal of foolproof solar flare forecasting before 1968-69 when the first three-man project Apollo teams are to take off for the moon. During these years, flare activity will be at a peak, with explosions possibly occurring as frequently as every 20 minutes.

A 90-foot tall Delta rocket propelled IMP on its voyage at 9:30 p.m. Project officials reported radio data indicated the three-stage rocket performed flawlessly.

The officials said exact path of the satellite will not be known for a day or two. IMP was aimed on a course ranging from 125 to 173,000 miles high.

Dallas Slaying Evidence Will Be Made Public

DALLAS (AP) — The Dallas News said today that FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover is expected to make public a mass of evidence assembled by officers investigating the assassination of President Kennedy.

Without naming its source, the newspaper said the White House approved a decision for the Federal Bureau of Investigation to take charge of this evidence.

It said Hoover is expected to announce, probably this week, that:

1. The evidence shows conclusively that Lee Harvey Oswald fired the shots which killed Kennedy and seriously wounded Texas Gov. John Connally here last Friday.

2. There is no proof of a Communist conspiracy.

3. Investigators lack evidence which would prove that Oswald had help and they will remain alert for anything which would shed more light on the case.

Assistant Wants To Resign From White House Job

WASHINGTON (AP) — Arthur M. Schlesinger Jr., a special assistant to the late President Kennedy has agreed to stay on the job, at least temporarily.

Schlesinger, prize - winning historian and author, submitted his resignation to President Johnson on Saturday. Johnson did not accept it, however, and urged Schlesinger to stay on the White House staff, at least during the transition period.

There had been reports he had quit.

While Schlesinger agreed to remain, he is not expected to stay indefinitely because he strongly believes that every president should have assistants of his own choosing.

Ruling Revives Argument Over Firemen's Jobs

WASHINGTON (AP) — The long strike-threatened railroad dispute rolled toward the courts today and a new legal tangle over an arbitration ruling permitting the elimination of thousands of firemen's jobs.

The ruling handed down Tuesday by a special panel, was ordered by Congress to forestall a nationwide strike last August and settle the key issues in the union-railroad struggle over work rules.

Two of the unions announced they will challenge the arbitration decision and its legal basis in the courts.

Thus a new snarl appeared to be added to the four-year dispute, and negotiations on what Congress figured were secondary also have bogged down. Each side blamed the other for the lack of progress in the talks, which cover such matters as wages.

The arbitration board had two issues to deal with—the firemen's jobs and the size of train crews.

It ruled that the carriers can gradually eliminate as unnecessary 90 per cent of the firemen on diesel freight and yard engines—about 30,000 jobs.

The train crew issue was turned back to the parties for further negotiations. The board, however, provided machinery for binding decisions on a local basis, supervised by the National Mediation Board, in situations where agreements can't be reached.

The arbitration award, as Congress wrote the law, would be binding for two years.

But other provisions of the law expire Feb. 25 and could lead to a new strike threat if there is no agreement on other issues such as wages.

Union spokesman H. E. Gilbert said the railroads' proposal to "cut pay 33 1-3 per cent" by changing the wage structure is not a secondary issue to the unions.

Congress left wages and some proposed work rules changes to be settled by negotiations between the unions and the 195 railroads involved in the dispute.

Gilbert told J. E. Wolfe, chief railroad negotiator, he hoped Wolfe would now "get down to negotiations" to eliminate any renewal of a strike threat.

Wolfe replied that if the unions did not cooperate in the negotiations, "we will be back where we were in August with the nation disturbed."

Gilbert, president of the AFL-CIO Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and enginemen, and Wolfe are members of the arbitration board.

Movie Recalled To Delete Talk About Kennedys

NEW YORK (AP) — All 350 film copies of the movie, "Take Her, She's Mine," which opened here Nov. 13, have been recalled by 20th Century Fox to delete references to President Kennnedy.

A Fox spokesman said Tuesday a scene in which a character supposedly speaks to Mrs. John F. Kennedy is being removed and two scenes in which an actor speaks in a voice resembling the late President's are being dubbed with another voice.

Deadline Set At Dec. 20 For Lansing Bills

LANSING (AP)—Plans for a special legislative session dealing with laws to implement the new constitution were under way today in an atmosphere of bipartisan hopefulness.

Still pending were some basic decisions on which provisions of the new constitution to include—and which to omit—from the session slated to begin Tuesday.

Following a meeting with Gov. George Romney on Tuesday, legislative leaders of both parties emphasized the importance of the time factor in getting bills approved before a tentative Dec. 20 deadline.

The legislature, by working five days a week after Tuesday, would have only 14 working days.

Routine Items First

Preliminary plans called for routine items to be dealt with first, with some proposals expected to become controversial placed farther back on the schedule.

Among these, lawmakers said Tuesday, are the new state court of appeals and a bill enabling county officials to stay in office an extra two years so they can run in 1966.

In Tuesday's meeting, Romney and legislative leaders discussed the idea of avoiding partisan controversy as much as possible in the session that will fall during the period of mourning for President Kennedy.

House Minority Leader Joseph Kowalski, D-Detroit, said there are "areas of disagreement" between the two parties on some aspects of the constitution, which Democrats bitterly opposed before its approval by voters last April.

Court Setup Included

A preliminary draft of Romney's message to lawmakers indicated he intends to include the appeals court and the county officers' proposal in the special session instead of postponing them until next year.

The implementaton committee has agreed to a bill setting up the nine - member appellate court under three districts of three judges each.

The constitution requires that districts be arranged on a population basis, which means that Wayne County would be one district unto itself.

Sen. Farrell Roberts, R-Pontiac, said there may be some additional shifts before the committee's bill goes to the Legislature.

One proposed shift, it was reported, would move Ingham County into the third district, covering most of outstate Michigan, while Saginaw and Bay Counties were moved to the second district encompassing the southeastern area of the state.

READY FOR ACTION

LANSING (AP)—The bill spelling out the powers of the State Civil Rights Commission today was ready for action in the special legislative session which starts Tuesday.

The bill sailed through the House-Senate Constitutional Implementation Committee Tuesday with only a hint of controversy. But Committee Chairman Rep. Rollo Conlin, R-Tipton, predicted "a hassle" over it during the session.

Committee Co-Chairman Sen. Garry Brown, R - Schoolcraft, said the endorsement was not to be taken as a "unanimous consent with the attorney general on this."

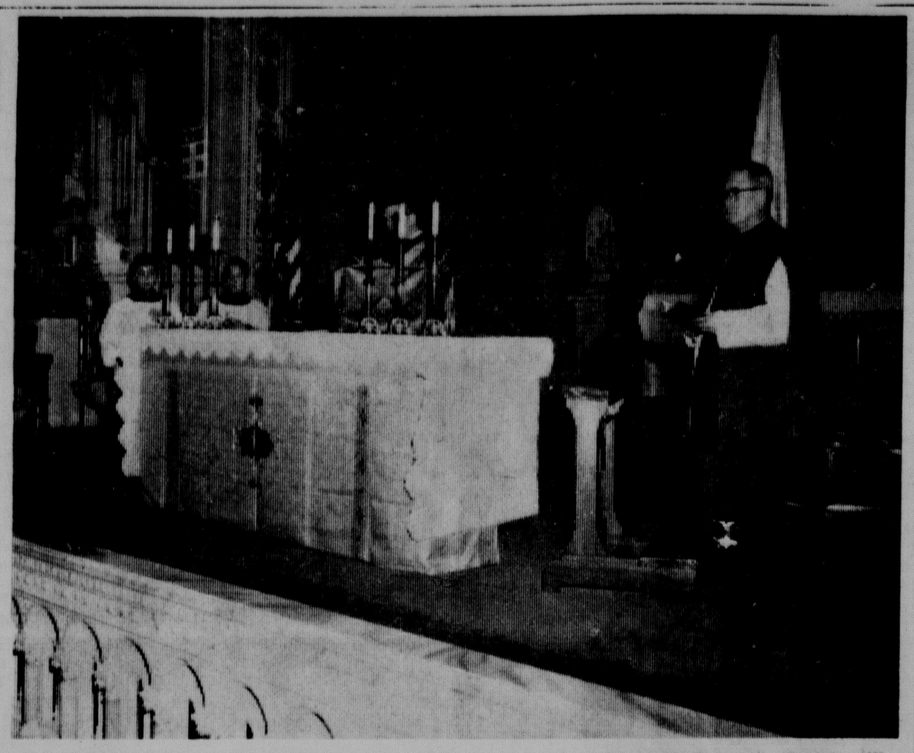
Atty. Gen. Frank Kelley last summer handed down an opinion saying the commission will have absolute power to protect civil rights in education, housing, employment, and public accommodations.

Sen. Kent Lundgren, R - Menominee, asked what limitations will be placed on the commission's powers.

He said he does not oppose the commission idea but is "afraid they're creating a huge agency with no control over it. I want to see it have reasonable control over it. I want to see it have reasonable controls on it."

Brown said the commission's spending could be limited through its legislative appropriation.

The committee approved a bill appropriating "such funds as may be necessary" to perate the commission.



FOR THE FIRST TIME in their church's 61 years, parishioners of St. Patrick's Parish will hear Mass on Thanksgiving Day celebrated by a priest facing the congregation. Traditional American practice has been to have the celebrant face the altar, with his back to the congregation, but a growing trend places the altar between priest and congregation so that he faces it. For its Mass of Thanksgiving at 9 a.m. Thursday, closing Escanaba's Centennial year, St. Patrick's Church will use the altar shown here. Soo Line Asks To Discontinue Strait Ferry

The historic railroad carferry service between the Peninsulas of Michigan at the Straits of Mackinac is under threat of closing.

Such a closing would leave only the rail ferry connections between the two peninsulas at Manistique, 88 miles to the west, and at Menominee, 197 miles to the west and south.

The threat to the carferry service operated by the Soo Line Railroad between St. Ignace and Mackinaw City has two elements. They are the big diversion of freight from rail movement at the Straits to truck movement over the Mackinac Bridge, and the deterioration of the last of the railroad carferries, the Chief Wawatam.

The Mackinac Transportation Co. has asked the Interstate Commerce Commission for permission to abandon its railroad carferry service at the Straits because it cannot afford to repair its ferry, it was announced at Chicago this week.

John Benson, of Minneapolis, vice president of the Soo Line Railroad which owns the Mackinac Transportation Co., said that the Coast Guard has condemned the boiler of the Chief and that repairs would cost more than a half million dollars. "It would take us a long time to recover that much money on our present revenues," said Benson.

The Soo Line acquired the ferry line at the Straits when the Duluth South Shore & Atlantic Railroad, which owned the ferries, merged with it several years ago. The firm owned the Chief and the ferry Sainte Marie but the latter ferry has been sold. The Chief is an icebreaker and has maintained daily service across the Straits throughout the year, serving the Soo Line terminal at St. Ignace and the Pennsylvania and New York Central railroad terminals at Mackinaw City in Southern Michigan.

Benson said that the Soo Line regarded freight traffic loss as inevitable with the building of the Mackinac Bridge, but did not know its proportions. "We have been hurt real bad by bridge trucking," said Benson.

The rail ferry once moved pulpwood from the Upper Peninsula to Lower Peninsula mills but this traffic has ceased. The new effort to find markets for the eastern Upper Peninsula's growing forests might find a transportation resource in the carferry system, and this potential would be lost with closing of the ferry service. The bridge fees add $2 a cord to the cost of pulpwood on a round trip truck basis.

Mack Found Dead

Kiwanians Back Free Religion

Kiwanis International has gone on record as opposing "further attempts, however well intentioned, which tend to deny our national and personal trust in God, or to remove God from the corporate body of our government," according to information received here by William G. Hemes, President of the Kiwanis Club of Escanaba.

Top leaders of the big international service organization, meeting in Chicago the end of October, formally passed a resolution calling on the President and the Congress not only to stop this denial of religious expression, but "to reaffirm recognition of the spiritual heritage of this nation and its people."

The text of the resolution follows:

"The United States of America is a nation founded upon belief in God and maturing under a trust in God. In return for that trust, He has blessed us beyond all other nations and protected us from our national follies and errors.

"From Him we have derived certain inalienable rights, among which are personal and religious freedom. We in turn have shared those with all who have come to the golden door seeking personal, religious, or political freedom. We have guaranteed religious freedom by providing that there shall be separation of church and state while at all times being committeed to belief in God and His Will.

"WHEREAS, there are those who would have us interpret freedom of religion as freedom from religion, separation of state and church as separation of state and God, and

"WHEREAS, certain individuals and groups seeking to deny the dependence of this nation and its people on God have embarked on such campaigns as to effect removal of 'Under God' from the Pledge of Allegiance and 'In God We Trust' from our coinage,

"THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED, that the President and the Congress of the United States be solemnly requested to reaffirm recognition of the spiritual heritage of this nation and its people and to oppose and prevent further attempts however well intentioned which tend to deny our national and personal Trust in God or to remove God from the corporate body of our Government."

Business 'Fair' In '63 And Outlook Unchanged

Business leaders of the community responded with "fair to good" in reply to questions on the volume of business so far in 1963 and saw no drastic change ahead for the economy (local and national) in the year ahead.

For at least one industry, American Timber Homes, Inc., this was indeed a good year. The firm led the industrial growth parade in manufacturing in the mid-Upper Peninsula, doubling its output of recreation type housing in 1963.

"We expect to more than double our production of timber homes in 1964," said President John Walbridge "and we may go to four or five times as much."

Better In 1964?

October, normally a dull month in the timber home business was the best month of the year for the new firm this year, in which it greatly enlarged its dealer network. It sells throughout the Midwest and South and on the East Coast.

Its northern white cedar homes are treated with preservatives so they need no painting and their construction is in modules with pillar and panel assembly. The second home, or vacation home trend in America has boomed the business and its do-it-yourself assembly plan for Timber Homes has helped make them widely popular.

American Timber Homes' sister company, Early American Fence Co. reported a good year in 1963, with sales about the same as a year ago and with prospects good for 1964. Sales of saunas—Finnish steam bath units or cabins—also increased in 1963.

Birds Eye Veneer Co. reported its production about the same as a year ago and with better business expected in 1964, said President Russell Lee. The firm, one of the oldest wood industries in the Upper Peninsula and a producer of fine veneers, operates mills in Escanaba and Marquette.

Outlook Hopeful

It exports some veneer but most of its sales are domestic, and like other American veneer and plywood firms it has been under heavy competitive pressures from overseas producers. Japan has been the great exporter, but in 1963 Japanese hardwood veneer imports dropped from 67 to 49 pct. of the U. S. import market. Korea and Thailand, which had only 3 pct. of the important market here three years ago jumped to over 21 pct. this year.

Yellow birch continues the No. 1 wood for Birds Eye veneer manufacture. It employs 160 persons in Escanaba and Marquette.

Harnischfeger Corp. in Escanaba had a year that was "fairly good" from the volume standpoint, said Raymond O. Fish, manager. The firm's two plants are centers for the manufacturing of truck cranes and welding machines and provide employment to upwards of 1,000.

Next year's business? About the same volume level. The receiving of an $800,000 order for welding machines from the U. S. Procurement Office will "have a stabilizing influence but it will not result in a change in the employment level."

National Policy

Production of the 380 machines is expected to begin next July with delivery to be completed within a year. Jack Williams, plant superintendent, said the contract represents in excess of two months full production at the welding machines plant here, which employs approximately 100 people.

The death of President John F. Kennedy and the succession to the office by President Lyndon B. Johnson is not expected to materially alter the nation's business climate in the opinion of Fish. "This is purely speculation on my part," he added. He views President Johnson as somewhat more conservative.

Business is about equal in volume this year as last for the Escanaba Division of Mead Corp., said George S. Douglas, Division manager.

"While the total volume is the same, the character is different. Last year it started off slowly and then picked up; this year business has been steady throughout."

That Profit Squeeze

Major problem confronting the industry in 1964? The same as for most business and industry throughout the nation: The profit squeeze. Costs of production keep right on rising. The cost of labor for example goes up about 3 per cent per year.

Rising costs catch industry in a squeeze that can be relieved only by increased income—and this must come in higher prices paid by the consumer. This is the major problem facing private enterprise.

The business year at the Marble Corporation in Gladstone saw slight changes during the past year. Les Bryant, general manager of the firm, said the unit volume of shipping remained steady, but that the dollar volume was down.

"This," said Bryant, "means that while we shipped the same volume as the previous we actually received less dollarwise because of competitions from other firms." He said this was particularly true in the motor department of the corporation.

Employment Unchanged

Comparing the firm's business activities with 1962, Bryant said there was little change in the 24-month period. The Marble Corp. is operating on a 5-day week. However, there has been a good portion of overtime this year compared with 1962. The employment figure also remains the same as last year.

Discussing the outlook for the coming year, Bryant said all indications are that it will be a good year. This he attributed to the fact that the firm is now owned by IT&T (International Telephone & Telegraph).

The shipping of iron ore, the business on which the Escanaba economy was founded 100 years ago, continues into the second century on a note of optimism voiced by Chicago & North Western Railway spokesmen.

The North Western Railway has operated its docks continuously in loading ore hauled here by rail from iron mines distant more than 200 miles. Most of the ore comes from the nearby Menominee Range, some from Marquette and some from the Gogebic mines.

More Pellet Ore

"This will be a good year here in ore shipping with the tonnage total going over 5,000,000," said L. A. McMillan, dock agent. "Last year's total was 4,771,782 tons. Anytime we go above five million tons it's a good year for us."

Before the shipping season closes this year (tentatively Dec. 12 for the last boat to load) the North Western will have loaded out 800,000 tons of pellet ore. This ore, the product of beneficiation of low grade ores, will grow in volume and the total in 1964 is expected to reach 1,250,000 tons at Escanaba, McMillan said.

The pellets come from the Hanna Mining Co. Groveland plant at Randville 14 miles northeast of Iron Mountain: Pellet ore has a uniform iron analysis, is dry, and is handled at less cost than the regular ore, which is wet and often freezes in the cars and dock pockets in late fall. Regular ore must also be mixed at the dock because it lacks the uniformity of pellet ore.

This year pellet ore will be shipped to finish off the late season, ending the necessity of thawing frozen ore or operating the C&NW's new infrared thawing facility.

McMillan says the outlook is favorable for an increasing volume of pellet ore in the years ahead, not only from the plant at Randville but other plants now being completed to the north in the Marquette range.

Stress Economy In Design For Franklin School

Economy compatible with comfort and efficiency has been emphasized in planning the new Franklin School building which will be voted on Dec. 16, the Rotary Club was told at its meeting Monday noon at the House of Ludington.

The financing proposal, a bond issue of $270,000 to be retired in 16 years at the tax rate of 45 cents per $1,000 assessed valuation, may be voted on only by owners of real estate on the tax rolls in the Escanaba Area Public Schools District.

The district is composed of the City of Escanaba and the Townships of Wells, Ford River and Cornell.

Propositions to replace the Franklin building have twice been defeated in the past. This will be the first time, however, that the question of replacement is the only proposition on the ballot.

Selfish Viewpoint?

Dr. Vernon K. Johnson, chairman of the Franklin School building proposal information committee, said that "opposition" has already been expressed by the spokesman for a group that in the past has also opposed other school and public bond issues.

"When they oppose every issue that comes up, I think it's time to stand back and take a look to see if their opposition is only from their own selfish viewpoint," said Dr. Johnson.

The rooms in the buildings are of the size recommended by the state; the total cost could have been somewhat reduced but this would mean leaving out such essentials as ventilation and thermopane windows, now considered standard in the construction of schools for the comfort of the children.

Dr. Johnson noted that in the last election to replace the Franklin School a sinking fund plan of financing was offered. This was rejected by the voters. Now a sinking fund is suggested, Dr. Johnson said.

District Problem

"If the Board of Education had offered a sinking fund this time they would have opposed it," he said. "It appears they will oppose anything we propose."

Claude Bohn, father of three boys who should be attending the Franklin but must attend other schools, asked for cooperation of voters of the district in solving the school building problem. Bohn is coordinating chairman for the bond election.

He pleaded for understanding among the school voters in realizing that their combined interests are involved in replacoing old elementary schools and improving existing buildings. "What is good for one part of the district is a help to all parts," he said. The Area district has made it possible to have a better educational program for the benefit of the children, he pointed out.

Dr. William Hemes, president of the school board, said the building is designed by G. Arntzen Architects of Escanaba and the plan evolved from conferences with teachers and staff and that it is "economical, safe and functional."

Need Every Room

There will be nine classrooms, a multi-purpose room and space for storage, library, and work space for teachers. Walls will be concrete block with exterior brick and floors will be concrete. The rooms are the minimum size recommended by the state; heating will be by city steam to save the cost of boilers and heating plant; and insulating glass will be used for windows to save on heating costs and to provide comfort for the children.

"The building is not too big," he said. "There is a need for every room. It would be poor planning to build one too small. The building is designed so that an addition can be made in the future if that is required."

The proposition, only one on the ballot, is "a step at a time" toward solution of the elementary building needs of the schools in the district, he said. These building problems must be solved. "We ask the voters to stand with the school board in this proposition for the sake of the children," Dr. Hemes added.

Memorials

The suggestion that gifts to the memory of the late President John F. Kennedy be addressed to the Delta County Chapter of the Michigan Association for Retarded Children was made by Dr. Thomas F. McInerney to the Rotary Club. Memorial gifts may be addressed to the Retarded Children, Box 157, Escanaba.

Heart Warned Johnson In 1955

By JOHN BARBOUR
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON (AP)—It isn't likely that President Johnson ever will forget that July day in 1955 as his car rolled through the Virginia countryside.

He had been working hard. As majority leader of the Senate under a Republican president, he was known as a master persuader.

Already there was talk about the Democratic nomination for president.

Now—on this Saturday, July 2, he was bound for the Middleburg, Va., home of a friend. Suddenly it came—the severe pain in the chest.

Gives Up Smoking

There was the emergency examination by a local doctor who diagnosed a heart attack, then the quick trip to the Naval hospital in Bethesda, Md., and the life-saving work of doctors.

A few days later, a fellow senator said doctors told him the 46-year-old Johnson had almost died: "The first few hours were extremely serious."

During his convalescence, the senator was probably a model patient.

He accepted the facts of the case well and did something about them. A chain-smoker, he quit smoking. Weighing about 220 pounds, he dieted—and in a few months was down to about 175.

His convalescence progressed from the hospital to his Washington home to his Texas ranch.

At his ranch, he began a careful regimen of exercise—short walks morning and afternoon.

Doctors then set about redesigning the life of Lyndon Johnson as much as the man's personality would premit.

The regular checkups every month spelled out the spectacular recovery. Blood pressure normal. Pulse normal, x-rays showed no enlargement of the heart that would indicate it was compensating for some vital damage. Electrocardiographs returned to normal, showing the heart had recovered its regularity of function.

His wife, Lady Bird, helped by sharing his rigid diet.

On Dec. 14, one of his doctors was able to report:

"Senator Johnson is now active and his reactions to activity are normal."

By the end of the year, the doctors had spelled the conditions under which he could operate. Those conditions included frequent short vacations of two or three days taken throughout the year. Would he have another heart attack?

Said Dr. James C. Cain of the Mayo Clinic, a personal friend of the senator: "He does not have to have another. Because he has had one, he's not destined to have a second."

Anyone who has had a heart attack lives with the fact of it.

Relaxes Hard

But Johnson has picked up his vigorous life, and has met unusual stresses without apparent ill effect.

A friend agreed that while he works hard, he relaxes hard too.

In the eight years since Johnson suffered his heart attack, he has led an active life.

Perhaps the reason is that any heart attack victim, being forewarned is being forearmed—and the warning is hard to forget.

Office Changed In White House For Johnson

WASHINGTON (AP) — The presidential office doesn't look at all like it did last Thursday when John F. Kennedy left it for a tragic trip to Texas.

With one exception, that is. At one end there still is what you might call a reception center for distinguished visitors, with the sofas, coffee table and a rocking chair facing the fireplace.

But it isn't the rocker that Kennedy and his ailing back helped make famous. This is a new one that White House officials said Johnson brought from home.

The cocktail table in this intimate little grouping has a white marble top. The old one was walnut. The telephone now is on an end table at the end of a sofa rather than on the edge of the coffee table.

Mementos Gone

Otherwise there is little that remains to remind anyone of Kennedy. That is true partly because of some Kennedy decisions, rather than Johnson changes.

A redecorating had been planned to start and finish while Kennedy was in Texas. That has been carried out. In the Kennedy days there was a light green sculptured rug on the floor, with the presidential seal. A brilliant red one has taken its place. The White House said Kennnedy picked it out.

The walls have been repainted to a bone-white, lighter than before. White draperies, edged in red, and white mesh curtains hang at the windows.

Former Navy man Kennedy had models of ships and prints of naval battles around the place in profusion. His desk was an ornately carved black piece made from the timbers of a British ship.

All these are gone, along with other Kennedy knickknacks and mementos, such as the plastic-encased coconut shell on which he carved a message for help after the PT-boat he commanded in World War II was sunk by a Japanese destroyer in the Pacific.

Big New Desk

Johnson has a few mementos around on tables and bookshelves—a scroll and quill awarded him by national business publications and a plaque from the American Heart Association—for a man who suffered a heart attack in 1955.

There are pictures of his mother, wife and daughters on desks and tables and one of himself and Kennedy in color on a bookshelf.

The shelves are only partly filled with books, mostly sets of volumes of writings and papers of presidents.

There are copies of Kennedy's "Profiles in Courage" and "The Strategy of Peace," of former President Harry S. Truman's two volumes on his White House years and former President Dwight D. Eisenhower's "Crusade in Europe."

The biggest thing in the room was the new desk to replace the Kennedy desk that is expected to wind up at the Kennedy Memorial Library at Harvard University.

The Johnson desk is twice as big, a light mahogany, with an open kneehole and minus the 'secret panel" that was the delight of Kennedy's son John Jr.

Johnson Asks Approval Of Tax Cut, Civil Rights

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson told the nation and the world today that the ideas and ideals of John F. Kennedy "must and will be translated into effective action."

The new President appealed at the same time for "an end to the teaching and preaching of hate and evil and violence."

In a 1,500-word address prepared for a joint session of the Senate and House, Johnson specifically called for early congressional action to set up new civil rights safeguards and enact an $11-billion tax cut.

"No memorial oration or eulogy, could more eloquently honor President Kennedy's memory than the earliest possible passage of the civil rights bill for which he fought," Johnson said.

And he said, "No act of ours could more fittingly continue the work of President Kennedy than the earliest passage of the tax bill for which he sought."

The new chief executive said: "This is no time for delay—it is a time for action."

Johnson opened his address by saying:

"All I have I would have given gladly not to be standing here today."

Johnson, who called the assassination of President Kennedy "the foulest deed of our time," declared that Kennedy must be commemorated in actions.

Plea For Tolerance

"Our most immediate tasks," Johnson said, "are here on this hill," meaning in Congress.

Johnson appealed for United effort by a nation that goes forward "in action, in tolerance and mutual understanding." In one of his most emotional passages Johnson asserted:

"The time has come for Americans of all races and creeds and political beliefs to understand and respect one another. Let us put an end to the teaching and preaching of hate and evil and violence. Let us turn away from the fanatics of the far left and the far right, from the apostles of bitterness and bigotry, from those defiant of law, and those who pour venom into our nation's bloodstream."

Johnson expressed the hope that "the tragedy and torment of these terrible days will bind us together in new fellowship."

"Let us here highly resolve,"

Grave Visited Third Time By Mrs. Kennedy

WASHINGTON (AP) — The last of thousands had left Arlington National Cemetery when Jacqueline Kennedy, accompanied by her daughter Caroline, trudged up the slope to the grave of her husband.

It was Mrs. Kennedy's third appearance on the hillside overlooking Washington where President John F. Kennedy is buried among the nation's war dead. It was Caroline's first.

After Monday's graveside services, Mrs. Kennedy returned just before midnight with the late President's brother, Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy, to place flowers there.

At 5 p.m. Tuesday after the mighty and the humble had made a silent pilgramage, the cemetery was closed to the public. About two hours later, Mrs. Kennedy appeared with Caroline. They stayed about 10 minutes.

Thursday, Mrs. Kennedy keeps alive a family tradition for Caroline, 6 today and John Jr., 3, taking them to their grandparents' home on Cape Cod for Thanksgiving.

The grieving Kennedy family will gather as they have for years at the big oceanfront home of the late President's father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph P. Kennedy, at Hyannis Port, Mass.

Mrs. Kennedy and the children will fly to Cape Cod on Thanksgiving morning aboard the Kennedy family plane "Caroline."

She will stay over the holiday weekend, returning to the White House Monday to complete plans for moving out to make way for the family of President Johnson.

Presidential press secretary Pierre Salinger said Mrs. Kennedy will probably finish moving Thursday of next week. It is expected she will take up residence in Washington.

Before they came to the White House in January 1961, the Kennedys lived in a narrow red brick house in Georgetown.

It is understood that Mrs. Kennedy will rent or buy another house not too far away.

'Empty Place' At Dinner Table In Hyannis Port

By The Associated Press

With heavy hearts and prayerful resolve, Americans prepare to observe Thanksgiving Day, while still mourning the death of President John F. Kennedy.

"Our president's death has created an empty place at every dinner table," said a New Yorker busily shopping for Thursday's dinner.

The "empty place" is surely to be more keenly felt at Hyannis Port, Mass., where the Kennedy family will gather.

Mrs. Kennedy, the President's widow, has announced plans to fly to Hyannis Port Thanksgiving Day with her two children.

Perhaps the nation's mood was best summed up by the Rev. John W. Regan, a curate at St. Francis Xavier church in Hyannis Port, when he said last Sunday:

"Here in America, this Thanksgiving will be different. This year, as the Pilgrims did, we will turn again to God. We have a great deal to be thankful for—the men who fought and died for us in the hot wars and in the cold war. We should be grateful for the great men God has given us."

President Johnson has urged that the Thanksgiving proclamation issued by President Kennedy Nov. 5 be read in churches Thursday.

The proclamation said in part:

"on that day let us gather in sanctuaries dedicated to worship and in homes blessed by family affection to express our gratitude for the glorious gifts of God; and let us earnestly and humbly pray that He will continue to guide and sustain us in the great unfinished tasks of achieving peace, justice and understanding among all men and all nations and of ending misery and suffering wherever they exist."

Ruby May Face Murder Trial Within 2 Weeks

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — Jack Ruby, who shot the accused assassin of President John F. Kennedy as thousands watched on television, may go to trial on a murder charge within two weeks.

County grand jurors indicted Ruby Tuesday in the shooting of Lee Harvey Oswald. Ruby's trial is tentatively set for Dec. 9.

Dist. Atty. Henry Wade said he will ask the death penalty.

Defense lawyer Tom Howard of Dallas said the highly emotional Ruby had settled down somewhat since the shooting in the City Hall basement as police started to move Oswald to the county jail.

"He was much more calm than he was yesterday," Howard said. "He talked in more normal tones but he is still an excitable person when he talks normally."

The lawyer said Ruby mentioned seeing a picture of Mrs. Kennnedy with blood on her dress.

"Tears came to his eyes," Howard said. "He showed tremendous concern for the Kennedys."

Ruby, 52, who owns a downtown strip tease establishment and a dance hall in Dallas, told Howard he stopped Sunday at the spot where Kennedy was shot two days earlier. This was shortly before Ruby went on to the city jail where Oswald was killed.

Ruby, known to many Dallas policemen, waited outside the jail with newsmen Sunday. As Oswald was being escorted to an armored car, Ruby lunged from the crowd and fired.

President Signs His First Bills

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson has signed his first bills, one for financing of the Arms Control and Disarmament Agency and the other extending to June 30, 1964, the national debt limit of $315 billion.

The White House said today the arms control measure, authorizing $20 million for the agency for the two-year period which began last July 1, was signed Tuesday night as the new administration's first. A separate appropriation bill is necessary to provide the actual money.

The debt limit bill was signed a few moments later.

At one point, the White House erroneously reported that Johnson had signed the debt limit bill first.

Peking Steps Up Border Wars In Southeast Asia

TOKYO (AP) — Red China has thrown down the gauntlet to President Johnson. He faces the prospect of stepped-up warfare in South Viet Nam and Laos and possibly new crises in Korea and Cambodia.

The Peking regime has made it clear it is determined to probe for any sign of U.S. uncertainty or weakness in Asian policy following the death of President Kennedy.

The Chinese swiftly denounced Johnson as a supporter of Kennedy's "various reactionary policies." This has been followed by hostile appraisals of Johnson from North Viet Nam and the pro-Communist Pathet Lao of Laos.

Guerrillas Attack

North Korea has not reacted officially to the American change of leadership. But it has stepped up the virulence and volume of its anti-U.S. campaign.

The war in South Viet Nam is a prime proving ground for China's tough revolutionary theories.

North Viet Nam, which directs and assists Communist subversion in the south, quickly announced the fighting would continue as it had when Kennedy was directing U.S. assistance to South Viet Nam's anti-Communist forces.

To underline this threat, the Viet Cong guerrillas mounted powerful attacks on strategic hamlets in the south, dealing the young military regime some of the heaviest blows of the war.

In Laos, the Pathet Lao Tuesday removed all doubts about where its allegiance lies. Once supported by the Russians, it now echoes Peking's line.

Korean Reds Active

The Pathet Lao radio said: "The U.S. imperialists will continue their policy of intervention in Laos and become more inflexible. Under such circumstances the Laotian people should never harbor any illusions about Johnson. No matter who becomes president, the nature of U.S. imperialism remains unchanged and its policy will continue to be aggressive and bellicose."

This means that the Pathet Lao will no longer respond to Soviet attempts to check its aggressive moves.

Kennedy's death was the signal for harsh, new attacks from North Korea.

The North Koreans, without apparent reason, have staged several shooting incidents on the 38th parallel in recent months. Now they may again test military reactions in their sector.

Moon Platform Shot Into Space

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP)—An interplanetary monitoring platform — IMP — soared through space today on a radiation-sensing mission vital to the lives of travelers to the moon.

IMP's prime assignment is to determine if satellite instruments can forecast solar flares on the sun. Flares spew torrents of radiation into interplanetary space.

As IMP shot skyward Tuesday night, another Cape Canaveral launch crew made preparations to fire the high-energy Atlas-Centaur space rocket on an orbiting development flight between 10 a.m. and 4 p.m. (EST) today.

IMP is a step toward a U.S. goal of foolproof solar flare forecasting before 1968-69 when the first three-man project Apollo teams are to take off for the moon. During these years, flare activity will be at a peak, with explosions possibly occurring as frequently as every 20 minutes.

A 90-foot tall Delta rocket propelled IMP on its voyage at 9:30 p.m. Project officials reported radio data indicated the three-stage rocket performed flawlessly.

The officials said exact path of the satellite will not be known for a day or two. IMP was aimed on a course ranging from 125 to 173,000 miles high.

Dallas Slaying Evidence Will Be Made Public

DALLAS (AP) — The Dallas News said today that FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover is expected to make public a mass of evidence assembled by officers investigating the assassination of President Kennedy.

Without naming its source, the newspaper said the White House approved a decision for the Federal Bureau of Investigation to take charge of this evidence.

It said Hoover is expected to announce, probably this week, that:

1. The evidence shows conclusively that Lee Harvey Oswald fired the shots which killed Kennedy and seriously wounded Texas Gov. John Connally here last Friday.

2. There is no proof of a Communist conspiracy.

3. Investigators lack evidence which would prove that Oswald had help and they will remain alert for anything which would shed more light on the case.

Assistant Wants To Resign From White House Job

WASHINGTON (AP) — Arthur M. Schlesinger Jr., a special assistant to the late President Kennedy has agreed to stay on the job, at least temporarily.

Schlesinger, prize - winning historian and author, submitted his resignation to President Johnson on Saturday. Johnson did not accept it, however, and urged Schlesinger to stay on the White House staff, at least during the transition period.

There had been reports he had quit.

While Schlesinger agreed to remain, he is not expected to stay indefinitely because he strongly believes that every president should have assistants of his own choosing.

Ruling Revives Argument Over Firemen's Jobs

WASHINGTON (AP) — The long strike-threatened railroad dispute rolled toward the courts today and a new legal tangle over an arbitration ruling permitting the elimination of thousands of firemen's jobs.

The ruling handed down Tuesday by a special panel, was ordered by Congress to forestall a nationwide strike last August and settle the key issues in the union-railroad struggle over work rules.

Two of the unions announced they will challenge the arbitration decision and its legal basis in the courts.

Thus a new snarl appeared to be added to the four-year dispute, and negotiations on what Congress figured were secondary also have bogged down. Each side blamed the other for the lack of progress in the talks, which cover such matters as wages.

The arbitration board had two issues to deal with—the firemen's jobs and the size of train crews.

It ruled that the carriers can gradually eliminate as unnecessary 90 per cent of the firemen on diesel freight and yard engines—about 30,000 jobs.

The train crew issue was turned back to the parties for further negotiations. The board, however, provided machinery for binding decisions on a local basis, supervised by the National Mediation Board, in situations where agreements can't be reached.

The arbitration award, as Congress wrote the law, would be binding for two years.

But other provisions of the law expire Feb. 25 and could lead to a new strike threat if there is no agreement on other issues such as wages.

Union spokesman H. E. Gilbert said the railroads' proposal to "cut pay 33 1-3 per cent" by changing the wage structure is not a secondary issue to the unions.

Congress left wages and some proposed work rules changes to be settled by negotiations between the unions and the 195 railroads involved in the dispute.

Gilbert told J. E. Wolfe, chief railroad negotiator, he hoped Wolfe would now "get down to negotiations" to eliminate any renewal of a strike threat.

Wolfe replied that if the unions did not cooperate in the negotiations, "we will be back where we were in August with the nation disturbed."

Gilbert, president of the AFL-CIO Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and enginemen, and Wolfe are members of the arbitration board.

Movie Recalled To Delete Talk About Kennedys

NEW YORK (AP) — All 350 film copies of the movie, "Take Her, She's Mine," which opened here Nov. 13, have been recalled by 20th Century Fox to delete references to President Kennnedy.

A Fox spokesman said Tuesday a scene in which a character supposedly speaks to Mrs. John F. Kennedy is being removed and two scenes in which an actor speaks in a voice resembling the late President's are being dubbed with another voice.

Santa Arrives By Plane For Friday Parade

Santa Claus arrives in Escanaba on his annual pre-Christmas visit to the city on Friday of this week.

Santa will arrive at Escanaba Airport at 11 a. m. Friday in a Jon Thorin Aviation plane and will be the start of a Santa parade from the airport on 23rd St. to Ludington St. and down Ludington through the shopping district in a conveyance provided by Clairmont Transport Co.

Escanaba Area High School students forming an escort for Santa will distribute candy to the children along the route.

Don Yost, chairman, Pat Kennedy and Jack Fineman of the Santa Claus Committee, announced plans for the visit at a meeting of the Retail Division at Marco's Thursday noon.

Retail Chairman John Lasnoski announced that overhead Christmas Street lighting would be in readiness for the formal Christmas opening of Escanaba stores on Friday, Nov. 29, the day after Thanksgiving. This year's lighting will see a return to the popular evergreen lighted garlands on Ludington St., with the lanterns being used at the west end of the city.

Escanaba stores will be open evenings for Christmas shopping Tuesday, Dec. 3, Friday, Dec. 6, Tuesday, Dec. 10 Friday, Dec. 13, Monday through Friday, Dec. 16-20, and Monday, Dec. 23. Stores will close at the usual hour on Chistmas Eve, 5:30 or 6 p. m.

Carols will be played in the downtown area during the Christmas shopping days.

'Tolerance Day' Named Nov. 22

KALAMAZOO (AP) — Setting aside Nov. 22 as "National Tolerance Day was urged Tuesday by Municipal Court Judge Clark M. Olmstead "so that President Kennedy's saceifice shall be a continuing reminder of the work to be done by us."

The judge said he was sending copies of his proposal to president Johnson and to Michigan congressmen.

He suggested establishment of "appropriate local and national committees" to work out details and said fund-raising should be "commenced immediately to provide necessary financial basis for such an undertaking."

Menominee Group Begins Plan For JFK Memorial

MENOMINEE — Thirty persons including business and governmental heads from the city and county met in the Falk Hotel this week with intentions of establishing a memorial to the late President John F. Kennedy.

George Beaudoin of Stephenson was named temporary chairman and Mrs. Mott Stanchfield of Menominee was named temporary secretary.

The group discussed suggestions for a memorial including one to the mental health program which was a Kennedy favorite.

Cards Date Back To 1842

Today we take the sending and receiving of Christmas cards as a matter of course. Actually, they didn't come into existence until the 19th century. Prior to that, no one thought of greeting friends and family at Yuletide through cards.

It remained for a sixteen-year-old English engraving apprentice, William Maw Egley, to design a card in 1842 illustrating scenes of a formal banquet, a party dance and skaters,. Below the illustrations was the legend "A Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year to You."

Later another Englishman, Henry Cole, commissioned the artist John Calott Horsely, a member of the Royal Academy, to paint an illustration which ultimately depicted a Victorian family gathered around the holiday table, in addition to depicting customs of giving to the poor. Cole had lithographed copies of Horsely's work struck off and mailed the cards out in December of 1846.

In 1874, Louis Prang printed the first American greeting cards in his lithograph shop in Boston. These cards were noted for their artistic quality and were sold all over the United States. Thus was begun a holiday tradition which is now an accepted part of the season .

Business 'Fair' In '63 And Outlook Unchanged

Business leaders of the community responded with "fair to good" in reply to questions on the volume of business so far in 1963 and saw no drastic change ahead for the economy (local and national) in the year ahead.

For at least one industry, American Timber Homes, Inc., this was indeed a good year. The firm led the industrial growth parade in manufacturing in the mid-Upper Peninsula, doubling its output of recreation type housing in 1963.

"We expect to more than double our production of timber homes in 1964," said President John Walbridge "and we may go to four or five times as much."

Better In 1964?

October, normally a dull month in the timber home business was the best month of the year for the new firm this year, in which it greatly enlarged its dealer network. It sells throughout the Midwest and South and on the East Coast.

Its northern white cedar homes are treated with preservatives so they need no painting and their construction is in modules with pillar and panel assembly. The second home, or vacation home trend in America has boomed the business and its do-it-yourself assembly plan for Timber Homes has helped make them widely popular.

American Timber Homes' sister company, Early American Fence Co. reported a good year in 1963, with sales about the same as a year ago and with prospects good for 1964. Sales of saunas—Finnish steam bath units or cabins—also increased in 1963.

Birds Eye Veneer Co. reported its production about the same as a year ago and with better business expected in 1964, said President Russell Lee. The firm, one of the oldest wood industries in the Upper Peninsula and a producer of fine veneers, operates mills in Escanaba and Marquette.

Outlook Hopeful

It exports some veneer but most of its sales are domestic, and like other American veneer and plywood firms it has been under heavy competitive pressures from overseas producers. Japan has been the great exporter, but in 1963 Japanese hardwood veneer imports dropped from 67 to 49 pct. of the U. S. import market. Korea and Thailand, which had only 3 pct. of the important market here three years ago jumped to over 21 pct. this year.

Yellow birch continues the No. 1 wood for Birds Eye veneer manufacture. It employs 160 persons in Escanaba and Marquette.

Harnischfeger Corp. in Escanaba had a year that was "fairly good" from the volume standpoint, said Raymond O. Fish, manager. The firm's two plants are centers for the manufacturing of truck cranes and welding machines and provide employment to upwards of 1,000.

Next year's business? About the same volume level. The receiving of an $800,000 order for welding machines from the U. S. Procurement Office will "have a stabilizing influence but it will not result in a change in the employment level."

National Policy

Production of the 380 machines is expected to begin next July with delivery to be completed within a year. Jack Williams, plant superintendent, said the contract represents in excess of two months full production at the welding machines plant here, which employs approximately 100 people.

The death of President John F. Kennedy and the succession to the office by President Lyndon B. Johnson is not expected to materially alter the nation's business climate in the opinion of Fish. "This is purely speculation on my part," he added. He views President Johnson as somewhat more conservative.

Business is about equal in volume this year as last for the Escanaba Division of Mead Corp., said George S. Douglas, Division manager.

"While the total volume is the same, the character is different. Last year it started off slowly and then picked up; this year business has been steady throughout."

That Profit Squeeze

Major problem confronting the industry in 1964? The same as for most business and industry throughout the nation: The profit squeeze. Costs of production keep right on rising. The cost of labor for example goes up about 3 per cent per year.

Rising costs catch industry in a squeeze that can be relieved only by increased income—and this must come in higher prices paid by the consumer. This is the major problem facing private enterprise.

The business year at the Marble Corporation in Gladstone saw slight changes during the past year. Les Bryant, general manager of the firm, said the unit volume of shipping remained steady, but that the dollar volume was down.

"This," said Bryant, "means that while we shipped the same volume as the previous we actually received less dollarwise because of competitions from other firms." He said this was particularly true in the motor department of the corporation.

Employment Unchanged

Comparing the firm's business activities with 1962, Bryant said there was little change in the 24-month period. The Marble Corp. is operating on a 5-day week. However, there has been a good portion of overtime this year compared with 1962. The employment figure also remains the same as last year.

Discussing the outlook for the coming year, Bryant said all indications are that it will be a good year. This he attributed to the fact that the firm is now owned by IT&T (International Telephone & Telegraph).

The shipping of iron ore, the business on which the Escanaba economy was founded 100 years ago, continues into the second century on a note of optimism voiced by Chicago & North Western Railway spokesmen.

The North Western Railway has operated its docks continuously in loading ore hauled here by rail from iron mines distant more than 200 miles. Most of the ore comes from the nearby Menominee Range, some from Marquette and some from the Gogebic mines.

More Pellet Ore

"This will be a good year here in ore shipping with the tonnage total going over 5,000,000," said L. A. McMillan, dock agent. "Last year's total was 4,771,782 tons. Anytime we go above five million tons it's a good year for us."

Before the shipping season closes this year (tentatively Dec. 12 for the last boat to load) the North Western will have loaded out 800,000 tons of pellet ore. This ore, the product of beneficiation of low grade ores, will grow in volume and the total in 1964 is expected to reach 1,250,000 tons at Escanaba, McMillan said.

The pellets come from the Hanna Mining Co. Groveland plant at Randville 14 miles northeast of Iron Mountain: Pellet ore has a uniform iron analysis, is dry, and is handled at less cost than the regular ore, which is wet and often freezes in the cars and dock pockets in late fall. Regular ore must also be mixed at the dock because it lacks the uniformity of pellet ore.

This year pellet ore will be shipped to finish off the late season, ending the necessity of thawing frozen ore or operating the C&NW's new infrared thawing facility.

McMillan says the outlook is favorable for an increasing volume of pellet ore in the years ahead, not only from the plant at Randville but other plants now being completed to the north in the Marquette range.

Stress Economy In Design For Franklin School

Economy compatible with comfort and efficiency has been emphasized in planning the new Franklin School building which will be voted on Dec. 16, the Rotary Club was told at its meeting Monday noon at the House of Ludington.

The financing proposal, a bond issue of $270,000 to be retired in 16 years at the tax rate of 45 cents per $1,000 assessed valuation, may be voted on only by owners of real estate on the tax rolls in the Escanaba Area Public Schools District.

The district is composed of the City of Escanaba and the Townships of Wells, Ford River and Cornell.

Propositions to replace the Franklin building have twice been defeated in the past. This will be the first time, however, that the question of replacement is the only proposition on the ballot.

Selfish Viewpoint?

Dr. Vernon K. Johnson, chairman of the Franklin School building proposal information committee, said that "opposition" has already been expressed by the spokesman for a group that in the past has also opposed other school and public bond issues.

"When they oppose every issue that comes up, I think it's time to stand back and take a look to see if their opposition is only from their own selfish viewpoint," said Dr. Johnson.

The rooms in the buildings are of the size recommended by the state; the total cost could have been somewhat reduced but this would mean leaving out such essentials as ventilation and thermopane windows, now considered standard in the construction of schools for the comfort of the children.

Dr. Johnson noted that in the last election to replace the Franklin School a sinking fund plan of financing was offered. This was rejected by the voters. Now a sinking fund is suggested, Dr. Johnson said.

District Problem

"If the Board of Education had offered a sinking fund this time they would have opposed it," he said. "It appears they will oppose anything we propose."

Claude Bohn, father of three boys who should be attending the Franklin but must attend other schools, asked for cooperation of voters of the district in solving the school building problem. Bohn is coordinating chairman for the bond election.

He pleaded for understanding among the school voters in realizing that their combined interests are involved in replacoing old elementary schools and improving existing buildings. "What is good for one part of the district is a help to all parts," he said. The Area district has made it possible to have a better educational program for the benefit of the children, he pointed out.

Dr. William Hemes, president of the school board, said the building is designed by G. Arntzen Architects of Escanaba and the plan evolved from conferences with teachers and staff and that it is "economical, safe and functional."

Need Every Room

There will be nine classrooms, a multi-purpose room and space for storage, library, and work space for teachers. Walls will be concrete block with exterior brick and floors will be concrete. The rooms are the minimum size recommended by the state; heating will be by city steam to save the cost of boilers and heating plant; and insulating glass will be used for windows to save on heating costs and to provide comfort for the children.

"The building is not too big," he said. "There is a need for every room. It would be poor planning to build one too small. The building is designed so that an addition can be made in the future if that is required."

The proposition, only one on the ballot, is "a step at a time" toward solution of the elementary building needs of the schools in the district, he said. These building problems must be solved. "We ask the voters to stand with the school board in this proposition for the sake of the children," Dr. Hemes added.

Memorials

The suggestion that gifts to the memory of the late President John F. Kennedy be addressed to the Delta County Chapter of the Michigan Association for Retarded Children was made by Dr. Thomas F. McInerney to the Rotary Club. Memorial gifts may be addressed to the Retarded Children, Box 157, Escanaba.

Heart Warned Johnson In 1955

By JOHN BARBOUR
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON (AP)—It isn't likely that President Johnson ever will forget that July day in 1955 as his car rolled through the Virginia countryside.

He had been working hard. As majority leader of the Senate under a Republican president, he was known as a master persuader.

Already there was talk about the Democratic nomination for president.

Now—on this Saturday, July 2, he was bound for the Middleburg, Va., home of a friend. Suddenly it came—the severe pain in the chest.

Gives Up Smoking

There was the emergency examination by a local doctor who diagnosed a heart attack, then the quick trip to the Naval hospital in Bethesda, Md., and the life-saving work of doctors.

A few days later, a fellow senator said doctors told him the 46-year-old Johnson had almost died: "The first few hours were extremely serious."

During his convalescence, the senator was probably a model patient.

He accepted the facts of the case well and did something about them. A chain-smoker, he quit smoking. Weighing about 220 pounds, he dieted—and in a few months was down to about 175.

His convalescence progressed from the hospital to his Washington home to his Texas ranch.

At his ranch, he began a careful regimen of exercise—short walks morning and afternoon.

Doctors then set about redesigning the life of Lyndon Johnson as much as the man's personality would premit.

The regular checkups every month spelled out the spectacular recovery. Blood pressure normal. Pulse normal, x-rays showed no enlargement of the heart that would indicate it was compensating for some vital damage. Electrocardiographs returned to normal, showing the heart had recovered its regularity of function.

His wife, Lady Bird, helped by sharing his rigid diet.

On Dec. 14, one of his doctors was able to report:

"Senator Johnson is now active and his reactions to activity are normal."

By the end of the year, the doctors had spelled the conditions under which he could operate. Those conditions included frequent short vacations of two or three days taken throughout the year. Would he have another heart attack?

Said Dr. James C. Cain of the Mayo Clinic, a personal friend of the senator: "He does not have to have another. Because he has had one, he's not destined to have a second."

Anyone who has had a heart attack lives with the fact of it.

Relaxes Hard

But Johnson has picked up his vigorous life, and has met unusual stresses without apparent ill effect.

A friend agreed that while he works hard, he relaxes hard too.

In the eight years since Johnson suffered his heart attack, he has led an active life.

Perhaps the reason is that any heart attack victim, being forewarned is being forearmed—and the warning is hard to forget.

Seek Advice For Buying Diamonds

Are you planning to give any diamonds this Christmas? If so, you'll want the best possible "buy."

Unless you're an expert on precious stones, your best place for the best buy in diamonds is your family jeweler's, or any reputable jeweler's. A jeweler's knowledge of gems and his sound advice will assure that you get the best diamonds for your dollars.

Diamonds are highly individual, and so are their prices. Carat weight (size), color, clarity and cut go together to determine the price of a diamond, and each stone has a different combination of these Four-C's.

Look at as many diamonds as possible, and ask your jeweler to point out the Four-C's of each. Tell him how much money you want to spend, and he'll show you the different Four-C combinations—in diamonds—that you can buy for that amount.

Carat weight is the standard measure of size in diamonds. A carat is so light it takes 142 carats to make an ounce. It is divided into 100 points, like cents in a dollar. When you see .47 on a tag that means the diamond is three points under half a carat.

But remember that carats measure weight and not area. Diamonds of different shapes may have the same carat weight but appear to be of different sizes because of their different areas.

Color, the second "C," affects price, too. The finest color in diamonds is no color—crystal clear. Any tinge of yellow or brown lowers the price even though it may not affect the beauty of the stone.

Diamonds of strong color such as red, green, brown, pink and even lavender are higher priced than "white" diamonds because of their rarity.

A diamond is labeled "blue-white" only if it shows no traces of color other than blue. It is incorrect to use the term "blue-white" to describe a diamond which is actually white or tinged with other color.

Clarity refers to freedom from flaws or imperfections; tiny "bubbles" or carbon spots which lower the price of the diamond, but they may not detract from the gem's beauty if they are too small to be seen by the naked eye.

What is a flawless diamond? One which shows no flaws when studied under a glass that magnifies ten times.

Cut has two meanings; it refers to the shape of the stone and also to the skill with which the tiny facets (planes) were ground on to the diamond for the maximum sparkle. If angles between the facets are not accurately cut, the diamond will not handle light properly so that it produces a brilliant blaze of light.

Diamonds for engagement rings comes in four basic shapes and two fancy shapes.

A round diamond, often called a brilliant-cut, is popular as a solitaire (single stone) ring.

An emerald-cut has straight sides and comes in oblong or square contours.

The pear-shape is wide at one end and taper sto a point at the other.

A marquise resembles a boat with a point on either end.

Heart-shape and oval diamonds are fancy cuts often set as center stones in engagement rings.

Baguettes are small diamonds in rectangular or taper-er shapes and are generally set as side stones in rings holding large center diamonds.

More people get more news from newspapers than from all other sources combined.

Never Too Late To Make Music

Christmas is an ideal time to start an adult on a musical pastime. Since it is never too late to learn, the gift of a musical instrument can be the beginning of an interesting spare-time activity or the stimulus for a more time - consuming hobby for retirement years.

Music-making provides an outlet for creative abilities, and a musical instrument offers adults direct opportunity for self-expression, whether they are beginners or once studied music.

Judging from the 23,500,000 adults now playing musical instruments in this country, musical interest is reaching an all-time high among the over-30 set

One reason for the increasing popularity of music-making is the current appeal of easy-to-learn, easy-to-play instruments.

Consider gift possibilities of fretted instruments . . . guitar, banjo, mandolin and ukelele . . all easily adaptable to beginners' efforts.

Organs, accordions and recorders are becoming favorites among adult musicians. The organ, in particular, is enjoying great popularity as families across the nation make this instrument the center of their musical gatherings, singing along while Mom or Dad accompanies.

Along with ease of learning, these so-called "recreational" instruments have other virtues. Most of them are portable, relatively inexpensive and ideal for vocal accompaniment. Interestingly enough, the strumming of three different chords on a fretted instrument such as the guitar provides all the accompaniment necessary for hundreds of songs.

Prices of these instruments range from $4 for a ukelele to $4,000 for an organ. In between these extremes of course there is a wide range of prices for good-quality instruments . . and for all family budgets: a ukelele costs from $4 to $50; portable chord organ from $75 to $300; 12-bass accordions from $100 to $150; recorders from $5 to $80; that folk-music favorite, the guitar, $20 to $800.

New, lower-priced console organs now on the market make it possible for more people to own these major instruments. The price range is now $495 to $4,000.

Toyland Mirrors Modern World

This year's toyland is fully in step with the fast pace of the contemporary world. Under the Christmas tree, junior will be building a sky scraper with a helicopter landing and monorail facilities. Space play has matured from science fiction to science fact.

Besides a variety of play items keyed to the latest developments in rocketry, a whole new array of science-oriented kits are keyed to the study of the earth and atmosphere in up-to-the-minute research terms, reports Mel Freud, president of Toy Guidance Council.

Even the computer age has impact on 1963 toylands. A digital computer that solves problems is being featured for under five dollars to provide basic training for tomorrow's expert in critical path scheduling.

The affluent American home is reproduced in faithful miniature down to a well designed dog house and a power mower. Among the ingenious playroom off-shoots of dad's do-it-yourself hobbies is a kit of miniature power tools geared for purposeful activity by junior and safe against cutting hazards, according to Toy Guidance Council.

A new thrill for homemaking play is a magnetized doll house in which an entire family and pets can be moved around realistically by manipulation of a magnetized wand placed under the floor of the doll house. This will give Junior and his sister a chance to order the family routine at will. There's an automatic can opener and a spin dry washing machine for the well equipped play room kitchen.

A resurgence of interest in military material is evident, too, in the new top showings. An army engineer's set of heavy gauge steel provides purposeful equipment for the building of airfields or army encampments and military highways.

And, there's an operating sand hopper. This set includes working models of the latest style in road construction equipment.

New in the military lineup is a cannon that fires only when a command is spoken. New ideas in planes and missiles closely follow the newest equipment of the U. S. armed services.

Toyland abounds in new playroom equipment beamed to interest junior and his sister in basic training for professions or business.

Incentive for the young automotive engineer is provided by an ingenious Cub Set of heavy gauge steel which gives junior the opportunity to custom design a number of smart looking cars by interchanging parts.

There's a station wagon produced by inserting a special roof. Without the roof and doors a racing car emerges. Another switch and junior has a pickup truck ready for service.

The amazing world of plastics has been translated into purposeful playroom operation, too. Extrusion molding, for example, can be carried out purposefully by the junior businessman.

Side by side with highly practical replicas of the latest developments in science and industry is a wide variety of toys keyed to history and fantasy.

Although the hurdy gurdy has almost disappeared from city streets, there are intriguing new hurdy gurdy toys. The newest version of this classic music maker encourages the youngsters to compose their own tunes on a music roll by inserting pegs. The roller activites small hammers that tap out notes on colorful metal bars.

A novel addition to toyland's musical toy array is a razz-ma-tazz piano which enables any youngster to play a dozen familiar tunes immediately. Interchangeable music rolls, each with six different songs, are placed in the back of the instrument. A lever in front of the keyboard permits selection of the tunes. Then each time the keyboard is struck, a different note sounds. Continuous action produces a complete tune. Keys are exposed for viewing.

Among the surprises keyed to science is a novel car which demonstrates solar energy. This comes in kit form, planned for easy assembly without glue or soldering. When assembled, the battery powered car can be started, stopped and speed controlled by tracking the beam of an ordinary flashlight on the vehicle's built in solar cell.

Make Yourself Whimsical Tree

All you need, to make your own distinctive Christmas cards, is a little artistic talent lots of spare time, plenty of patience and some scraps of cloth!

If you have these things then this article is for you.

The first step is to select the envelope. It's much easier to cut your cards to fit the envelopes than to have to make or try to find envelopes to fit your cards.

Start with a nice piece of card-weight paper, folded in half so your message can be written inside.

Next, sketch or trace the design you like (keep it very simple) onto a piece of tracing paper. Then transfer the sketch to your card by means of carbon paper. Try to keep the pencil lines light.

Now you're ready to cut the pieces of fabric that you will paste into position on the card. To do this, use the original design and trace the section you want on the back side of the fabric. Cut out and paste into place.

Small feathers, beads, braids, woven tapes, lace and doilies can be used, too. Just make sure that you use a good glue

FOR TEENS

Records and books are good choices for almost all teens, boy or girl. The important thing is to keep in mind the type of teen you're gifting.

Retail Chairman John Lasnoski announced that overhead Christmas Street lighting would be in readiness for the formal Christmas opening of Escanaba stores on Friday, Nov. 29, the day after Thanksgiving. This year's lighting will see a return to the popular evergreen lighted garlands on Ludington St., with the lanterns being used at the west end of the city.

Menominee Group Begins Plan For JFK Memorial

MENOMINEE — Thirty persons including business and governmental heads from the city and county met in the Falk Hotel this week with intentions of establishing a memorial to the late President John F. Kennedy.

George Beaudoin of Stephenson was named temporary chairman and Mrs. Mott Stanchfield of Menominee was named temporary secretary.

The group discussed suggestions for a memorial including one to the mental health program which was a Kennedy favorite.

'Tolerance Day' Named Nov. 22

KALAMAZOO (AP) — Setting aside Nov. 22 as "National Tolerance Day was urged Tuesday by Municipal Court Judge Clark M. Olmstead "so that President Kennedy's saceifice shall be a continuing reminder of the work to be done by us."

The judge said he was sending copies of his proposal to president Johnson and to Michigan congressmen.

He suggested establishment of "appropriate local and national committees" to work out details and said fund-raising should be "commenced immediately to provide necessary financial basis for such an undertaking."

SPEED UP DRESSING

A well-organized closet can help get you out to the office faster on weekday mornings. Have accessories handy in transparent or clearly labeled boxes, and hang your clothes in transparent plastic bags so that they can be easily seen.

BEFORE EVEN entering a house, holiday goers see the welcome sign of Christmas on doorways. This Christmas wreath was designed from pine cones and clusters of tiny balls.

Cards Date Back To 1842

Today we take the sending and receiving of Christmas cards as a matter of course. Actually, they didn't come into existence until the 19th century. Prior to that, no one thought of greeting friends and family at Yuletide through cards.

It remained for a sixteen-year-old English engraving apprentice, William Maw Egley, to design a card in 1842 illustrating scenes of a formal banquet, a party dance and skaters,. Below the illustrations was the legend "A Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year to You."

Later another Englishman, Henry Cole, commissioned the artist John Calott Horsely, a member of the Royal Academy, to paint an illustration which ultimately depicted a Victorian family gathered around the holiday table, in addition to depicting customs of giving to the poor. Cole had lithographed copies of Horsely's work struck off and mailed the cards out in December of 1846.

In 1874, Louis Prang printed the first American greeting cards in his lithograph shop in Boston. These cards were noted for their artistic quality and were sold all over the United States. Thus was begun a holiday tradition which is now an accepted part of the season .

Christmas Seals For Decorating

Everyone is eager to use Christmas seals on envelopes and packages at Christmastime because they know that by using them they are helping a most worthy cause. However, it is possible to put those seals to other decorative uses as well.

Christmas Door

You can make your door into a huge Christmas package by pinning wide strips of red satiny material to all four sides, and drawing them together into a great bow, adding ornaments and holly for color contrast.

Whatever the materials you decide upon for your decorations, make sure they are sturdy and can be fastened securely. If your entrance is unprotected, weatherproof your designs with a coating of clear shellac or use water-resistant materials such as oilcloth.

OXFORD'S ORIGIN

There are several traditions concerning the origin of Oxford University, but there are no genuine records of the existence of a school at this place before 1167.

A Daily Press want ad can do a big job for you.

Why not decorate your tree with Christmas Seals . . . the design for this year is colorful, as always, and will provide a wonderful touch.

For instance, you might try taping a row of seals around the center of your solid-color bulbs as an attractive trim.

Or, you can cut bulb shapes out of cardboard, cover them with seals and hang them with string on branches for unique, colorful ornaments.

If you're really ambitious, try designing a Christmas scene on a poster board with seals, to create an unusual holiday decoration.

Indicate a simple drawing with a holiday theme, such as a reindeer or an angel, in pencil, then follow the outlines with seals. Place seals along border of your design to frame it. Set in one of your windows or over the mantel for an eye-catching display.

When wrapping, instead of tying ribbons around some of your gifts, try outlining a ribbon and bow with seals for an attractive design. For best effect, use a solid-color paper that matches any of the colors in this year's seal.

You may think of other ways of using Christmas seals in holiday decorations . . . do use them!

THE USE OF artificial greens, berries and gaily decorated balls can create a wreath such as this for use either on doors or in large windows. (Daily Press Photo)

How To Select A Man's Pipe

A most pleasurable solution to your gift-giving problems this Christmas will be found in the wide selection of pipes and smoking tobacco which will fill tobacconists' shelves this yaer.

Buying a pipe for the man, or men, on your list will not only prove a pleasant surprise for him come Christmas morn, but will give you an interesting and enjoyable shopping experience because of the great variety of shapes, sizes and colors that meet your eye and the attractively - packaged smoking tobaccos to accompany them.

According to the Pipe and Tobacco Council, more than half of the pipes sold for gifts are purchased by women. The Council suggests that you give careful thought to your pipe purchase and consult with your local tobacconist to help you choose the most appropriate style for the man you are trying to please.

Here are some tips from the Council: If he's a tall man choose a long stemmed, large-bowled pipe. Shorter men look well with a small bowl. Curved stems are popular with students who are heavy readers and sandblast bowls suit the outdoorsman.

In smoking tobaccos, there is a wide selection of aromatic and non-aromatic blends, all attractively packaged in materials which assure freshness. A new smoker or a younger man will usually prefer the aromatic sweet-smelling tobacco, while the older, inveterate pipe smoker will welcome the heavier non-aromatic flavors. There are also blending kits available for those who like to experiment with their own mixtures.

If the man on your list is a pipe collector there are many unusual shapes and specially carved bowls to please him. There is also a large selection of enjoyable corn cobs and aluminum shanked briars.

In addition, buying him a pipe will lead to a variety of accessories to solve your gift problems for a long time to come. While pipe and tobacco hunting in your local shops you will see many beautiful humidors, pipe racks, pouches and other pipe smoking accompaniments which any man will appreciate and value. As you see the man of the house lighting up his new Christmas briar, the feeling of peaceful relaxation seems to epitomize the meaning of the Christmas season.

Seek Advice For Buying Diamonds

Are you planning to give any diamonds this Christmas? If so, you'll want the best possible "buy."

Unless you're an expert on precious stones, your best place for the best buy in diamonds is your family jeweler's, or any reputable jeweler's. A jeweler's knowledge of gems and his sound advice will assure that you get the best diamonds for your dollars.

Diamonds are highly individual, and so are their prices. Carat weight (size), color, clarity and cut go together to determine the price of a diamond, and each stone has a different combination of these Four-C's.

Look at as many diamonds as possible, and ask your jeweler to point out the Four-C's of each. Tell him how much money you want to spend, and he'll show you the different Four-C combinations—in diamonds—that you can buy for that amount.

Carat weight is the standard measure of size in diamonds. A carat is so light it takes 142 carats to make an ounce. It is divided into 100 points, like cents in a dollar. When you see .47 on a tag that means the diamond is three points under half a carat.

But remember that carats measure weight and not area. Diamonds of different shapes may have the same carat weight but appear to be of different sizes because of their different areas.

Color, the second "C," affects price, too. The finest color in diamonds is no color—crystal clear. Any tinge of yellow or brown lowers the price even though it may not affect the beauty of the stone.

Diamonds of strong color such as red, green, brown, pink and even lavender are higher priced than "white" diamonds because of their rarity.

A diamond is labeled "blue-white" only if it shows no traces of color other than blue. It is incorrect to use the term "blue-white" to describe a diamond which is actually white or tinged with other color.

Clarity refers to freedom from flaws or imperfections; tiny "bubbles" or carbon spots which lower the price of the diamond, but they may not detract from the gem's beauty if they are too small to be seen by the naked eye.

What is a flawless diamond? One which shows no flaws when studied under a glass that magnifies ten times.

Cut has two meanings; it refers to the shape of the stone and also to the skill with which the tiny facets (planes) were ground on to the diamond for the maximum sparkle. If angles between the facets are not accurately cut, the diamond will not handle light properly so that it produces a brilliant blaze of light.

Diamonds for engagement rings comes in four basic shapes and two fancy shapes.

A round diamond, often called a brilliant-cut, is popular as a solitaire (single stone) ring.

An emerald-cut has straight sides and comes in oblong or square contours.

The pear-shape is wide at one end and taper sto a point at the other.

A marquise resembles a boat with a point on either end.

Heart-shape and oval diamonds are fancy cuts often set as center stones in engagement rings.

Baguettes are small diamonds in rectangular or taperer shapes and are generally set as side stones in rings holding large center diamonds.

More people get more news from newspapers than from all other sources combined.

Never Too Late To Make Music

Christmas is an ideal time to start an adult on a musical pastime. Since it is never too late to learn, the gift of a musical instrument can be the beginning of an interesting spare-time activity or the stimulus for a more time - consuming hobby for retirement years.

Music-making provides an outlet for creative abilities, and a musical instrument offers adults direct opportunity for self-expression, whether they are beginners or once studied music.

Judging from the 23,500,000 adults now playing musical instruments in this country, musical interest is reaching an all-time high among the over-30 set

One reason for the increasing popularity of music-making is the current appeal of easy-to-learn, easy-to-play instruments.

Consider gift possibilities of fretted instruments . . . guitar, banjo, mandolin and ukelele . . all easily adaptable to beginners' efforts.

Organs, accordions and recorders are becoming favorites among adult musicians. The organ, in particular, is enjoying great popularity as families across the nation make this instrument the center of their musical gatherings, singing along while Mom or Dad accompanies.

Along with ease of learning, these so-called "recreational" instruments have other virtues. Most of them are portable, relatively inexpensive and ideal for vocal accompaniment. Interestingly enough, the strumming of three different chords on a fretted instrument such as the guitar provides all the accompaniment necessary for hundreds of songs.

Prices of these instruments range from $4 for a ukelele to $4,000 for an organ. In between these extremes of course there is a wide range of prices for good-quality instruments . . and for all family budgets: a ukelele costs from $4 to $50; portable chord organ from $75 to $300; 12-bass accordions from $100 to $150; recorders from $5 to $80; that folk-music favorite, the guitar, $20 to $800.

New, lower-priced console organs now on the market make it possible for more people to own these major instruments. The price range is now $495 to $4,000.

Toyland Mirrors Modern World

This year's toyland is fully in step with the fast pace of the contemporary world. Under the Christmas tree, junior will be building a sky scraper with a helicopter landing and monorail facilities. Space play has matured from science fiction to science fact.

Besides a variety of play items keyed to the latest developments in rocketry, a whole new array of science-oriented kits are keyed to the study of the earth and atmosphere in up-to-the-minute research terms, reports Mel Freud, president of Toy Guidance Council.

Even the computer age has impact on 1963 toylands. A digital computer that solves problems is being featured for under five dollars to provide basic training for tomorrow's expert in critical path scheduling.

The affluent American home is reproduced in faithful miniature down to a well designed dog house and a power mower. Among the ingenious playroom off-shoots of dad's do-it-yourself hobbies is a kit of miniature power tools geared for purposeful activity by junior and safe against cutting hazards, according to Toy Guidance Council.

A new thrill for homemaking play is a magnetized doll house in which an entire family and pets can be moved around realistically by manipulation of a magnetized wand placed under the floor of the doll house. This will give Junior and his sister a chance to order the family routine at will. There's an automatic can opener and a spin dry washing machine for the well equipped play room kitchen.

A resurgence of interest in military material is evident, too, in the new top showings. An army engineer's set of heavy gauge steel provides purposeful equipment for the building of airfields or army encampments and military highways.

And, there's an operating sand hopper. This set includes working models of the latest style in road construction equipment.

New in the military lineup is a cannon that fires only when a command is spoken. New ideas in planes and missiles closely follow the newest equipment of the U. S. armed services.

Toyland abounds in new playroom equipment beamed to interest junior and his sister in basic training for professions or business.

Incentive for the young automotive engineer is provided by an ingenious Cub Set of heavy gauge steel which gives junior the opportunity to custom design a number of smart looking cars by interchanging parts.

There's a station wagon produced by inserting a special roof. Without the roof and doors a racing car emerges. Another switch and junior has a pickup truck ready for service.

The amazing world of plastics has been translated into purposeful playroom operation, too. Extrusion molding, for example, can be carried out purposefully by the junior businessman.

Side by side with highly practical replicas of the latest developments in science and industry is a wide variety of toys keyed to history and fantasy.

Although the hurdy gurdy has almost disappeared from city streets, there are intriguing new hurdy gurdy toys. The newest version of this classic music maker encourages the youngsters to compose their own tunes on a music roll by inserting pegs. The roller activites small hammers that tap out notes on colorful metal bars.

A novel addition to toyland's musical toy array is a razz-ma-tazz piano which enables any youngster to play a dozen familiar tunes immediately. Interchangeable music rolls, each with six different songs, are placed in the back of the instrument. A lever in front of the keyboard permits selection of the tunes. Then each time the keyboard is struck, a different note sounds. Continuous action produces a complete tune. Keys are exposed for viewing.

Among the surprises keyed to science is a novel car which demonstrates solar energy. This comes in kit form, planned for easy assembly without glue or soldering. When assembled, the battery powered car can be started, stopped and speed controlled by tracking the beam of an ordinary flashlight on the vehicle's built in solar cell.

Make Yourself Whimsical Tree

All you need, to make your own distinctive Christmas cards, is a little artistic talent lots of spare time, plenty of patience and some scraps of cloth!

If you have these things then this article is for you.

The first step is to select the envelope. It's much easier to cut your cards to fit the envelopes than to have to make or try to find envelopes to fit your cards.

Start with a nice piece of card-weight paper, folded in half so your message can be written inside.

Next, sketch or trace the design you like (keep it very simple) onto a piece of tracing paper. Then transfer the sketch to your card by means of carbon paper. Try to keep the pencil lines light.

Now you're ready to cut the pieces of fabric that you will paste into position on the card. To do this, use the original design and trace the section you want on the back side of the fabric. Cut out and paste into place.

Small feathers, beads, braids, woven tapes, lace and doilies can be used, too. Just make sure that you use a good glue

FOR TEENS

Records and books are good choices for almost all teens, boy or girl. The important thing is to keep in mind the type of teen you're gifting.

Fisherman May Like Outboard

To ardent fishermen, the next angling outing is always just around the corner — even in the midst of winter. If Dad likes fishing, an outboard motor represents an ideal Christmas present. Just watch him begin planning his first early spring fishing trip.

When shopping for an outboard motor, several factors should be considered.

If you don't already know, a bit of sleuthing will turn up Dad's favorite lake and the type of fishing he prefers — trolling, exploring the weedy areas, drift and still fishing or surface plugging.

The outboard motors most frequently used for fishing include those with horsepower ratings of 3½, 7½, 9½ and 14. The particular one for Dad depends on several factors.

If he likes to troll, select a motor that will idle for long periods of time and perform well at slow speeds.

If he fishes in a large lake, a 14 horsepower outboard motor would be a good choice. With it, he can cover long distances in a short time and have more fishing hours.

Many fishermen seek out weedy areas for the bigger fish. Weeds used to play havoc with standard outboard motors, but now special weedless versions are available, specially designed to shear smoothly through such patches.

An important point to consider is weight. Dad will appreciate an outboard motor which he can carry easily to and from his car and one which can be stowed compactly in the trunk with the rest of his gear.

Many outboard motors feature a full gear shift, allowing Dad to shift into forward, neutral or reverse for maneuvering in small coves and close areas.

Outboard motors, much like automobiles, are constantly being improved. A new feature may be just the thing that will appeal to Dad.

Get Insurance For Gift Auto

Is there a new automobile in your Christmas - gift picture this year?

If so, you will probably visit several automobile showrooms, searching for the best deal on a new car. But just as you compare car prices, you should also compare financing and insurance costs.

It is possible to save on a purchase simply by careful attention to insurance and finance rates.

First, financing should be checked. Because seven out of ten people borrow money for car purchases, it is likely that you will be making some financing arrangements. Since it costs money to borrow, an interest rate or finance charge is added to the borrowed sum.

The interest on borrowed funds is determined by such factors as the type of institution lending the money, borrower's credit rating, amount being borrowed and length of time for repayment. Interest rates are regulated by law.

A finance charge, on the other hand, is sometimes not regulated by law and is the amount of money added to the price of an item when the item is bought on time payments. Therefore, the amount of a finance charge can often be determined solely by the lending agent.

In a recent nine-city survey by the University of Chicago on comparative finance costs, it was shown that in New York City many buyers achieved savings of between $36 and $86 on the $2,000.00 financing of a new car merely by shopping for the best place to get auto financing.

More people get more news from newspapers than from all other sources combined.

Give Him Luggage

If the man at the top of your gift list is a problem, pack up your troubles in a new leather bag and he'll smile, smile, smile on Christmas morning.

Practical and elegant, leather luggage is a sure-fire manpleasing gift this Yule season. The odds are he'll take a business trip, a long week-end or a full vacation and needs spacious, durable and lightweight leather bags.

With a great variety in size and style available, masculine leather luggage can be found to fit most any purse. In the luxury class, there are matched sets of soil and scratch resistant smooth leather bags which include an overnighter, a two-suiter and a 26-inch case. You can add other matched pieces like a club bag—which packs at the top—as the need or occasion arises.

If his job calls for short trips to distant points, you'd be wise to select a leather "carryon," a compact bag designed to fit under the seat of a plane or tuck into the trunk of a compact car.

One practical new piece called a "shuttle bag" is a soft-sided combination of an overnight bag in the middle with two side pouches for papers and flat articles.

Modern flyway leather cases add almost nothing to the weight of his clothes—an asset at the airlines weighing - in counter. And with the shortage of porters at train stations and airports, he'll bless your thoughtfulness when he lifts the balanced weight of a modern lightweight leather case.

At his destination a bright, elegant leather bag will underscore a successful appearance. New developments in leather manufacture keep the modern leather bags free of stains and scratches, and scar - resistant longer. A damp sponge or even a paper towel will restore his leather case to brand new freshness.

An attache case in suntan, saddle or black leather is a smart traveling companion for any man. There are dozens of different styles to fit his needs. Many have a side compartment for a clean shirt or an accordion file for papers. The busy executive who works as he runs will find an attache case flipped on its side makes a satisfactory portable desk on plane or train.

Rings Are Top Yuletide Idea

The brightest star on the Christmas tree is a diamond engagement ring.

Most June brides get engaged at Christmas time. It's such a restive, sentimental season, and also the ideal time for giving diamonds.

In addition, Christmas brides grow more numerous every year, with the holiday season second only to June as the favorite wedding date, so the Christmas diamond is in high demand.

Whether it's a wedding or engagement ring, it's a once-in-a-lifetime gift that must be selected with care and with the aid of a fine jeweler, who can give expert advice on the choice of a perfect diamond.

The diamond solitaire is still the one top choice for an engagement ring, and it need not be a large stone to have brilliance and beauty. New "diamond point" white gold settings are almost as brilliant as the stone itself and can enhance the smallest diamond.

New and beautiful also are engagement and wedding ring combinations, designed to fit together so that the two can give the effect of one striking ring.

The combination of white gold and diamonds is always effective and popular, even more so this year in engagement and wedding rings.

Whatever the style, whatever the size, the gift that outshines them all is the Christmas diamond.

Christmas Seals For Decorating

Everyone is eager to use Christmas seals on envelopes and packages at Christmastime because they know that by using them they are helping a most worthy cause. However, it is possible to put those seals to other decorative uses as well.

Christmas Door

You can make your door into a huge Christmas package by pinning wide strips of red satiny material to all four sides, and drawing them together into a great bow, adding ornaments and holly for color contrast.

Whatever the materials you decide upon for your decorations, make sure they are sturdy and can be fastened securely. If your entrance is unprotected, weatherproof your designs with a coating of clear shellac or use water-resistant materials such as oilcloth.

OXFORD'S ORIGIN

There are several traditions concerning the origin of Oxford University, but there are no genuine records of the existence of a school at this place before 1167.

A Daily Press want ad can do a big job for you.

Why not decorate your tree with Christmas Seals . . . the design for this year is colorful, as always, and will provide a wonderful touch.

For instance, you might try taping a row of seals around the center of your solid-color bulbs as an attractive trim.

Or, you can cut bulb shapes out of cardboard, cover them with seals and hang them with string on branches for unique, colorful ornaments.

If you're really ambitious, try designing a Christmas scene on a poster board with seals, to create an unusual holiday decoration.

Indicate a simple drawing with a holiday theme, such as a reindeer or an angel, in pencil, then follow the outlines with seals. Place seals along border of your design to frame it. Set in one of your windows or over the mantel for an eye-catching display.

When wrapping, instead of tying ribbons around some of your gifts, try outlining a ribbon and bow with seals for an attractive design. For best effect, use a solid-color paper that matches any of the colors in this year's seal.

You may think of other ways of using Christmas seals in holiday decorations . . . do use them!

THE USE OF artificial greens, berries and gaily decorated balls can create a wreath such as this for use either on doors or in large windows. (Daily Press Photo)

How To Select A Man's Pipe

A most pleasurable solution to your gift-giving problems this Christmas will be found in the wide selection of pipes and smoking tobacco which will fill tobacconists' shelves this yaer.

Buying a pipe for the man, or men, on your list will not only prove a pleasant surprise for him come Christmas morn, but will give you an interesting and enjoyable shopping experience because of the great variety of shapes, sizes and colors that meet your eye and the attractively - packaged smoking tobaccos to accompany them.

According to the Pipe and Tobacco Council, more than half of the pipes sold for gifts are purchased by women. The Council suggests that you give careful thought to your pipe purchase and consult with your local tobacconist to help you choose the most appropriate style for the man you are trying to please.

Here are some tips from the Council: If he's a tall man choose a long stemmed, large-bowled pipe. Shorter men look well with a small bowl. Curved stems are popular with students who are heavy readers and sandblast bowls suit the outdoorsman.

In smoking tobaccos, there is a wide selection of aromatic and non-aromatic blends, all attractively packaged in materials which assure freshness. A new smoker or a younger man will usually prefer the aromatic sweet-smelling tobacco, while the older, inveterate pipe smoker will welcome the heavier non-aromatic flavors. There are also blending kits available for those who like to experiment with their own mixtures.

If the man on your list is a pipe collector there are many unusual shapes and specially carved bowls to please him. There is also a large selection of enjoyable corn cobs and aluminum shanked briars.

In addition, buying him a pipe will lead to a variety of accessories to solve your gift problems for a long time to come. While pipe and tobacco hunting in your local shops you will see many beautiful humidors, pipe racks, pouches and other pipe smoking accompaniments which any man will appreciate and value. As you see the man of the house lighting up his new Christmas briar, the feeling of peaceful relaxation seems to epitomize the meaning of the Christmas season.

Comfy Chairs Sure To Please Senior Citizen

chair is one of the most prized chair is oe of the most prized possessions of the senior citizen. And when chosen with forethought and care it makes a Christmas gift a Grandmother or Grandfather will appreciate every day of the year.

Here are a few pointers experts give on selecting a lounge chair for a person past the prime of life:

1. Tell the salesperson the height and weight of the person for whom the chair is intended. Older persons lose the ability to adapt to furniture that is not scaled for their dimensions. The proportions of the chair should permit the user to have adequate support for feet, back and neck without strain.

2. The chair should be styled to be gotten in and out of easily. Low sling loungers or molded plywood shells should be avoided as being too difficult to negotiate. It should be high enough off the ground to be sliped into without a sudden drop. And the seat should be no deeper than 21 or 22 inches. Arms should be high enough and forward enough for good leverage in rising.

3. Cushioning should give the user buoyant support without impeding circulation. Latex foam rubber cushions are recommended by many medical authorities as best suited for this purpose and they are used in many hospitals because they provide the utmost in restful comfort without impeding blood flow. Down and other 'sink-in" cushioning material should be avoided.

4. The back should be high enough for comfortable dozing and forward enough at the top for relaxed TV viewing. A small toss cushion to fill in with extra spine support is often a welcome addition to women's lounge chairs.

5. The chair must be stable in weight yet mobile enough to be easily moved for cleaning. A chair with casters that make it roll away at a touch is not to be recommended for the elderly who often lean on furniture when standing or walking.

6. A matching hassock or built-in foot rest is needed for maximum relaxation. A retractable foot rest does not become a stumbling block in a main traffic area and is therefore preferable to an oversize ottoman that sticks out into a room.

Al Jolson, musical comedy entertainer, was born in Russia in 1886, according to the Encyclopedia Britannica.

Select That Toy With Great Care

Who will use the toys? This question needs careful thought, if Santa's assistants are going to rate good marks for efficiency. Most of the errors in toy buying result from inattention to this basic point.

This advice comes from Dr. Mary Moffit of the Toy Guidance Council Educator Advisory Committee who notes that most inappropriate toy selections are made by harried shoppers who leave the procurement of gifts for the children on their lists to the last minute.

Playthings are vital tools of childhood — the tools which help youngsters to learn by doing, Dr. Moffit noted. The value of well chosen toys as basic aids to child development is so tremendous, that the selection of playthings should merit priority on the busiest shopper's list of activities.

The color and movement of many toys is enchanting to adults, Dr. Moffit notes. This is natural and grownups would be happier if they relaxed more by playing with toys. But this yearning for amusement should not be allowed to conflict with the very real need of children to have toys which are suited to their state of development.

No assistant Santa should be reticent about asking for information about the children on the gift list, Dr. Moffit states. Parents and even teachers can provide very helpful clues to the kind of toys which will fit special interests of individual children.

Safety is a most important rule of toy selection, Dr. Moffit notes, and here, the key is the choice of toy gifts that especially fit the age. The hobby kit that will be fine for a school age youngster will be dangerous in the hands of a kindergartner.

Most care, of course, should be exercised in the choice of toys for the baby. Since everything is likely to go mouthward, it is important to pick playthings which are safe to suck and which have no loose parts which might be swallowed. It is important, too, to remember that toys for baby should be light weight to avoid strain on developing muscles.

Babies are endeavoring to develop their sense of touch, so toys of different textures will be helpful. Musical toys help the cherub to develop his sense of hearing. Doting relatives will be wise to give careful attention to labels and instructions on boxes when picking toys for babies and toddlers as a double check on safety factors.

It is considerate to give thought to where a child lives too. If he has the run of a back yard play space, a garage or a basement playroom, then large scale toys and games will be appropriate gifts. If he lives in a small apartment, space problems will have to be weighed to determine a toy's utility.

When a large family must be remembered, it may be helpful to give playthings which can be used by different age groups together.

Welk Recovers

SANTA MONICA, Calif. (AP) —Lawrence Welk, 61, is recuperating satisfactorily from abdominal surgery, and a spokesman says the bandleader probably will remain in St. John's Hospital for about a week.

Count Those Calories In Holiday Fare

The juicy turkey . . . the flaming plum pudding . . . the Christmas cookies of many kinds . . . the hors d'oeuves that are served wherever you go—all these tempting taste treats are a threat to your waistline throughout the holiday season. And how can you enjoy the fun and food without putting on too many pounds of fat that nobody wants to have when starting the New Year?

This question is sure to come up in the chit-chat at the gay gatherings you go to, for more and more people are becoming concerned about being overweight. Not wanting to be haunted by post - Christmas bulges, they know that using a little will power to resist an extra helping of dessert may be a good New Year's resolution.

Planning holiday menus for your family and guests so they can eat what they want at parties and still keep a check on calories is now possible, thanks to today's formula diets.

Your between-party menus can allow a full measure of taste delights while still watching the calorie count. On a cold winter day, a bowl of piping hot cream-of-tomato soup provides a tasty, satisfying lunch. Or, to add the traditional holiday colors of red and green to your luncheon menu, try serving split pea soup with tomato aspic salad.

Drive Safely Over Holidays

Longer hours of darkness, more pedestrian activity, signs sometimes covered by snow, slippery streets and the excitement of shopping can lead to traffic accidents that may take the cheer out of your holiday.

December is filled with pre-Christmas activities that include shopping trips, drives to friends' homes, visiting relatives in other cities and many last-minute errands.

It is the most dangerous month for moter-vehicle deaths and every year avoidable accidents spoil many holiday celebrations.

With longer hours of darkness and heavier traffic the danger to both drivers and pedestrians is greatly increased. Whenever possible, night driving should be avoided and shopping excursions and trips to other cities should take place during the safer daylight hours.

In many parts of the country, bad weather makes streets and highways extremely hazardous during the holiday season. Motorists should try to stay on main highways and turnpikes and avoid back roads that are not equipped with modern warning devices, such as reflective road signs, adequate lighting and highway markings.

Many people driving to other parts of the country, to be with families and friends, encounter weather conditions to which they are unaccustomed. It is always a good idea to check the weather and make sure your automobile is equipped for bad weather driving.

Whether you're driving in town or on the highway, check to see that your vision is not obstructed by a large pile of gift or luggage that should be in the trunk. These items on the back seat or on the package shelf by the rear window can easily fly forward during a sudden stop, causing serious injury to passengers.

Most important: always allow yourself enough time to get where you're going. Hurrying from one place to another only adds to the hazards of holiday driving.

RISING COSTS

Records indicate that the average cost for each day a patient spends in the hospital has more than doubled in the past decade, rising from $18.35 to $36.83 per day.

Yule Lighting Ready Friday

The gaily colored lights and greenery that will transform Escanaba's business district into a glimmering holiday street will be turned on Friday evening of this week, it is announced by William Van Effen, superintendent of the electric department.

Van Effen said the work of stringing the decorations across the street and along the poles at intersections was started by city crews on Tuesday morning. The work is expected to be completed and the lights turned on by Friday evening.

The colorful lighting will extend the length of Ludington St., and on Stephenson Ave., to 3rd Ave. N.

The lighting is to be augmented this year with overhead garlands of evergreens, plus the bells, lanterns, stars and other light decorations. High winds of the past several years have taken a toll of decorations requiring additional purchases.

Escanaba City Council appropriated $1,500 toward the holiday lighting project and the Escanaba Chamber of Commerce contributed $1,000.

There will not be a Christmas tree centering Ludington St., this year because of the traffic hazard. Some motorists regard the tree in its heavily weighted base as dangerous. In past years the tree was located at Ludington and 8th St.

Christmas Gift Tradition Goes To 4th Century

Christmas traditions in America spring from a wide variety of sources, each contributing to the happiness of the festive season.

The wassail, or Christmas punch bowl, for instance, comes to us from the ancient Saxons; and the mistletoe from the Scandanavian Vikings. Tradition tells us that the handing and filling of stockings began in Asia Minor with the Bishop of Myra in the 4th century, and that Saint Francis of Assisi sang the first Christmas carol. While Saint Winifred is credited with starting the custom of the Christmas tree, to Martin Luther goes credit for the first decorating of it.

And whether you have roast goose, roast beef and plum pudding, turkey or pasta for Christmas dinner depends largely on the traditions established by your family through the years.

A tradition that seems valid for all Americans is the giving of gifts to loved ones and friends, particularly to children.

Making Your Christmas Cards Fun And Easy

Tiny, whimsical Christmas trees that you make yourself can do a great deal to dress up your home during the holidays.

The greatest fun in making these miniature trees is in dreaming up the ideas for them yourself. But, here are a few ideas for trees to get you started thinking in the right direction.

Christmas tree balls in graduated sizes can be stacked one on the other by attaching the balls, Christmas seals, tinsel, with picture hanging wire.

Funnel or cone shapes (tin or paper) ranging from large at the bottom to smallest at the top can be stacked for a smart effect, too.

Freezer Ideal For Hostesses

Any wife lucky enough to be getting a new electric refrigerator-freezer for Christmas will be extra lucky if it arrives a few weeks early. It'll save her time, trouble, and the frustration of trying to find extra space for the holiday food.

One of the blessings of a new unit is the large zero - zone freezer section which can be stocked well before Christmas with home-made or commercially prepared foods such as pie, soups, sauces and vegetables, and even the Christmas turkey.

Fresh food sections of the new electric refrigerator-freezers not only hold more food, but keep it at top quality longer. This means that for fruit, vegetables, meat and other fresh foods, shopping can be done a week or more ahead of time, instead of during the last-minute rush.

There'll be no problem about fitting the new unit into the kitchen, since today's models provide far more storage space inside without taking up extra floor space. They also fit flush against walls, in corners, or between cabinets, giving a neat, built-in look.

Best of all, many of the new electric refrigerator - freezers never need to be defrosted, since frost never forms in either the refrigerator or the freezer section.

Fisherman May Like Outboard

To ardent fishermen, the next angling outing is always just around the corner — even in the midst of winter. If Dad likes fishing, an outboard motor represents an ideal Christmas present. Just watch him begin planning his first early spring fishing trip.

When shopping for an outboard motor, several factors should be considered.

If you don't already know, a bit of sleuthing will turn up Dad's favorite lake and the type of fishing he prefers — trolling, exploring the weedy areas, drift and still fishing or surface plugging.

The outboard motors most frequently used for fishing include those with horsepower ratings of 3½, 7½, 9½ and 14. The particular one for Dad depends on several factors.

If he likes to troll, select a motor that will idle for long periods of time and perform well at slow speeds.

If he fishes in a large lake, a 14 horsepower outboard motor would be a good choice. With it, he can cover long distances in a short time and have more fishing hours.

Many fishermen seek out weedy areas for the bigger fish. Weeds used to play havoc with standard outboard motors, but now special weedless versions are available, specially designed to shear smoothly through such patches.

An important point to consider is weight. Dad will appreciate an outboard motor which he can carry easily to and from his car and one which can be stowed compactly in the trunk with the rest of his gear.

Many outboard motors feature a full gear shift, allowing Dad to shift into forward, neutral or reverse for maneuvering in small coves and close areas.

Outboard motors, much like automobiles, are constantly being improved. A new feature may be just the thing that will appeal to Dad.

Get Insurance For Gift Auto

Is there a new automobile in your Christmas - gift picture this year?

If so, you will probably visit several automobile showrooms, searching for the best deal on a new car. But just as you compare car prices, you should also compare financing and insurance costs.

It is possible to save on a purchase simply by careful attention to insurance and finance rates.

First, financing should be checked. Because seven out of ten people borrow money for car purchases, it is likely that you will be making some financing arrangements. Since it costs money to borrow, an interest rate or finance charge is added to the borrowed sum.

The interest on borrowed funds is determined by such factors as the type of institution lending the money, borrower's credit rating, amount being borrowed and length of time for repayment. Interest rates are regulated by law.

A finance charge, on the other hand, is sometimes not regulated by law and is the amount of money added to the price of an item when the item is bought on time payments. Therefore, the amount of a finance charge can often be determined solely by the lending agent.

In a recent nine-city survey by the University of Chicago on comparative finance costs, it was shown that in New York City many buyers achieved savings of between $36 and $86 on the $2,000.00 financing of a new car merely by shopping for the best place to get auto financing.

More people get more news from newspapers than from all other sources combined.

Give Him Luggage

If the man at the top of your gift list is a problem, pack up your troubles in a new leather bag and he'll smile, smile, smile on Christmas morning.

Practical and elegant, leather luggage is a sure-fire man-pleasing gift this Yule season. The odds are he'll take a business trip, a long week-end or a full vacation and needs spacious, durable and lightweight leather bags.

With a great variety in size and style available, masculine leather luggage can be found to fit most any purse. In the luxury class, there are matched sets of soil and scratch resistant smooth leather bags which include an overnighter, a two-suiter and a 26-inch case. You can add other matched pieces like a club bag—which packs at the top—as the need or occasion arises.

If his job calls for short trips to distant points, you'd be wise to select a leather "carryon," a compact bag designed to fit under the seat of a plane or tuck into the trunk of a compact car.

One practical new piece called a "shuttle bag" is a soft-sided combination of an overnight bag in the middle with two side pouches for papers and flat articles.

Modern flyway leather cases add almost nothing to the weight of his clothes—an asset at the airlines weighing - in counter. And with the shortage of porters at train stations and airports, he'll bless your thoughtfulness when he lifts the balanced weight of a modern lightweight leather case.

At his destination a bright, elegant leather bag will underscore a successful appearance. New developments in leather manufacture keep the modern leather bags free of stains and scratches, and scar - resistant longer. A damp sponge or even a paper towel will restore his leather case to brand new freshness.

An attache case in suntan, saddle or black leather is a smart traveling companion for any man. There are dozens of different styles to fit his needs. Many have a side compartment for a clean shirt or an accordion file for papers. The busy executive who works as he runs will find an attache case flipped on its side makes a satisfactory portable desk on plane or train.

Rings Are Top Yuletide Idea

The brightest star on the Christmas tree is a diamond engagement ring.

Most June brides get engaged at Christmas time. It's such a restive, sentimental season, and also the ideal time for giving diamonds.

In addition, Christmas brides grow more numerous every year, with the holiday season second only to June as the favorite wedding date, so the Christmas diamond is in high demand.

Whether it's a wedding or engagement ring, it's a once-in-a-lifetime gift that must be selected with care and with the aid of a fine jeweler, who can give expert advice on the choice of a perfect diamond.

The diamond solitaire is still the one top choice for an engagement ring, and it need not be a large stone to have brilliance and beauty. New "diamond point" white gold settings are almost as brilliant as the stone itself and can enhance the smallest diamond.

New and beautiful also are engagement and wedding ring combinations, designed to fit together so that the two can give the effect of one striking ring.

The combination of white gold and diamonds is always effective and popular, even more so this year in engagement and wedding rings.

Whatever the style, whatever the size, the gift that outshines them all is the Christmas diamond.

3. Cushioning should give the user buoyant support without impeding circulation. Latex foam rubber cushions are recommended by many medical authorities as best suited for this purpose and they are used in many hospitals because they provide the utmost in restful comfort without impeding blood flow. Down and other 'sink-in" cushioning material should be avoided.

4. The back should be high enough for comfortable dozing and forward enough at the top for relaxed TV viewing. A small toss cushion to fill in with extra spine support is often a welcome addition to women's lounge chairs.

5. The chair must be stable in weight yet mobile enough to be easily moved for cleaning. A chair with casters that make it roll away at a touch is not to be recommended for the elderly who often lean on furniture when standing or walking.

6. A matching hassock or built-in foot rest is needed for maximum relaxation. A retractable foot rest does not become a stumbling block in a main traffic area and is therefore preferable to an oversize ottoman that sticks out into a room.

Al Jolson, musical comedy entertainer, was born in Russia in 1886, according to the Encyclopedia Britannica.

Select That Toy With Great Care

Who will use the toys? This question needs careful thought, if Santa's assistants are going to rate good marks for efficiency. Most of the errors in toy buying result from inattention to this basic point.

This advice comes from Dr. Mary Moffit of the Toy Guidance Council Educator Advisory Committee who notes that most inappropriate toy selections are made by harried shoppers who leave the procurement of gifts for the children on their lists to the last minute.

Playthings are vital tools of childhood — the tools which help youngsters to learn by doing, Dr. Moffit noted. The value of well chosen toys as basic aids to child development is so tremendous, that the selection of playthings should merit priority on the busiest shopper's list of activities.

The color and movement of many toys is enchanting to adults, Dr. Moffit notes. This is natural and grownups would be happier if they relaxed more by playing with toys. But this yearning for amusement should not be allowed to conflict with the very real need of children to have toys which are suited to their state of development.

No assistant Santa should be reticent about asking for information about the children on the gift list, Dr. Moffit states. Parents and even teachers can provide very helpful clues to the kind of toys which will fit special interests of individual children.

Safety is a most important rule of toy selection, Dr. Moffit notes, and here, the key is the choice of toy gifts that especially fit the age. The hobby kit that will be fine for a school age youngster will be dangerous in the hands of a kindergartner.

Most care, of course, should be exercised in the choice of toys for the baby. Since everything is likely to go mouthward, it is important to pick playthings which are safe to suck and which have no loose parts which might be swallowed. It is important, too, to remember that toys for baby should be light weight to avoid strain on developing muscles.

Babies are endeavoring to develop their sense of touch, so toys of different textures will be helpful. Musical toys help the cherub to develop his sense of hearing. Doting relatives will be wise to give careful attention to labels and instructions on boxes when picking toys for babies and toddlers as a double check on safety factors.

It is considerate to give thought to where a child lives too. If he has the run of a back yard play space, a garage or a basement playroom, then large scale toys and games will be appropriate gifts. If he lives in a small apartment, space problems will have to be weighed to determine a toy's utility.

When a large family must be remembered, it may be helpful to give playthings which can be used by different age groups together.

Count Those Calories In Holiday Fare

The juicy turkey . . . the flaming plum pudding . . . the Christmas cookies of many kinds . . . the hors d'oeuves that are served wherever you go— all these tempting taste treats are a threat to your waistline throughout the holiday season. And how can you enjoy the fun and food without putting on too many pounds of fat that nobody wants to have when starting the New Year?

This question is sure to come up in the chit-chat at the gay gatherings you go to, for more and more people are becoming concerned about being overweight. Not wanting to be haunted by post - Christmas bulges, they know that using a little will power to resist an extra helping of dessert may be a good New Year's resolution.

Planning holiday menus for your family and guests so they can eat what they want at parties and still keep a check on calories is now possible, thanks to today's formula diets.

Your between-party menus can allow a full measure of taste delights while still watching the calorie count. On a cold winter day, a bowl of piping hot cream-of-tomato soup provides a tasty, satisfying lunch. Or, to add the traditional holiday colors of red and green to your luncheon menu, try serving split pea soup with tomato aspic salad.

Drive Safely Over Holidays

Longer hours of darkness, more pedestrian activity, signs sometimes covered by snow, slippery streets and the excitement of shopping can lead to traffic accidents that may take the cheer out of your holiday.

December is filled with pre-Christmas activities that include shopping trips, drives to friends' homes, visiting relatives in other cities and many last-minute errands.

It is the most dangerous month for moter-vehicle deaths and every year avoidable accidents spoil many holiday celebrations.

With longer hours of darkness and heavier traffic the danger to both drivers and pedestrians is greatly increased. Whenever possible, night driving should be avoided and shopping excursions and trips to other cities should take place during the safer daylight hours.

In many parts of the country, bad weather makes streets and highways extremely hazardous during the holiday season. Motorists should try to stay on main highways and turnpikes and avoid back roads that are not equipped with modern warning devices, such as reflective road signs, adequate lighting and highway markings.

Many people driving to other parts of the country, to be with families and friends, encounter weather conditions to which they are unaccustomed. It is always a good idea to check the weather and make sure your automobile is equipped for bad weather driving.

Whether you're driving in town or on the highway, check to see that your vision is not obstructed by a large pile of gift or luggage that should be in the trunk. These items on the back seat or on the package shelf by the rear window can easily fly forward during a sudden stop, causing serious injury to passengers.

Most important: always allow yourself enough time to get where you're going. Hurrying from one place to another only adds to the hazards of holiday driving.

RISING COSTS

Records indicate that the average cost for each day a patient spends in the hospital has more than doubled in the past decade, rising from $18.35 to $36.83 per day.

Yule Lighting Ready Friday

The gaily colored lights and greenery that will transform Escanaba's business district into a glimmering holiday street will be turned on Friday evening of this week, it is announced by William Van Effen, superintendent of the electric department.

Van Effen said the work of stringing the decorations across the street and along the poles at intersections was started by city crews on Tuesday morning. The work is expected to be completed and the lights turned on by Friday evening.

The colorful lighting will extend the length of Ludington St., and on Stephenson Ave., to 3rd Ave. N.

The lighting is to be augmented this year with overhead garlands of evergreens, plus the bells, lanterns, stars and other light decorations. High winds of the past several years have taken a toll of decorations requiring additional purchases.

Escanaba City Council appropriated $1,500 toward the holiday lighting project and the Escanaba Chamber of Commerce contributed $1,000.

There will not be a Christmas tree centering Ludington St., this year because of the traffic hazard. Some motorists regard the tree in its heavily weighted base as dangerous. In past years the tree was located at Ludington and 8th St.

Christmas Gift Tradition Goes To 4th Century

Christmas traditions in America spring from a wide variety of sources, each contributing to the happiness of the festive season.

The wassail, or Christmas punch bowl, for instance, comes to us from the ancient Saxons; and the mistletoe from the Scandanavian Vikings. Tradition tells us that the handing and filling of stockings began in Asia Minor with the Bishop of Myra in the 4th century, and that Saint Francis of Assisi sang the first Christmas carol. While Saint Winifred is credited with starting the custom of the Christmas tree, to Martin Luther goes credit for the first decorating of it.

And whether you have roast goose, roast beef and plum pudding, turkey or pasta for Christmas dinner depends largely on the traditions established by your family through the years.

A tradition that seems valid for all Americans is the giving of gifts to loved ones and friends, particularly to children.

Making Your Christmas Cards Fun And Easy

Tiny, whimsical Christmas trees that you make yourself can do a great deal to dress up your home during the holidays.

The greatest fun in making these miniature trees is in dreaming up the ideas for them yourself. But, here are a few ideas for trees to get you started thinking in the right direction.

Christmas tree balls in graduated sizes can be stacked one on the other by attaching the balls, Christmas seals, tinsel, with picture hanging wire.

Funnel or cone shapes (tin or paper) ranging from large at the bottom to smallest at the top can be stacked for a smart effect, too.

Freezer Ideal For Hostesses

Any wife lucky enough to be getting a new electric refrigerator-freezer for Christmas will be extra lucky if it arrives a few weeks early. It'll save her time, trouble, and the frustration of trying to find extra space for the holiday food.

One of the blessings of a new unit is the large zero - zone freezer section which can be stocked well before Christmas with home-made or commercially prepared foods such as pie, soups, sauces and vegetables, and even the Christmas turkey.

Fresh food sections of the new electric refrigerator-freezers not only hold more food, but keep it at top quality longer. This means that for fruit, vegetables, meat and other fresh foods, shopping can be done a week or more ahead of time, instead of during the last-minute rush.

There'll be no problem about fitting the new unit into the kitchen, since today's models provide far more storage space inside without taking up extra floor space. They also fit flush against walls, in corners, or between cabinets, giving a neat, built-in look.

Best of all, many of the new electric refrigerator - freezers never need to be defrosted, since frost never forms in either the refrigerator or the freezer section.

Johnson Asks OK Of Tax Cut, Civil Rights

he said, "that John Fitzgerald Kennedy did not live or die — in vain. And on this Thanksgiving eve, as we gather together to ask the Lord's blessing let us unite in those familiar and cherished words: 'America, America, God shed his grace on thee and crown thy good with brotherhood from sea to shining sea.' "

Time For Next Chapter

Johnson, the first southern president since Andrew Johnson succeeded the assassinated Abraham Lincoln, left no doubt about his commitment to the cause of civil rights.

"We have talked long enough in this country about equal rights," he said. "We have talked for 100 years or more. Yes, it is time now to write the next chapter—and to write it in the books of law."

Johnson called upon the Congress to enact a civil rights bill that will help "eliminate from this nation every trace of discrimination and oppression based upon race or color."

He said there could be no greater source of strength to the nation both at home and abroad.

Touching upon foreign affairs, Johnson promised the United States "will keep its commitments from South Viet Nam to West Berlin." He added:

"We will be unceasing in the search for peace; resourceful in our pursuit of areas of agreement even with those with whom we differ; and generous and loyal to those who join with us in common cause."

He said "those who test our courage will find it strong and those who seek our friendship will find it honorable."

Nation Supports U. N.

In a general assertion of foreign policy, Johnson said:

"Let all the world know, and non misunderstand, that I rededicate this government to the unswerving support of the United nations — to the honorable and determined execution of our commitments to our allies —to the maintenance of military strength second to none — to the defense of the strength and stability of the dollar — to the expansion of our foreign trade — to the reenforcement of our programs of mutual assistance and cooperation in Asia and Africa — and to our Alliance For Progress in this hemisphere."

Appealing for help from all Americans in carrying out his new responsibilities, Johnson said:

"An assassin's bullet has thrust upon me the awesome burden of the presidency. I am here today to say that I need your help; I cannot bear this burden alone. I need the help of all Americans."

Declaring that the nation "has experienced a profound shock," Johnson said it is a national duty of this time "to do away with uncertainty and to show that we are capable of decisive action — that from the brutal loss of our leader we will derive not weakness but strength — that we can and will act and act now."

In addition to calling for top-priority action on civil rights and tax cut legislation, Johnson said action also is needed on pending education bills, the youth employment opportunities bill, the foreign aid program and the remaining appropriation bills.

"We will carry on the fight against poverty and misery, ignorance and disease — in other lands and in our own," he pledged. "We will serve all of the nation, not one section or one sector, or one group, but all Americans."

Pledged To Thrift

Stating his own philosophy toward government fiscal policy, Johnson said that, "in particular I pledge that the expenditures of the government will be administered with the upmost thrift and frugality."

He said the federal government "will set an example of prudence and economy" and will get "a dollar's value for a dollar spent."

Johnson also promised to always respect "the independence and integrity of the legislative branch"—something he said he "deep in the marrow of my bones" after 32 years on capitol hill as House member, senator and vice president.

Though Johnson called for national unity, he said this does "not depend on unanimity," adding:

"We have differences; but now, as in the past, we can derive from those differences strength, not weakness; wisdom, not despair. Both as a people and as a government we can unite upon a program which is wise, just and constructive."

From his experiences at the capitol, Johnson said he had pride and confidence in the ability of Congress to meet any crisis and to "distill from our differences strong programs of national action."

Market Takes Sharp Rebound

By SAM DAWSON
AP Business News Analyst

NEW YORK (AP)—A rush of selling Friday and frenzied buying Tuesday etched the stock market's reaction to President Kennedy's assassination in strokes of impressive trading volume and record amounts of paper profits.

But in setting a record for a rebound—a $15-billion advance in market values as gauged by the Dow-Jones industrial average—the market Tuesday may have been spelling out the investing public's confidence in the soundness of the American economy.

Or the performance on the two days may have meant only the initial wave of selling with which the market usually greets unexpected and disturbing news and then the not unexpected influx of bargain hunters.

Bargains Cashed In

Only a few of these got into the market in time to find many bargains left, so swiftly did it climb back after the three-day period for second guessing.

But those who bought at the low Friday — and every share sold in the rush before the exchange officials shut down trading had to be bought by some one—were in position to cash in Tuesday on the rebound.

The exchanges were open such a short time after the President was shot that few of the general public are believed to have been among the traders.

Pros, some fearful perhaps of being caught by margin calls, others perhaps expecting to buy back in at lower prices, are believed by most observers to have done most of the trading Friday afternoon.

The public apparently was well-represented in the buying rush with the opening bell Tuesday morning.

For some outsiders, perennial critics of Wall Street, it must have seemed less a show of confidence than cynical response to a national tragedy.

Confidence On Display

But confidence — or at least common sense—was on display.

The economy was too strong, too apparently on the upgrade, for the death even of the chief executive to change the fundamental facts.

The change in the administration was too slight to be compared with the chaos that other nations experience when revolt topples leaders.

Almost everyone agrees that the drop in stock prices was overdone. And many fear that the rebound also was too sharp to be sustained. They expect the market for several days to be swayed by a series of reactions until a final level is achieved.

Business circles will be watching closely as the policies of President Johnson become clear. Few anticipate any great change, either in domestic or foreign policies, many expect Johnson will be a bit more conservative than his predecessor, a little more sympathetic to business leaders' ideas. And most are counting on a period, however passing, of closer harmony between the White House and the Congress.

Famous Soprano Galli-Curci Dies

LA JOLLA, Calif. (AP) — Mme. Amelita Galli-Curci, 81, famed operatic coloratura soprano who retired 25 years ago, died Tuesday of emphysema, a swelling of the air cells in the lungs, her physician said.

Meader Abandons Kennedy Spoofs

NEW YORK (AP) — Vaughn Meader, who rose to fame with his recordings spoofing Kennedy and his family, says he never expects to do the imitation again.

Meader said through his manager Tuesday that in respect for the late President, he as requested postponement of two night club appearances scheduled for later this month and next.

In his night club routine, Meader devoted about five minutes of his hour-long stint on stage doing imitations of Kennedy.

Romney Calls For New Faith

LANSING (AP)—Gov. George Romney, in proclaiming the Thanksgiving holiday, urged citizens of Michigan to devote it to self-examination and reaffirmation of faith.

The proclamation:

"Citizens of Michigan, wracked with torturing bereavement because of our great loss, now more than ever before should pause reverently to give thanks for the abundant and gracious gifts of God which are ours to share. While suffering from the horrible tragedy of the President's death and the deplorable influences it revealed, our nation has sensed the need for new dedication and unity to remain strong and free.

"Humbly and soberly we should look beyond our material good fortunes and offer prayerful thanks for the more important spiritual values and heritage with which the Pilgrims began to build a nation. Let us forever emulate the courage and vision, strength and good will, the sense of purpose, personal responsibility and initiative which enabled our forefathers to forge ahead despite heartbreak and tragedy.

"Therefore, I, George Romney, governor of the State of Michigan, do hereby proclaim Thursday, November 28, 1963, as Thanksgiving Day 1963 in Michigan, and to invite all the people of the state to devote the day to prayer and continued self-examination."

Beef Breeders May Build Own Auction Facility

The Bay de Noc Beef Producers Association meeting at Rapid River last night created a committee to study the feasibility of constructing its own auction pavilion and livestock yard in the Rapid River area.

Several properties have been listed on a tentative site list and a committee composed of Dick Johnston, Ensign; John Norman, Rock; and Reinhold Bitner, Bark River, will develop cost estimates to report to the annual meeting of the Association in late January or early February.

The Association's annual October sale of beef calves to feed lot operators has been held for 6 years at the Escanaba Livestock Auction. Its facilities were found inadequate for the Oct. 8 sale this year and the Association spent $400 to provide additional pens to hold the 1,600 animals offered for auction.

The Association pays the Auction $1 a head to rent the facility for the sale and directors last night said that room for expansion is lacking at the Escanaba Livestock Auction and that creation of a new auction facility by the Beef Producers Association appears the best solution of the problem caused by growth of the sale and of the beef cattle industry in the Upper Peninsula.

Needed for the proposed new facility would be cattle pens, an auction pavilion, livestock scale and office. The Association has some resources, but not enough to finance such a layout without borrowing, said President William Jaeger, of Watson.

The beef calf breeding business continues to grow in the U. P., with indications that the Delta County area's production will be larger again next year. Breeders said last night that some heifer calves raised for the sale didn't go to it, because they were bought by local farmers for breeding stock to enlarge their herds.

The October sale brought an average price of 25.2 cents a pound for steer calves and 21.5 cents for heifer calves, which is 3 to 4 cents below the prices paid a year ago. The state of the national meat market, with fat cattle going for 24 to 24.5 cents a pound and some feed lots holding animals for higher prices, affected calf prices.

The dwelling is owned by Henry Olson and is insured. There was no structural damage to the building.

Shoes Go Good For Dad Or Son

He'll jump for joy if you give him a pair of leather shoes this Christmas. That's because this winter, leather casuals are constructed of new leathers which combine durability with softness. The cold weather leather casual shoe gives him the ease and walking comfort of summer months—as well as the ruggedness he needs and wants during the winter.

For a holiday romp with the children, he'll appreciate the suppleness and support of a brushed leather chukka boot. Set on a substantial leather sole that absorbs punishment like a sponge, the leather chukka flexes, bends and stretches as he runs with the youngsters. At the same time, the ankle-high boot keeps the wind and weather outside the shoe, and his feet warm and dry inside.

Another leather casual that gives him a foothold on comfort during the cold months is the smooth or grained leather slip-on. Usually rising high on the topline, this casual is light without sacrificing protection.

Leather moccasins make a welcome gift at any season—and, for good reason. Glove-soft but rugged leathers, and roomy toes and foot-hugging toplines, make moccasins as easy afoot as slippers. Slim leather soles add little weight, but offer protection and support on hardwood floors and concrete pavements.

For dress wear during the holiday season, he'll be in step with fashion in leather brogues with medium weight leather soles that are built for support yet cropped for smart styling.

Smooth or grained leather brogues come in rounded, crescent or blunted - square toe styles, moccasin fronts or wing-tip-and-foxing.

On a winter vacation or just at home with the family, a pair of dressy slip-ons set a tone of ease and fashion. Hand-stitched seams and deeply notched vamps contribute to the snap and style of the dress slip-on.

This year's darkened men's shoe colors contribute to the slimmer look of the foot. Most popular are the new burnished olive—a black with green—woody browns and glossy black leathers. Subtle grained leather and smooth leather pick up the lighter textures of men's suits, while brushed leather complements heavier textured sports slacks.

If you're uncertain about his shoe size check his closet and jot down the numbers printed on the linings of his favorite shoes. The clerk at your local shoe or department store will be able to select the proper size from this information.

If you'd rather have him choose his own style and color, a handsome, personalized shoe gift certificate is sure to delight him.

Art Inspires Girls' Fashions

The spirit of the Christmas season once flowed throughout the world from the home of a slight, shy English woman who has been all but forgotten by the world to which she gave so much.

Her name was Kate Greenaway, a noted artist of another century whose works inspired the habits, clothing and feeling of her day, not only in England but in America and on the Continent as well

Miss Greenaway, born in 1846, began copying after her father, a wood engraver, in her early years. By the time she was 17 she won her first art prize — a bronze medal for six ceramic tile designs. Soon to follow were magazine sketches; children's books with both verses and sketches by Miss Greenaway; almanacs and, for six or seven years, a multitude of Christmas cards that vaulted her into great popularity.

Children, and especially their clothing, were Miss Greenaway's favorite art subjects. By 1883, when a "Kate Greenaway Boom" was in full sway, children on both sides of the Atlantic were dressed in styles inspired by her designs, which included ruffles, frills and laces for little girls; and rougher-hewn knickers, jackets and suits for boys.

The designs were so popular that they were reproduced on many items including calendars and carols; in books and on decorative ceramic tiles used to surface the facings and mantels of large English fireplaces, much as decorated American tiles are used on fireplaces today.

Miss Greenaway died in November, 1901, still a quiet and unassuming woman who nevertheless had become England's most famous woman artist. Today there are occasional mentions of her in collectors' and antique journals, but a New York dress shop that sells children's clothing patterned after her designs is the lone "living" reminder of her great talents.

More people get more news from newspapers than from all other sources combined.

Shops Offering Choice Of Gifts

Your shopping list may range from the toys in Santa's pack that make youngsters starry-eyed or a mink jacket that makes the lady in your life equally starry-eyed.

It makes no difference.

Escanaba's far-sighted merchants, who selected their holiday wares many months ago, have every item you might possibly be seeking as you start your Christmas shopping, and in well-rounded assortments.

The large stores with their various departments and the shop which specialize are ready for the crowds who will throng "Santa Claus Lane" from now until Christmas Eve. Windows are dazzling in their displays. Extra sales people are on hand to help you.

Let's look first at the toys—after all, Christmas is for children. Science and engineering projects, geared to youngsters and their older brothers and sisters, are favorites, along with the old stand-bys. New games are a pleasant and exciting test of wits. Dolls are more life-like than ever. They can walk, talk and cry. Some of them have wardrobes that might well be the envy of a debutante or an Ivy Leaguer.

Books, always welcome, are a delight—fun to buy and to give. In the children'es department they have age classification that makes shopping easy.

Clothing Popular

Clothing always is a happy selection. Lingerie is dear to every girl and women's heart. This season's sweaters, bulky or trim, are smart wear for casual occasions or evening festives. They are shown in striking shades and skirts team up with them. Blouses for every day and dress-up are the answer to many a gift problem. If a special holiday party dress is in the picture, the choice is as wide as the price range.

Shopping for young members of the family will be a delightful experience — the fashions for little girls and their young brothers never were more attractive.

As for the men of the house, especially father, who usually comes last, buy him a tie if you have a mind to. There is no man who doesn't enjoy having that extra item for an important occasion. You may go from there to a new watch, dress, casual or sports wear, sports equipment, record players, transistors or portable television sets and know that you are going to please him.

Gifts for Home

Gifts for the home are a wise choice, particularly now, with home furnishing and appliance stores and shops stocked to meet the most exacting demands.

Imports will provide that very special gift and you will find unlimited charm in the offerings of gift shops and gift departments.

Displays of jewelry stores gleam with luxury items as well as those with more modest price tages.

Just one more thought—dress up your home in the time-honored red and green or in modern decor. Floral shops and many other stores are stocked with beautiful items and equally artistic material for the do-it-yourselfers—a forerunner of traditional Christmas poinsettia, holly and mistletoe.

Wives Want Range That Is Automatic

Harried homemakers need all the help they can get during the holiday season. One way a thoughtful husband can lend a hand without lifting a finger is by presenting his wife with a new automatic electric range just before Christmas.

With its automatic timing and accurate heat controls, a new electric range will save her from constant pot-watching and those tiresome treks to the kitchen to make sure that everything's all right. It'll also assure her of consistently good results.

Christmas dinner cooked in a new electric range with two ovens will be just as lavish and succulent as Grandma's used to, but Mother will have far more time to spend with the family instead of in a steaming kitchen.

Those double ovens will be especially handy during the weeks before the holidays—for making pies, cookies and cakes to give as Christmas presents. Baking them in big batches in two automatically controlled ovens saves hours of kitchen time.

And it's no trick to make Christmas candy on a new electric range with a thermostatically controlled surface element. It gives exactly the right heat—a must in candy-making.

he said, "that John Fitzgerald Kennedy did not live or die — in vain. And on this Thanksgiving eve, as we gather together to ask the Lord's blessing let us unite in those familiar and cherished words: 'America, America, God shed his grace on thee and crown thy good with brotherhood from sea to shining sea.' "

Time For Next Chapter

Johnson, the first southern president since Andrew Johnson succeeded the assassinated Abraham Lincoln, left no doubt about his commitment to the cause of civil rights.

"We have talked long enough in this country about equal rights," he said. "We have talked for 100 years or more. Yes, it is time now to write the next chapter—and to write it in the books of law."

Johnson called upon the Congress to enact a civil rights bill that will help "eliminate from this nation every trace of discrimination and oppression based upon race or color."

He said there could be no greater source of strength to the nation both at home and abroad.

Touching upon foreign affairs, Johnson promised the United States "will keep its commitments from South Viet Nam to West Berlin." He added:

"We will be unceasing in the search for peace; resourceful in our pursuit of areas of agreement even with those with whom we differ; and generous and loyal to those who join with us in common cause."

He said "those who test our courage will find it strong and those who seek our friendship will find it honorable."

Nation Supports U. N.

In a general assertion of foreign policy, Johnson said:

"Let all the world know, and non misunderstand, that I rededicate this government to the unswerving support of the United nations — to the honorable and determined execution of our commitments to our allies —to the maintenance of military strength second to none — to the defense of the strength and stability of the dollar — to the expansion of our foreign trade — to the reenforcement of our programs of mutual assistance and cooperation in Asia and Africa — and to our Alliance For Progress in this hemisphere."

Appealing for help from all Americans in carrying out his new responsibilities, Johnson said:

"An assassin's bullet has thrust upon me the awesome burden of the presidency. I am here today to say that I need your help; I cannot bear this burden alone. I need the help of all Americans."

Declaring that the nation "has experienced a profound shock," Johnson said it is a national duty of this time "to do away with uncertainty and to show that we are capable of decisive action — that from the brutal loss of our leader we will derive not weakness but strength — that we can and will act and act now."

In addition to calling for top-priority action on civil rights and tax cut legislation, Johnson said action also is needed on pending education bills, the youth employment opportunities bill, the foreign aid program and the remaining appropriation bills.

"We will carry on the fight against poverty and misery, ignorance and disease — in other lands and in our own," he pledged. "We will serve all of the nation, not one section or one sector, or one group, but all Americans."

Pledged To Thrift

Stating his own philosophy toward government fiscal policy, Johnson said that, "in particular I pledge that the expenditures of the government will be administered with the upmost thrift and frugality."

He said the federal government "will set an example of prudence and economy" and will get "a dollar's value for a dollar spent."

Johnson also promised to always respect "the independence and integrity of the legislative branch"—something he said he "deep in the marrow of my bones" after 32 years on capitol hill as House member, senator and vice president.

Though Johnson called for national unity, he said this does "not depend on unanimity," adding:

"We have differences; but now, as in the past, we can derive from those differences strength, not weakness; wisdom, not despair. Both as a people and as a government we can unite upon a program which is wise, just and constructive."

From his experiences at the capitol, Johnson said he had pride and confidence in the ability of Congress to meet any crisis and to "distill from our differences strong programs of national action."

Market Takes Sharp Rebound

By SAM DAWSON
AP Business News Analyst

NEW YORK (AP)—A rush of selling Friday and frenzied buying Tuesday etched the stock market's reaction to President Kennedy's assassination in strokes of impressive trading volume and record amounts of paper profits.

But in setting a record for a rebound—a $15-billion advance in market values as gauged by the Dow-Jones industrial average—the market Tuesday may have been spelling out the investing public's confidence in the soundness of the American economy.

Or the performance on the two days may have meant only the initial wave of selling with which the market usually greets unexpected and disturbing news and then the not unexpected influx of bargain hunters.

Bargains Cashed In

Only a few of these got into the market in time to find many bargains left, so swiftly did it climb back after the three-day period for second guessing.

But those who bought at the low Friday — and every share sold in the rush before the exchange officials shut down trading had to be bought by some one—were in position to cash in Tuesday on the rebound.

The exchanges were open such a short time after the President was shot that few of the general public are believed to have been among the traders.

Pros, some fearful perhaps of being caught by margin calls, others perhaps expecting to buy back in at lower prices, are believed by most observers to have done most of the trading Friday afternoon.

The public apparently was well-represented in the buying rush with the opening bell Tuesday morning.

For some outsiders, perennial critics of Wall Street, it must have seemed less a show of confidence than cynical response to a national tragedy.

Confidence On Display

But confidence — or at least common sense—was on display.

The economy was too strong, too apparently on the upgrade, for the death even of the chief executive to change the fundamental facts.

The change in the administration was too slight to be compared with the chaos that other nations experience when revolt topples leaders.

Almost everyone agrees that the drop in stock prices was overdone. And many fear that the rebound also was too sharp to be sustained. They expect the market for several days to be swayed by a series of reactions until a final level is achieved.

Business circles will be watching closely as the policies of President Johnson become clear. Few anticipate any great change, either in domestic or foreign policies. many expect Johnson will be a bit more conservative than his predecessor, a little more sympathetic to business leaders' ideas. And most are counting on a period, however passing, of closer harmony between the White House and the Congress.

Famous Soprano Galli-Curci Dies

LA JOLLA, Calif. (AP) — Mme. Amelita Galli-Curci, 81, famed operatic coloratura soprano who retired 25 years ago, died Tuesday of emphysema, a swelling of the air cells in the lungs, her physician said.

Meader Abandons Kennedy Spoofs

NEW YORK (AP) — Vaughn Meader, who rose to fame with his recordings spoofing Kennedy and his family, says he never expects to do the imitation again.

Meader said through his manager Tuesday that in respect for the late President, he as requested postponement of two night club appearances scheduled for later this month and next.

In his night club routine, Meader devoted about five minutes of his hour-long stint on stage doing imitations of Kennedy.

Romney Calls For New Faith

LANSING (AP)—Gov. George Romney, in proclaiming the Thanksgiving holiday, urged citizens of Michigan to devote it to self-examination and reaffirmation of faith.

The proclamation:

"Citizens of Michigan, wracked with torturing bereavement because of our great loss, now more than ever before should pause reverently to give thanks for the abundant and gracious gifts of God which are ours to share. While suffering from the horrible tragedy of the President's death and the deplorable influences it revealed, our nation has sensed the need for new dedication and unity to remain strong and free.

"Humbly and soberly we should look beyond our material good fortunes and offer prayerful thanks for the more important spiritual values and heritage with which the Pilgrims began to build a nation. Let us forever emulate the courage and vision, strength and good will, the sense of purpose, personal responsibility and initiative which enabled our forefathers to forge ahead despite heartbreak and tragedy.

"Therefore, I, George Romney, governor of the State of Michigan, do hereby proclaim Thursday, November 28, 1963, as Thanksgiving Day 1963 in Michigan, and to invite all the people of the state to devote the day to prayer and continued self-examination."

Beef Breeders May Build Own Auction Facility

The Bay de Noc Beef Producers Association meeting at Rapid River last night created a committee to study the feasibility of constructing its own auction pavilion and livestock yard in the Rapid River area.

Several properties have been listed on a tentative site list and a committee composed of Dick Johnston, Ensign; John Norman, Rock; and Reinhold Bitner, Bark River, will develop cost estimates to report to the annual meeting of the Association in late January or early February.

The Association's annual October sale of beef calves to feed lot operators has been held for 6 years at the Escanaba Livestock Auction. Its facilities were found inadequate for the Oct. 8 sale this year and the Association spent $400 to provide additional pens to hold the 1,600 animals offered for auction.

The Association pays the Auction $1 a head to rent the facility for the sale and directors last night said that room for expansion is lacking at the Escanaba Livestock Auction and that creation of a new auction facility by the Beef Producers Association appears the best solution of the problem caused by growth of the sale and of the beef cattle industry in the Upper Peninsula.

Needed for the proposed new facility would be cattle pens, an auction pavilion, livestock scale and office. The Association has some resources, but not enough to finance such a layout without borrowing, said President William Jaeger, of Watson.

The beef calf breeding business continues to grow in the U. P., with indications that the Delta County area's production will be larger again next year. Breeders said last night that some heifer calves raised for the sale didn't go to it, because they were bought by local farmers for breeding stock to enlarge their herds.

The October sale brought an average price of 25.2 cents a pound for steer calves and 21.5 cents for heifer calves, which is 3 to 4 cents below the prices paid a year ago. The state of the national meat market, with fat cattle going for 24 to 24.5 cents a pound and some feed lots holding animals for higher prices, affected calf prices.

Home Damaged By Flames; All Furnishings Lost

Fire starting from a faulty furnace damaged the interior of the Leo LaVigne Jr., residence on Lake Shore Drive near the south city limits at 8:22 a. m., today. No one was injured in the blaze that was quickly brought under control by city firemen.

Starting in the basement, the flames swept upward, causing most damage in a bedroom and living room. Heat and smoke scorched the interior of the house and destroyed the furnishings, including new furniture recently purchased and only partly insured.

The dwelling is owned by Henry Olson and is insured. There was no structural damage to the building.

Beware Of The Holiday Thieves

Unfortunately, as soon as Christmas shopping begins in earnest, shoplifters and petty thieves turn out in full force.

There are several things you can do to prevent being the victim of theft.

First step: When you arrive at a store, be sure you lock your car.

Once inside the store, keep a firm hold on your purse at all times. Never set it down on the counter out of your direct sight. (It's smart to carry a shoulder strap bag when shopping—stylish, or not).

Men would be wise to put their billfold in the inside pocket of their coat. If it is carried in the hip pocket of slacks, be sure the pocket is buttoned.

Women should carry a handbag that closes tightly at the top. Open-top bags are a real invitation to thieves.

When paying for a purchase, be careful in showing how much cash you are carrying, especially if it is a considerable amount.

It's wise, too, to check your purse or pocket every few minutes to make sure you have your wallet. The sooner you report a theft, or loss, the better your chances are for having the item recovered.

If you will put all of your packages into one or two large sacks or shopping bags, it will be easier to keep up with them. Small packages, especially, have a way of disappearing.

These suggestions are good ones to follow at any time of the year, but do be extra cautious now when stores are so crowded.

Seney

The Home Extension Club met at the town hall with Mrs. Roy McDowell, hostess. Plans were made for a Christmas tea to be held Saturday, Dec. 7, from 2 to 5 p. m. The public is invited.

The Lockes have closed their restaurant and motel for the winter and will leave for Florida where they will spend the winter months.

Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Pinus returned to Port Huron after spending two weeks visiting Mr. and Mrs. Roy McDowell.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy McDowell left for Detroit to spend Thanksgiving with their daughter and her family.

Art English of Ann Arbor spent a few days here visiting friends and hunting.

Successful hunters were Glen Short, Dick St. Martin and Bob Meyers.

Ski Togs Are Sure To Score

Something in ski wear—that's the guaranteed-to-please Christmas gift for any skiing enthusiast. After all, half the fun of skiing is wearing the dramatic fashions designed especially for the snowy slopes.

But up till now, stretch pants that looked so sleek when new, lost their shape after a few tumbles in the snow. Worse yet, light colors, though high in fashion, were xetremely hard to keep clean.

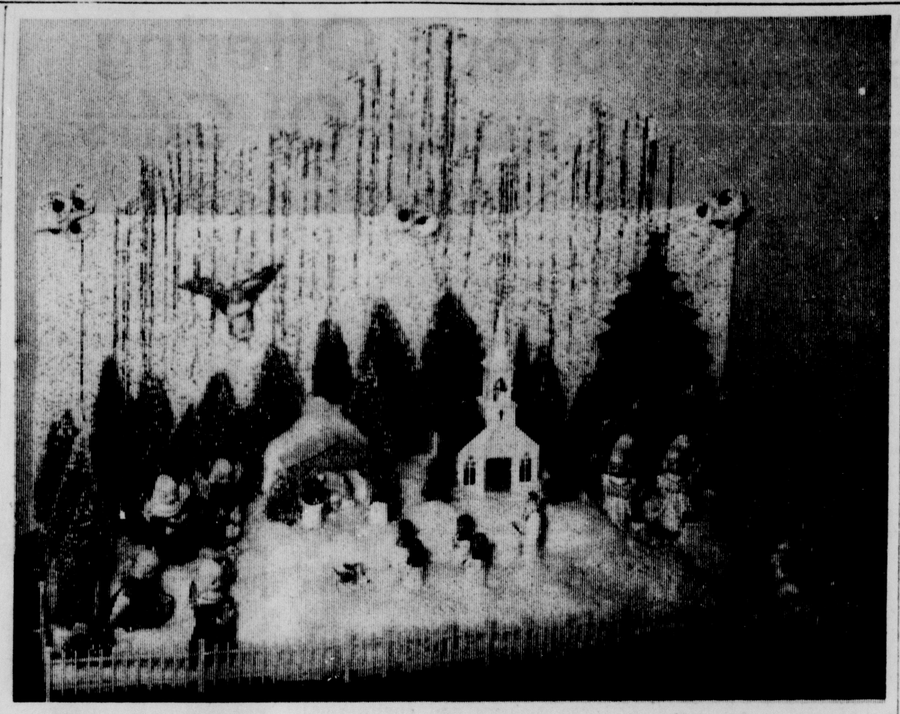
That's all over. The latest thing in stretch pants, available just in time for Christmas giving, are made of acrylic and nylon fibers that dry in no time—no matter how many spills you take.

And best of all, they can be machine washed and dried automatically. So those light-colored pants are now as practical as they are pretty.

For best results, wash for five minutes with regular agitation and cold water. However, if they're heavily soiled, better use warm water and gentle washing action.

The wash-and-wear setting on your dryer provides just the right temperature to relax the fibers and minimize wrinkles.

Experts recommend steam pressings every four or five launderings to rejuvenate the "permanent creases and pleats.



ANGELS, CHOIR BOYS and a clergyman come to adore the baby Jesus in this Nativity scene designed by Mrs. Marie Peterson, 420½ 2nd Ave. S. Cotton snow, ceramic figurines and little trees were used in making this setting of the birth of Christ. (Daily Press Photo)

Stretch pants are so comfortable and smart-looking, they have been adopted by many who have never been near a ski-ilft. And now that they can be washed, they're practical for growing youngsters, too.

Seaway Tonnage Shows Increase

DETROIT (AP)—The St. Lawrence Seaway carried a tonnage of 25,732,923 from April through October, an increase of 17.7 per cent over the same period a year ago, Joseph H. McCann, administrator of the St. Lawrence Seaway, reported Tuesday.

The tonnage for October was 4,109,721 compared with 3,889,027 for the same month a year ago.

Jewelry Solves Gift Dilemmas

Even if your budget doesn't stretch quite far enough to put diamonds in every stocking you plan to fill this Christmas, you shouldn't overlook your jeweler as one of Santa's best assistants.

Watchbands for people who already own fine watches are expected to be popular gift items at around $10.

Cultured pearls at $20 to $35 will probably lead the popularity parade in gifts for teenage girls. Prices for grown-up styles will be slightly higher. Rings set with rubies, hematite or onyx are expected to be big items for men at $20 to $30.

The jewelry store shopper will find stores less crowded than others even at Christmas. Merchandise isn't "picked over," employees are less harried, and there are fewer temporary helpers behind the counters. Style-color-size selections are good, too, and the early shopper can usually get special orders from manufacturers if he wants them.

Here are a few other ideas that may help you fill Santa's sack with quality jewelry gifts this season: AM-FM transistorized radios; bronzed baby shoes or barometers; candelabra, cameras, cameos or cuckoo clocks; dinnerware or desk sets; electronic watches or engraving on almost any kind of jewelry. Also there are fraternity pins, good luck pieces and hors d'oeuvre trays including new musical types.

Or you can get identification bracelets, irons, ivory items, ice buckets and Indian jewelry; jade or jeweled jam jars; knives, key-rings, knick-knacks and knife sharpeners; lockets, lamps, luggage and other leather items; military rings, mugs, memory books and motion picture equipment.

Perhaps you are looking for novelties or special watches for nuns or nurses; opera glasses; pens, pencils, pins or portable phonograph (including stereophonic needles) and radios.

Quartz, rosaries, skin divers' and other types of sports timers and stop-watches; as well as trays, telescopes, thermometers, typewriters and tape recorders including transistorized types so tiny they can be tucked into a briefcase are some other suggestions.

Still more possibilities include ultrasonic cleaning of precious jewelry; vacuum bottles; or weather forecasters, woodenware and wall clocks of all sorts are among other possibilities. And, there are many more, of course.

Up 5 Per Cent

DETROIT (AP) — The Negro population of Detroit's public schools has increased by 5 per cent over 1961 to 51 per cent of the enrollment, it was reported in results of a survey Tuesday. There about 10,000 more pupils in city schools than in 1961, the report said.

Shoes Go Good For Dad Or Son

He'll jump for joy if you give him a pair of leather shoes this Christmas. That's because this winter, leather casuals are constructed of new leathers which combine durability with softness. The cold weather leather casual shoe gives him the ease and walking comfort of summer months —as well as the ruggedness he needs and wants during the winter.

For a holiday romp with the children, he'll appreciate the suppleness and support of a brushed leather chukka boot. Set on a substantial leather sole that absorbs punishment like a sponge, the leather chukka flexes, bends and stretches as he runs with the youngsters. At the same time, the ankle-high boot keeps the wind and weather outside the shoe, and his feet warm and dry inside.

Another leather casual that gives him a foothold on comfort during the cold months is the smooth or grained leather slip-on. Usually rising high on the topline, this casual is light without sacrificing protection.

Leather moccasins make a welcome gift at any season—and for good reason. Glove-soft but rugged leathers, and roomy toes and foot-hugging toplines, make moccasins as easy afoot as slippers. Slim leather soles add little weight, but offer protection and support on hardwood floors and concrete pavements.

For dress wear during the holiday season, he'll be in step with fashion in leather brogues with medium weight leather soles that are built for support yet cropped for smart styling.

Smooth or grained leather brogues come in rounded, crescent or blunted - square toe styles, moccasin fronts or wing-tip-and-foxing.

On a winter vacation or just at home with the family, a pair of dressy slip-ons set a tone of ease and fashion. Hand-stitched seams and deeply notched vamps contribute to the snap and style of the dress slip-on.

This year's darkened men's shoe colors contribute to the slimmer look of the foot. Most popular are the new burnished olive—a black with green—woody browns and glossy black leathers. Subtle grained leather and smooth leather pick up the lighter textures of men's suits, while brushed leather complements heavier textured sports slacks.

If you're uncertain about his shoe size check his closet and jot down the numbers printed on the linings of his favorite shoes. The clerk at your local shoe or department store will be able to select the proper size from this information.

If you'd rather have him choose his own style and color, a handsome, personalized shoe gift certificate is sure to delight him.

Art Inspires Girls' Fashions

The spirit of the Christmas season once flowed throughout the world from the home of a slight, shy English woman who has been all but forgotten by the world to which she gave so much.

Her name was Kate Greenaway, a noted artist of another century whose works inspired the habits, clothing and feeling of her day, not only in England but in America and on the Continent as well

Miss Greenaway, born in 1846, began copying after her father, a wood engraver, in her early years. By the time she was 17 she won her first art prize — a bronze medal for six ceramic tile designs. Soon to follow were magazine sketches; children's books with both verses and sketches by Miss Greenaway; almanacs and, for six or seven years, a multitude of Christmas cards that vaulted her into great popularity.

Children, and especially their clothing, were Miss Greenaway's favorite art subjects. By 1883, when a "Kate Greenaway Boom" was in full sway, children on both sides of the Atlantic were dressed in styles inspired by her designs, which included ruffles, frills and laces for little girls; and rougher-hewn knickers, jackets and suits for boys.

The designs were so popular that they were reproduced on many items including calendars and carols; in books and on decorative ceramic tiles used to surface the facings and mantels of large English fireplaces, much as decorated American tiles are used on fireplaces today.

Miss Greenaway died in November, 1901, still a quiet and unassuming woman who nevertheless had become England's most famous woman artist. Today there are occasional mentions of her in collectors' and antique journals, but a New York dress shop that sells children's clothing patterned after her designs is the lone "living" reminder of her great talents.

More people get more news from newspapers than from all other sources combined.

Shops Offering Choice Of Gifts

Your shopping list may range from the toys in Santa's pack that make youngsters starry-eyed or a mink jacket that makes the lady in your life equally starry-eyed.

It makes no difference.

Escanaba's far-sighted merchants, who selected their holiday wares many months ago, have every item you might possibly be seeking as you start your Christmas shopping, and in well-rounded assortments.

The large stores with their various departments and the shop which specialize are ready for the crowds who will throng "Santa Claus Lane" from now until Christmas Eve. Windows are dazzling in their displays. Extra sales people are on hand to help you.

Let's look first at the toys—after all, Christmas is for children. Science and engineering projects, geared to youngsters and their older brothers and sisters, are favorites, along with the old stand-bys. New games are a pleasant and exciting test of wits. Dolls are more life-like than ever. They can walk, talk and cry. Some of them have wardrobes that might well be the envy of a debutante or an Ivy Leaguer.

Books, always welcome, are a delight—fun to buy and to give. In the children'es department they have age classification that makes shopping easy.

Clothing Popular

Clothing always is a happy selection. Lingerie is dear to every girl and women's heart. This season's sweaters, bulky or trim, are smart wear for casual occasions or evening festives. They are shown in striking shades and skirts team up with them. Blouses for every day and dress-up are the answer to many a gift problem. If a special holiday party dress is in the picture, the choice is as wide as the price range.

Shopping for young members of the family will be a delightful experience — the fashions for little girls and their young brothers never were more attractive.

As for the men of the house, especially father, who usually comes last, buy him a tie if you have a mind to. There is no man who doesn't enjoy having that extra item for an important occasion. You may go from there to a new watch, dress, casual or sports wear, sports equipment, record players, transistors or portable television sets and know that you are going to please him.

Gifts for Home

Gifts for the home are a wise choice, particularly now, with home furnishing and appliance stores and shops stocked to meet the most exacting demands.

Imports will provide that very special gift and you will find unlimited charm in the offerings of gift shops and gift departments.

Displays of jewelry stores gleam with luxury items as well as those with more modest price tages.

Just one more thought—dress up your home in the time-honored red and green or in modern decor. Floral shops and many other stores are stocked with beautiful items and equally artistic material for the do-it-yourselfers—a forerunner of traditional Christmas poinsettia, holly and mistletoe.

Wives Want Range That Is Automatic

Harried homemakers need all the help they can get during the holiday season. One way a thoughtful husband can lend a hand without lifting a finger is by presenting his wife with a new automatic electric range just before Christmas.

With its automatic timing and accurate heat controls, a new electric range will save her from constant pot-watching and those tiresome treks to the kitchen to make sure that everything's all right. It'll also assure her of consistently good results.

Christmas dinner cooked in a new electric range with two ovens will be just as lavish and succulent as Grandma's used to, but Mother will have far more time to spend with the family instead of in a steaming kitchen.

Those double ovens will be especially handy during the weeks before the holidays—for making pies, cookies and cakes to give as Christmas presents. Baking them in big batches in two automatically controlled ovens saves hours of kitchen time.

And it's no trick to make Christmas candy on a new electric range with a thermostatically controlled surface element. It gives exactly the right heat—a must in candy-making.

They Sailed A Ship To Destiny

Some called themselves "saints." They referred to others as "strangers." Still others were servants and hired hands.

There were 102 of them all told, counting two boys born at sea and two who died at sea. They were the Mayflower passengers who landed at "Plimouth Plantation" in the New World on Dec. 21, 1620.

Is your name among them? If all those who over the years have claimed descent from the original Mayflower passengers had actually had ancestors on the ship, it must have been the size of the USS Enterprise, at least.

But there were only 102 of them (even that was crowding the little craft), and less than half of these survived that first cruel winter.

Though we call them all Pilgrims and have linked them inseparably with the Thanksgiving holiday, only 41 of the passengers had left England to seek religious liberty. They were the Brownists, followers of the famous dissenting preacher Robert Browne. They were also known as Separatists. They styled themselves "saints."

Thirty-nine others, the "strangers," made up the next largest category of Mayflower passengers. They had been engaged by the Merchant Adventurers, sponsors of the voyage, to settle in the new colony.

Church of England people, they had come to the New World not as religious dissenters but to find economic opportunity. Myles Standish and Priscilla Mullins were two of the "strangers." (John Alden was listed among the five hired hands.)

Eighteen indentured servants made up the balance of the passenger list.

There were no aristocrats or idle gentlemen among the Mayflower complement. Their occupuations included such plain ones as tailor, weaver, printer, wool comber, shopkeeper, blacksmith, sawyer, cooper, soldier.

As in any cross-section of humanity, there were a few black sheep, even among the "saints." John Billington ("stranger") was hanged in 1630 for killing a later immigrant with a blunderbuss. Isaac Allerton ("saint") was expelled from the colony for shady business dealings.

These exceptions aside, this tiny band of brave pioneers wrote a chapter in American history all out of proportion to their number.

Anyone who can trace his descent back to them has a right to be proud.

Only You Can Give Portrait

One Christmas gift you can be sure won't be duplicated is a portrait photograph. If you are planinng to have one taken, now is the time to make an appointment.

These ways are suggested to be more photogenic:

FOR MEN: Dark gray or medium blue suits photograph better than black and navy blue ones. A man should wear a conservative tie, shave no more than two hours before he faces the camera, and he should forget the face powder, as it makes the face look chalky in a photograph.

He should be about midway between haircuts and wear his glasses if that is how people recognize him. If he has a hobby, he might consult the photographer about including some aspect of it to give personality to the photograph.

FOR WOMEN: Cocktail-type dresses usually have flattering necklines and are perfect for photographs. Steer clear of stripes, plaids and bold prints that will detract from the focal point: your face.

GLITTERING CANDLES ornamented with beads, sequins and tiny balls and sparkling poinsettias ingeniously devised from milk weed pods, with Christmas tree balls in the center, were created for the holidays by Mrs. E. S. Grabowski, 324 Lake Shore Drive. (Daily Press Photo)

The Home Extension Club met at the town hall with Mrs. Roy McDowell, hostess. Plans were made for a Christmas tea to be held Saturday, Dec. 7, from 2 to 5 p. m. The public is invited.

The Lockes have closed their restaurant and motel for the winter and will leave for Florida where they will spend the winter months.

Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Pinus returned to Port Huron after spending two weeks visiting Mr. and Mrs. Roy McDowell.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy McDowell left for Detroit to spend Thanksgiving with their daughter and her family.

Art English of Ann Arbor spent a few days here visiting friends and hunting.

Successful hunters were Glen Short, Dick St. Martin and Bob Meyers.

Ski Togs Are Sure To Score

Something in ski wear—that's the guaranteed-to-please Christmas gift for any skiing enthusiast. After all, half the fun of skiing is wearing the dramatic fashions designed especially for the snowy slopes.

But up till now, stretch pants that looked so sleek when new, lost their shape after a few tumbles in the snow. Worse yet, light colors, though high in fashion, were xetremely hard to keep clean.

That's all over. The latest thing in stretch pants, available just in time for Christmas giving, are made of acrylic and nylon fibers that dry in no time—no matter how many spills you take.

And best of all, they can be machine washed and dried automatically. So those light-colored pants are now as practical as they are pretty.

For best results, wash for five minutes with regular agitation and cold water. However, if they're heavily soiled, better use warm water and gentle washing action.

The wash-and-wear setting on your dryer provides just the right temperature to relax the fibers and minimize wrinkles.

Experts recommend steam pressings every four or five launderings to rejuvenate the "permanent creases and pleats.

ANGELS, CHOIR BOYS and a clergyman come to adore the baby Jesus in this Nativity scene designed by Mrs. Marie Peterson, 420½ 2nd Ave. S. Cotton snow, ceramic figurines and little trees were used in making this setting of the birth of Christ. (Daily Press Photo)

Stretch pants are so comfortable and smart-looking, they have been adopted by many who have never been near a ski-ilft. And now that they can be washed, they're practical for growing youngsters, too.

Seaway Tonnage Shows Increase

DETROIT (AP)—The St. Lawrence Seaway carried a tonnage of 25,732,923 from April through October, an increase of 17.7 per cent over the same period a year ago, Joseph H. McCann, administrator of the St. Lawrence Seaway, reported Tuesday.

The tonnage for October was 4,109,721 compared with 3,889,027 for the same month a year ago.

Jewelry Solves Gift Dilemmas

Even if your budget doesn't stretch quite far enough to put diamonds in every stocking you plan to fill this Christmas, you shouldn't overlook your jeweler as one of Santa's best assistants.

Watchbands for people who already own fine watches are expected to be popular gift items at around $10.

Cultured pearls at $20 to $35 will probably lead the popularity parade in gifts for teenage girls. Prices for grown-up styles will be slightly higher. Rings set with rubies, hematite or onyx are expected to be big items for men at $20 to $30.

The jewelry store shopper will find stores less crowded than others even at Christmas. Merchandise isn't "picked over," employees are less harried, and there are fewer temporary helpers behind the counters. Style-color-size selections are good, too, and the early shopper can usually get special orders from manufacturers if he wants them.

Here are a few other ideas that may help you fill Santa's sack with quality jewelry gifts this season: AM-FM transistorized radios; bronzed baby shoes or barometers; candelabra, cameras, cameos or cuckoo clocks; dinnerware or desk sets; electronic watches or engraving on almost any kind of jewelry. Also there are fraternity pins, good luck pieces and hors d'oeuvre trays including new musical types.

Or you can get identification bracelets, irons, ivory items, ice buckets and Indian jewelry; jade or jeweled jam jars; knives, key-rings, knick-knacks and knife sharpeners; lockets, lamps, luggage and other leather items; military rings, mugs, memory books and motion picture equipment.

Perhaps you are looking for novelties or special watches for nuns or nurses; opera glasses; pens, pencils, pins or portable phonograph (including stereophonic needles) and radios.

Quartz, rosaries, skin divers' and other types of sports timers and stop-watches; as well as trays, telescopes, thermometers, typewriters and tape recorders including transistorized types so tiny they can be tucked into a briefcase are some other suggestions.

Still more possibilities include ultrasonic cleaning of precious jewelry; vacuum bottles; or weather forecasters, woodenware and wall clocks of all sorts are among other possibilities. And, there are many more, of course.

Up 5 Per Cent

DETROIT (AP) — The Negro population of Detroit's public schools has increased by 5 per cent over 1961 to 51 per cent of the enrollment, it was reported in results of a survey Tuesday. There about 10,000 more pupils in city schools than in 1961, the report said.

Edward Meyers Observe Their Silver Wedding

Mr. and Mrs. Edward J. Meyer of 1820 10th Ave. S., observed their silver wedding anniversary Saturday, Nov. 23, with a family dinner at the Chicken Shack and a reception at their home in the evening.

The buffet table featured a three tiered white and silver wedding cake, a money tree and arrangements of red roses.

The former Doris Menard and Edward Meyer were married at All Saints Church in Gladstone Nov. 23, 1938, with his brother, Father Theophil Meyer, O. F. M., officiating. Their attendants were Mrs. Mildred Menard Snowaert of Gladstone and Ted Mileski of Escanaba. Both were present at the anniversary celebration.

The Meyer family includes two children, Sharon and Robert.

Parakeets Could Be Rare Choice

Want to give relatives and friends an extra surprise this Christmas? Then plan on giving a parakeet, the third most popular pet, right behind puppies and kittens.

This suggestion comes from French's Pet Bird Laboratories in Rochester, N.Y., which reports that for the last several years these clever little birds have become increasingly popular as gift items.

They suggest, too, that the bird be taught a Christmas greeting for an added touch. "Parakeets learn from constant repetition of words and phrases," a spokesman points out. "It's merely a matter of time and patience." You may not get your parakeet to learn "Silent Night" between now and Christmas, but chances are he'll reward you with a cheery yuletide greeting if you spend just a few minutes a day on his education.

Mom can probably do the best job, say the experts at French's because its easier for birds to mimic the high tones of a woman's voice. In any case, only one person should be elocution coach to the bird.

For new parakeet owners, here, from the packers of French's Parakeet Seed, are some tips:

1. Don't expect too much of your pet right away. It takes a few days for him to adjust to new surroundings and he may act dull and drowsy. At first, it's wise to keep his cage covered for several hours during the day. Before long, your pet will feel settled and will be his usual playful, friendly self.

2. Try not to frighten or excite him. Move quietly when near the cage and talk to him in a soft, calm voice.

3. Keep the cage out of direct sunlight and drafts and in a spot where the bird will not be subject to sudden, extreme changes in temperature.

4. Feed your bird daily. And don't mistake a dish of empty seed hulls for a full cup of seed. His diet should consist of seed, treat, conditioning food, cuttle bone, and gravel, plus fresh water. Add spray millet or a treat bell from time to time for extra enjoyment.

5. Keep the bird cage clean. The food and water cups should be emptied and cleaned daily. Change the paper liner on the cage bottom and sprinkle with fresh gravel every few days. Scrape, do not wash, the perches when necessary.

The care and feeding of a parakeet are really so simple that a child can be given the complete responsibility. As a matter of fact, parakeets are more and more frequently found in nursery schools, kindergartens, and lower grades, where they become classroom projects.

Parakeets, noted for their companionship and humorous antics, will brighten any household not only at Christmas but for years afterward.

Some 70 U. S. manufacturers make 20 million toy guns each year.

Immanuel Will Have Service Of Thanksgiving

Thanksgiving Day services will be held Thursday morning at the Immanuel Lutheran Church of Escanaba. The service, which will begin at 9:45 has been planned with particular care with children in mind being included in family worship.

The senior choir will sing and the message will be by the pastor, Gordon Thorpe. Women who have not already taken their thankoffering boxes to the church are invited to do so tomorrow.

The public is invited to this service.

Ladies Love Soft Slippers

Give Christmas the soft touch this year with comfortable leather slippers. A thoughtful gift of soft, elegant suede or glove leather slippers will pamper and please every man, woman, and child on your holiday list.

Your choice ranges from soft ankle-hugging leather boots that are suitable for both indoor and outdoor wear to slippers designed chiefly for the path between the refrigerator and the easy chair.

Gift footwear for people who prefer to view the wintry scene from behind a windowpane boast high fashion and a high degree of comfort.

For the girls there are leather slippers or mules in colorful, lavish fashions. Some are beautifully embossed in gold or silver. Others are embroidered in floral designs.

A harlequin slipper is made up of bright leathers in diamond shapes. Its corners turn back and are fastened down with tiny silver bells or gay, gold pins.

The court jester's slipper-boot of soft-leather reaches to the ankle where it is gathered in with a band of jewels, fur or a leather thong.

A new idea in women's slippers is a leather lining in an even brighter shade than the slipper itself, such as geranium lined with turquoise, yellow with citron, and scarlet with bright pink.

Men's easy slippers also come in a variety of styles. These are leather-lined, low-cut opera slippers in glossy smooth leather for wear with an elegant dressing gown.

For the man who prefers casual dress at home, glove leather moccasin slippers are available in a variety of colors and styles. One popular moccasin features a folded back, stitched down tongue.

Another happy Christmas thought is a pair of soft leather travel scuffs that tuck into each other. Wherever he wears them, they'll remind him of hearth and home.

And, don't forget the children. Their slippers should be bright in color, high cut (to make it hard to pull them off), and with resilient leather soles and uppers to help support growing muscles.

Brightly colored leathers and leather linings attract youngsters and make them want to wear their slippers—not trot about barefoot on drafty floors.

They Sailed A Ship To Destiny

Some called themselves "saints." They referred to others as "strangers." Still others were servants and hired hands.

There were 102 of them all told, counting two boys born at sea and two who died at sea. They were the Mayflower passengers who landed at "Plimouth Plantation" in the New World on Dec. 21, 1620.

Is your name among them? If all those who over the years have claimed descent from the original Mayflower passengers had actually had ancestors on the ship, it must have been the size of the USS Enterprise, at least.

But there were only 102 of them (even that was crowding the little craft), and less than half of these survived that first cruel winter.

Though we call them all Pilgrims and have linked them inseparably with the Thanksgiving holiday, only 41 of the passengers had left England to seek religious liberty. They were the Brownists, followers of the famous dissenting preacher Robert Browne. They were also known as Separatists. They styled themselves "saints."

Thirty-nine others, the "strangers," made up the next largest category of Mayflower passengers. They had been engaged by the Merchant Adventurers, sponsors of the voyage, to settle in the new colony.

Church of England people, they had come to the New World not as religious dissenters but to find economic opportunity. Myles Standish and Priscilla Mullins were two of the "strangers." (John Alden was listed among the five hired hands.)

Eighteen indentured servants made up the balance of the passenger list.

There were no aristocrats or idle gentlemen among the humanity, there were a few black sheep, even among the "saints." John Billington ("stranger") was hanged in 1630 for killing a later immigrant with a blunderbuss. Isaac Allerton ("saint") was expelled from the colony for shady business dealings.

These exceptions aside, this tiny band of brave pioneers wrote a chapter in American history all out of proportion to their number.

Anyone who can trace his descent back to them has a right to be proud.

Mayflower complement. Their occupuations included such plain ones as tailor, weaver, printer, wool comber, shopkeeper, blacksmith, sawyer, cooper, soldier.

Only You Can Give Portrait

One Christmas gift you can be sure won't be duplicated is a portrait photograph. If you are planinng to have one taken, now is the time to make an appointment.

These ways are suggested to be more photogenic:

FOR MEN: Dark gray or medium blue suits photograph better than black and navy blue ones. A man should wear a conservative tie, shave no more than two hours before he faces the camera, and he should forget the face powder, as it makes the face look chalky in a photograph.

He should be about midway between haircuts and wear his glasses if that is how people recognize him. If he has a hobby, he might consult the photographer about including some aspect of it to give personality to the photograph.

FOR WOMEN: Cocktail-type dresses usually have flattering necklines and are perfect for photographs. Steer clear of stripes, plaids and bold prints that will detract from the focal point: your face.

WOMEN'S ACTIVITIES

She'd Love Leather Bag

This year Santa digs down deep and comes up with the bag — a handsome leather handbag to warm the heart of any woman on Christmas morning.

Whether it's a tote, satchel, clutch or box, a fashionable leather handbag is always a welcome gift. And in this year of leather, the selection is greater than ever.

Best of all, the new handbags have a rich look, thanks to fresh new colors and a variety of leather tannages — grained, smooth, waxy, suede and antiqued, among others.

With larger sizes making handbag headlines, a thoughtful gift would be a spacious leather satchel, pouch or box bag with room for all the paraphernalia essential to the modern woman.

Grained, brushed, antiqued and the new waxy leathers are seen most often in this style, with fashion touches leaning toward brass hardware, single or double leather straps, and multi-color combinations.

If you would rather your Christmas gift had a dressy touch, in keeping with the festive season, there are trim smooth and suede leather handbags with a slimmer, smaller silhouette.

Highlighted with brushed gold closings, flat little bows or chain handles, these dressy daytime bags are a cinch to be put to immediate use for some special holiday event.

You'll find a full palette of colors from which to choose, with many brown tones and deep greens and reds most prominent. Neutral shades such as taupe and fog grey, and the natural look of waxy and antiqued leather tannages, are also popular and sure to please.

For cocktail and evening wear, she'll cherish a pretty clutch or small envelope with a soft, wrinkle-free leather lining. These after-dark handbags of smooth, lustre and suede leather are sometimes starkly simple, and may be sparked with a touch of jeweling.

If she thinks you've been extravagant, you can magnanimously point out the lasting qualities of leather, and how easily she can clean smooth, grained, antiqued and waxy leathers wtih a damp cloth—making your gift a "practical luxury."

DRIFTWOOD, CONES, artificial fruits, weeds and other materials were used to make this attractive table setting for the holidays by Mrs. E. A. Grabowski, 324 Lake Shore Drive. (Daily Press Photo)

Father Role Changing In Today's World

EAST LANSING — We hear a lot about the changing role of woman, but a Michigan State University authority says the father role may be the most rapidly changing of all roles in today's family.

"There has been so much attention given to the changes associated with the new status of women that we have often lost sight of the fact that these changes have had striking influence upon the man in the family, too," says Dr. Eugene Peisner, family life specialist with the MSU Cooperative Extension Service.

Reporting on a research study by Dr. Frederick C. Kunz of Cornell University, Peisner points out that sex roles — or wife-mother and husband-father roles — tend to complement each other. Thus, it is inevitable that man's role must change in relationship to that of woman.

"Parent Role"

The study, he notes, suggests that the father and mother roles may be merging to such a degree in certain family-centered activities that "we may be witnessing the emergence of what might be called the 'Parent role.'"

How do men feel about participating in family activities traditionally considered woman's work — such as child care, food preparation or home decoration? Do they feel their masculinity is threatened?

Kunz's study says "No," Peisner reports. Today's father recognizes that assuming some of the traditionally female tasks can be advantageous, practical and efficient in achieving his own purposes.

Today's fathers, the study shows, tend to conform less to "correct" or "proper" notions of behaving as a father. Instead, the modern father is developing skills in human relations and he believes these skills will, in the long run, serve his family's needs.

"Sheer Joy"

One father, for example, said, "It was sheer joy to get to know my baby through so many activities. And it was fun in spite of all the mishaps, messes and tears."

"These activities gave me an opportunity to share in rearing the type of boys I desire," said another.

A far greater number of the fathers studied took part in family activities than did their fathers of the previous generation. But in general, they reported a substantial feeling of self-approval when they participated in such activities.

Dolls Display Many Talents

The world of dolls abounds with astonishing new talents, all keyed to making it more difficult than ever to differentiate dolls from real children.

Star performers this Yuletide are the new contingent of baby dolls whose behavior almost exactly reproduces the muscular virtuosity of infants and toddlers and most of the human babies' repertoire of sound effects as well.

The muscular activity of the baby is reproduced with fascinating realism by a new infant doll prototype. When this accomplished cherub sucks on her bottle she squirms and wriggles in a manner modelled exactly after real baby movements. There's a doll that laughs when tickled and another that cries when spanked.

A real surprise for even experienced connoisseurs of the modern playroom phenomenon — the doll conversationalist—is a new pram, wired so that when the doll mother pulls a cord the doll in the pram starts chattering without being touched at all.

Another addition to new doll accomplishments in the vocal area is the inclusion of foreign languages in the doll conversational repetoire One newcomer doll's accessories include records in six languages besides English and a wardrobe suited to travel in foreign lands, as well as more mundane social occasions at home.

The family concept has gained ground in the world of dolls this Yule season. There are more mama and papa dolls and teenage male dolls are included in several family sets.

The teen dolls have highly realistic accessories including telephones, hi-fi sets, and sports outfits. The sportive look currently favored in adult fashions is echoed in the fashion doll world, too.

Bulky knit sweaters and stretch pants, for example, are "in" and so are boots. The dressed doll will have at-home costumes, long formal evening dresses and even a collection of wigs.

A variety of character dolls add a touch of fantasy in intriguing contrast to the detailed realism of the dolls modelled after members of the average family.

Easy-To-Do Bows Dress Up Packages

Two things always happen in the weeks before Christmas. (1) You promise faithfully to do your holiday shopping earlier than last year, to avoid last-minute buying and gift-wrapping. (2) One of the children gets bedded down with the virus or flu.

While the two don't seem related, they are, according to Margaret Drummond, giftwrap stylist for the Kaycrest Division of The Papercraft Corporation.

"Instead of just reading comic books, coloring or watching television while ill, a child can be given an enjoyable and creative crafts experience. Showing him or her how to make beautiful fluffy bows will be fun and will help you when Christmas comes.

"Like many other simple crafts projects, this one can be learned quickly and easily—even by seven year olds," the Papercraft expert asserts from experience.

The child-tested instructions are simple to follow. Demonstate them once and then supervise the making of one big bow. You'll be surprised how readily the unwilling confined patients gets the knack of it and enjoys the pretty results.

With only half an hour's concentration a day, a dozen bows can be made easily in a week's time and stockpiled against the holiday giftwrapping rush.

Papercraft's giftwrap creator says, "I guarantee that no loving aunt or doting grandparent will ever notice an imperfection in the gaily decorative bow when told who created it."

The only supplies necessary are a selection of ribbon; some white paste (safe to use in bed because its container is unbreakable); and a pair of scissors with safety blunted edges.

The reason for providing several kinds of colors of ribbon is so your "artiste" can use imagination in creating many attractive combinations.

To make a wide, fluffy bow:

(1) Cut six-inch lengths of ribbon in the colors and styles you and your youngster prefer. As a base for the bow, cut off the round end piece from the ribbon reel.

(2) Fold one length of ribbon in half. Paste the tips together to form a loop. (To get just the right amount of white paste, make a cardboard paste spreader about the width of a pencil.)

(3) Start first level of bow by pasting loops around rim of cardboard circle. Continue procedure until there is a full circle of ribbon loops radiating out from the cardboard.

(4) To make the second level, paste a ribbon loop over each space between ribbon loops on the first level. A full bow is achieved by adding several levels, in smaller and smaller circles, toward the cardboard's center.

The buffet table featured a three tiered white and silver wedding cake, a money tree and arrangements of red roses.

The former Doris Menard and Edward Meyer were married at All Saints Church in Gladstone Nov. 23, 1938, with his brother, Father Theophil Meyer, O. F. M., officiating. Their attendants were Mrs. Mildred Menard Snowaert of Gladstone and Ted Mileski of Escanaba. Both were present at the anniversary celebration.

Parakeets Could Be Rare Choice

Want to give relatives and friends an extra surprise this Christmas? Then plan on giving a parakeet, the third most popular pet, right behind puppies and kittens.

This suggestion comes from French's Pet Bird Laboratories in Rochester, N.Y., which reports that for the last several years these clever little birds have become increasingly popular as gift items.

They suggest, too, that the bird be taught a Christmas greeting for an added touch. "Parakeets learn from constant repetition of words and phrases," a spokesman points out. "It's merely a matter of time and patience." You may not get your parakeet to learn "Silent Night" between now and Christmas, but chances are he'll reward you with a cheery yuletide greeting if you spend just a few minutes a day on his education.

Mom can probably do the best job, say the experts at French's because its easier for birds to mimic the high tones of a woman's voice. In any case, only one person should be elocution coach to the bird.

For new parakeet owners, here, from the packers of French's Parakeet Seed, are some tips:

1. Don't expect too much of your pet right away. It takes a few days for him to adjust to new surroundings and he may act dull and drowsy. At first, it's wise to keep his cage covered for several hours during the day. Before long, your pet will feel settled and will be his usual playful, friendly self.

2. Try not to frighten or excite him. Move quietly when near the cage and talk to him in a soft, calm voice.

3. Keep the cage out of direct sunlight and drafts and in a spot where the bird will not be subject to sudden, extreme changes in temperature.

4. Feed your bird daily. And don't mistake a dish of empty seed hulls for a full cup of seed His diet should consist of seed, treat, conditioning food, cuttle bone, and gravel, plus fresh water. Add spray millet or a treat bell from time to time for extra enjoyment.

5. Keep the bird cage clean. The food and water cups should be emptied and cleaned daily. Change the paper liner on the cage bottom and sprinkle with fresh gravel every few days. Scrape, do not wash, the perches when necessary.

The care and feeding of a parakeet are really so simple that a child can be given the complete responsibility. As a matter of fact, parakeets are more and more frequently found in nursery schools, kindergartens, and lower grades, where they become classroom projects.

Parakeets, noted for their companionship and humorous antics, will brighten any household not only at Christmas but for years afterward.

Some 70 U. S. manufacturers make 20 million toy guns each year.

Immanuel Will Have Service Of Thanksgiving

Thanksgiving Day services will be held Thursday morning at the Immanuel Lutheran Church of Escanaba. The service, which will begin at 9:45 has been planned with particular care with children in mind being included in family worship.

The senior choir will sing and the message will be by the pastor, Gordon Thorpe. Women who have not already taken their thankoffering boxes to the church are invited to do so tomorrow.

The public is invited to this service.

Ladies Love Soft Slippers

Give Christmas the soft touch this year with comfortable leather slippers. A thoughtful gift of soft, elegant suede or glove leather slippers will pamper and please every man, woman, and child on your holiday list.

Your choice ranges from soft ankle-hugging leather boots that are suitable for both indoor and outdoor wear to slippers designed chiefly for the path between the refrigerator and the easy chair.

Gift footwear for people who prefer to view the wintry scene from behind a windowpane boast high fashion and a high degree of comfort.

For the girls there are leather slippers or mules in colorful, lavish fashions. Some are beautifully embossed in gold or silver. Others are embroidered in floral designs.

A harlequin slipper is made up of bright leathers in diamond shapes. Its corners turn back and are fastened down with tiny silver bells or gay, gold pins.

The court jester's slipper-boot of soft-leather reaches to the ankle where it is gathered in with a band of jewels, fur or a leather thong.

A new idea in women's slippers is a leather lining in an even brighter shade than the slipper itself, such as geranium lined with turquoise, yellow with citron, and scarlet with bright pink.

Men's easy slippers also come in a variety of styles. These are leather-lined, low-cut opera slippers in glossy smooth leather for wear with an elegant dressing gown.

For the man who prefers casual dress at home, glove leather moccasin slippers are available in a variety of colors and styles. One popular moccasin features a folded back, stitched down tongue.

Another happy Christmas thought is a pair of soft leather travel scuffs that tuck into each other. Wherever he wears them, they'll remind him of hearth and home.

And, don't forget the children. Their slippers should be bright in color, high cut (to make it hard to pull them off), and with resilient leather soles and uppers to help support growing muscles.

Brightly colored leathers and leather linings attract youngsters and make them want to wear their slippers—not trot about barefoot on drafty floors.

In Memoriam

Reiffers

In loving memory of our dear mother, Marie Reiffers, who passed away 3 years ago, Nov. 28, 1960.

Gone dear mother, gone forever,
How we miss your smiling face,
But you left us to remember,
None on earth can take your place.
A happy home we once enjoyed,
How sweet the memories still,
We cherish the love you so willingly gave,
Today we bow silently over your grave.
The whisper a prayer, and leave a bouquet,
We haven't forgotten today is the day.
We miss you mother dear,
Life is so lonely since you're not here.
How we loved you, bless your dear heart,
Sad was the day you had to depart.

Lovingly remembered and sadly missed by her

WOMEN'S ACTIVITIES

She'd Love Leather Bag

This year Santa digs down deep and comes up with the bag — a handsome leather handbag to warm the heart of any woman on Christmas morning.

Whether it's a tote, satchel, clutch or box, a fashionable leather handbag is always a welcome gift. And in this year of leather, the selection is greater than ever.

Best of all, the new handbags have a rich look, thanks to fresh new colors and a variety of leather tannages — grained, smooth, waxy, suede and antiqued, among others.

With larger sizes making handbag headlines, a thoughtful gift would be a spacious leather satchel, pouch or box bag with room for all the paraphernalia essential to the modern woman.

Grained, brushed, antiqued and the new waxy leathers are seen most often in this style, with fashion touches leaning toward brass hardware, single or double leather straps, and multi-color combinations.

If you would rather your Christmas gift had a dressy touch, in keeping with the festive season, there are trim smooth and suede leather handbags with a slimmer, smaller silhouette.

Highlighted with brushed gold closings, flat little bows or chain handles, these dressy daytime bags are a cinch to be put to immediate use for some special holiday event.

You'll find a full palette of colors from which to choose, with many brown tones and deep greens and reds most prominent. Neutral shades such as taupe and fog grey, and the natural look of waxy and antiqued leather tannages, are also popular and sure to please.

For cocktail and evening wear, she'll cherish a pretty clutch or small envelope with a soft, wrinkle-free leather lining. These after-dark handbags of smooth, lustre and suede leather are sometimes starkly simple, and may be sparked with a touch of jeweling.

If she thinks you've been extravagant, you can magnanimously point out the lasting qualities of leather, and how easily she can clean smooth, grained, antiqued and waxy leathers wtih a damp cloth—making your gift a "practical luxury."

DRIFTWOOD, CONES, artificial fruits, weeds and other materials were used to make this attractive table setting for the holidays by Mrs. E. A. Grabowski, 324 Lake Shore Drive. (Daily Press Photo)

Father Role Changing In Today's World

EAST LANSING — We hear a lot about the changing role of woman, but a Michigan State University authority says the father role may be the most rapidly changing of all roles in today's family.

"There has been so much attention given to the changes associated with the new status of women that we have often lost sight of the fact that these changes have had striking influence upon the man in the family, too," says Dr. Eugene Peisner, family life specialist with the MSU Cooperative Extension Service.

Reporting on a research study by Dr. Frederick C. Kunz of Cornell University, Peisner points out that sex roles — or wife-mother and husband-father roles — tend to complement each other. Thus, it is inevitable that man's role must change in relationship to that of woman.

"Parent Role"

The study, he notes, suggests that the father and mother roles may be merging to such a degree in certain family-centered activities that "we may be witnessing the emergence of what might be called the 'Parent role.'"

How do men feel about participating in family activities traditionally considered woman's work — such as child care, food preparation or home decoration? Do they feel their masculinity is threatened?

Kunz's study says "No," Peisner reports. Today's father recognizes that assuming some of the traditionally female tasks can be advantageous, practical and efficient in achieving his own purposes.

Today's fathers, the study shows, tend to conform less to "correct" or "proper" notions of behaving as a father. Instead, the modern father is developing skills in human relations and he believes these skills will, in the long run, serve his family's needs.

"Sheer Joy"

One father, for example, said, "It was sheer joy to get to know my baby through so many activities. And it was fun in spite of all the mishaps, messes and tears."

"These activities gave me an opportunity to share in rearing the type of boys I desire," said another.

A far greater number of the fathers studied took part in family activities than did their fathers of the previous generation. But in general, they reported a substantial feeling of self-approval when they participated in such activities.

Dolls Display Many Talents

The world of dolls abounds with astonishing new talents, all keyed to making it more difficult than ever to differentiate dolls from real children.

Star performers this Yuletide are the new contingent of baby dolls whose behavior almost exactly reproduces the muscular virtuosity of infants and toddlers and most of the human babies' repertoire of sound effects as well.

The muscular activity of the baby is reproduced with fascinating realism by a new infant doll prototype. When this accomplished cherub sucks on her bottle she squirms and wriggles in a manner modelled exactly after real baby movements. There's a doll that laughs when tickled and another that cries when spanked.

A real surprise for even experienced connoisseurs of the modern playroom phenomenon — the doll conversationalist—is a new pram, wired so that when the doll mother pulls a cord the doll in the pram starts chattering without being touched at all.

Another addition to new doll accomplishments in the vocal area is the inclusion of foreign languages in the doll conversational repetoire One newcomer doll's accessories include records in six languages besides English and a wardrobe suited to travel in foreign lands, as well as more mundane social occasions at home.

The family concept has gained ground in the world of dolls this Yule season. There are more mama and papa dolls and teenage male dolls are included in several family sets.

The teen dolls have highly realistic accessories including telephones, hi-fi sets, and sports outfits. The sportive look currently favored in adult fashions is echoed in the fashion doll world, too.

Bulky knit sweaters and stretch pants, for example, are "in" and so are boots. The dressed doll will have at-home costumes, long formal evening dresses and even a collection of wigs.

A variety of character dolls add a touch of fantasy in intriguing contrast to the detailed realism of the dolls modelled after members of the average family.

Easy-To-Do Bows Dress Up Packages

Two things always happen in the weeks before Christmas. (1) You promise faithfully to do your holiday shopping earlier than last year, to avoid last-minute buying and gift-wrapping. (2) One of the children gets bedded down with the virus or flu.

While the two don't seem related, they are, according to Margaret Drummond, giftwrap stylist for the Kaycrest Division of The Papercraft Corporation.

"Instead of just reading comic books, coloring or watching television while ill, a child can be given an enjoyable and creative crafts experience. Showing him or her how to make beautiful fluffy bows will be fun and will help you when Christmas comes.

"Like many other simple crafts projects, this one can be learned quickly and easily—even by seven year olds," the Papercraft expert asserts from experience.

The child-tested instructions are simple to follow. Demonstate them once and then supervise the making of one big bow. You'll be surprised how readily the unwilling confined patients gets the knack of it and enjoys the pretty results.

With only half an hour's concentration a day, a dozen bows can be made easily in a week's time and stockpiled against the holiday giftwrapping rush.

Papercraft's giftwrap creator says, "I guarantee that no loving aunt or doting grandparent will ever notice an imperfection in the gaily decorative bow when told who created it."

The only supplies necessary are a selection of ribbon; some white paste (safe to use in bed because its container is unbreakable); and a pair of scissors with safety blunted edges.

The reason for providing several kinds of colors of ribbon is so your "artiste" can use imagination in creating many attractive combinations.

To make a wide, fluffy bow:

(1) Cut six-inch lengths of ribbon in the colors and styles you and your youngster prefer. As a base for the bow, cut off the round end piece from the ribbon reel.

(2) Fold one length of ribbon in half. Paste the tips together to form a loop. (To get just the right amount of white paste, make a cardboard paste spreader about the width of a pencil.)

(3) Start first level of bow by pasting loops around rim of cardboard circle. Continue procedure until there is a full circle of ribbon loops radiating out from the cardboard.

(4) To make the second level, paste a ribbon loop over each space between ribbon loops on the first level. A full bow is achieved by adding several levels, in smaller and smaller circles, toward the cardboard's center.

Rotarians Hear District Governor Michael J. Anuta

Addressing the local Rotary Club Monday Michael J. Anuta, Rotary Governor of this area, linked Gladstone Rotarians with more than a half-million other business and professional men who belong to Rotary Clubs in communities around the world.

"Rotary Clubs are functioning in more than 11,500 communities in 129 countries," he said, "and despite the diversity of their languages, customs, and political and religious beliefs, they are working toward community betterment, the promotion of high standards in business, and the advancement of world understanding."

Michael J. Anuta, the Judge of the Municipal Court of Menominee, was in Gladstone on Monday making his official visit to the local Rotary Club, one of the thirty-six clubs in his district.

In the field of youth, Mr. Anuta spoke of the new club for boys that is now a part of the Rotary program. It is called INTERACT, it is for boys in the upper three years of high school. "It is a club for international action," he said, "and is designed to turn the attention of young men to service and international understanding."

Students stood for a moment of silent prayer for the late President Kennedy and his family.

The program included vocal selections by the Missettes, under the direction of Kenneth Benson, a spiritual reading by Lauran Bergman and group singing led by Wallace Camcron, superintendent of schools.

School was dismissed for the Thanksgiving holiday at the close of the program. Classes will resume Monday morning.

Weekend Sets Record For TV

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Television-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—It will be days before the national figures are compiled, but the most authoritative rating service estimates that in the metropolitan New York area, a massive 93 per cent of television-equipped homes were using their sets to watch the funeral services for President John F. Kennedy.

A spokesman for the A. C. Nielsen Co. said that if the New York figure proves to be typical of the whole nation, "more people were watching television on Monday than at any other time in the history of the medium."

During the period between Friday and Monday, Nielsen estimates, the average New York television set was in use for a total of 34 hours, more than twice the normal number.

On Sunday morning, normally a light viewing period, an extraordinary number of sets were in use—about 42 per cent. But after the shooting of Lee Harvey Oswald in Dallas, the figure zoomed to a fantastic 77 per cent by 1 p.m.

Tuesday morning, things got back to normal. Commercials came back. Programs began and ended precisely on the hour and the half hour. Game show hosts on taped shows made jokes and laughed heartily at them. The soap opera characters resumed their tangled lives.

Mr. Novak's problems Tuesday night with a difficult student were really quite relaxing because you knew he'd come out of it all right.

Red Skelton's and Martha Raye's antics in a ridiculous Wild West sketch were mildly amusing, but it was good to laugh a little.

With Majority

WASHINGTON (AP) — Michigan's Democratic Sens. Patrick V. McNamara and Philip A. Hart voted with the majority Tuesday night when the Senate tabled and thus killed a bill to ban use of credit by government agencies to finance any trade with Communist nations. The vote was 57 to 35.

Theater Organ Is Heard Again

By S. GORDON GAPPER
Flint Journal Music Editor

FLINT (AP) — Arthur W. Donelson, Flint, has spent 100 hours turning the clock back and isn't satisfied yet.

It has taken Donelson that long to put the Capitol Theater's old Barton organ in working order.

Because of his labor of love, a voice which has been silent for a decade or more has begun to "speak" again for movie audiences.

Donelson tunes pianos and organs for a living but considers himself only a buff as far as theater-organ music goes.

His interest in hearing theater organs on visits to Detroit led him to approach Earl Berry, Manager of Flint's downtown Capitol, about renovating the Barton.

His idea was to start a theater-organ club.

Installed In 1928

Records show that the organ, installed when the theater was built in 1928, was last serviced 13 years ago.

"And even then it wasn't a proper servicing job, I don't believe," Donelson observed.

Most of the pipes—several hundred of them—would not produce a sound when the keys were pressed.

This meant complete repair of the motors and electrical relay system between the console and the organ chambers and replacement of leather in bellows and valves.

Neither leatherwork nor fine tuning of the pipes is finished but the organ is in playing order.

Movie audiences have, with some surprise, watched the lighted baroque consol emerge from the semidarkness during intermissions of weekend shows.

Seated at the massive control panel was Mrs. Donelson. She teaches at Michigan School for the Deaf here and organ playing is just a hobby—in which Berry has allowed her to indulge for the benefit of patrons.

More Pipes Needed

"Next thing you know," said Berry, "we'll be having some of those old bouncing-ball films."

A big job ahead of Donelson is cleaning the pipe-packed organ lofts each side of the proscenium.

"Someone replastered the place and because the organ wasn't being used didn't bother to clean up," he said.

He also wants to add more pipes to the pedal division, which, he feels, does not sound heavy enough for a theater organ.

The instrument has three manuals—great, solo and accompaniment — and a host of stops to give tonal variety and special effects.

The Capitol's daily show schedule may preclude use of the organ by a club, but at least for audiences Donelson's reviving of the past has assured a real old-fashioned future.

NEW YORK (AP)—The latest edition of the New York Social Register Tuesday listed Gov. and Mrs. Nelson A. Rockefeller together in its 1964 edition.

The listing ended speculation that their names might be dropped because of their divorces and remarriages.

Kennedy's Text On Thanksgiving

WASHINGTON (AP)—Here is the text of the Thanksgiving Day proclamation issued by President Kennedy on Nov. 5 which President Johnson urged be read in the nation's churches on Thursday:

Over three centuries ago our forefathers in Virginia and in Massachusetts far from home in a lonely wilderness set aside a time for thanksgiving. On the apppointed day, they gave reverent thanks for their safety, for the health of their children, for the fertility of their fields, for the laws which bound them together and for the faith which united them under their God.

So, too when the colonies achieved their independence, our first president in the first year of his first administration proclaimed Nov. 26, 1789, as "a day of public thanksgiving and prayer to be observed by acknowledging with grateful hearts the many signal favors of almighty God" and called upon the people of the new republic to "beseech Him to pardon our national and other transgressions, to promote the knowledge and practice of true religion and virtue and generally to grant unto all mankind such a degree of temporal prosperity as He alone knows to be best."

And so too in the midst of America's tragic Civil War, President Lincoln proclaimed the last Thursday of November, 1863, as a day to renew our gratitude for America's "fruitful fields' for our "national strength and vigor" and for our "singular deliverance and blessings."

Much time has passed since the first colonists came to rocky shores and dark forests of an unknown continent, much time since President Washington led a young people into the experience of nationhood, much time since President Lincoln saw the American nation through the ordeal of fraternal war — and in these years our population, our plenty and our power have all grown apace. Today we are a nation of nearly two hundred million souls, stretching from coast to coast, on into the Pacific and north toward the arctic, a nation enjoying the fruits of an ever-expanding agriculture and industry and achieving standards of living unknown in previous history. We give our humble thanks for this.

Yet, as our power has grown, so has our peril. Today we give our thanks, most of all, for the ideals of honor and faith we inherit from our forefathers—for the decency of purpose, steadfastness of resolve and strength of will, for the courage and the humility, which they possessed and which we must seek every day to emulate. As we express our gratitude, we must never forget that the highest appreciation is not to utter words but to live by them.

Let us therefore proclaim our gratitude to Providence for manifold blessings — let us be humbly thankful for inherited ideals — and let us resolve to share those blessings and those ideals with our fellow human beings throughout the world.

Now, therefore, I, John F. Kennedy, President of the United States in consonance with the joint resolution of Congress approved Dec. 26, 1941, 55 Stat. 862, 5 U.S.C. 87 B, designating the fourth Thursday of November in each year as Thanksgiving Day do hereby proclaim Thursday, Nov. 28, 1963, as a day of national thanksgiving.

On that day let us gather in sanctuaries dedicated to worship and in homes blessed by family affection to express our gratitude for the glorious gifts of God; and let us earnestly and humbly pray that He will continue to guide and sustain us in the great unfinished tasks of achieving peace, justice and understanding among all men and all nations and of ending misery and suffering wherever they exist.

Statisticians estimate that the earth contains 6,586 quintillion tons of matter.

In loving memory of our dear mother, Marie Reiffers, who passed away 3 years ago, Nov. 28, 1960.

Gone dear mother, gone forever,
How we miss your smiling face,
But you left us to remember,
None on earth can take your place.
A happy home we once enjoyed,
How sweet the memories still,
We cherish the love you so willingly gave,
Today we bow silently over your grave.
The whisper a prayer, and leave a bouquet,
We haven't forgotten today is the day.
We miss you mother dear,
Life is so lonely since you're not here.
How we loved you, bless your dear heart,
Sad was the day you had to depart.

Nahma Gets Third Win; Groleau Hits 30 Points

NAHMA—The Nahma Arrows, with big Pat Groleau getting a balanced assist from his mates, ran up their third straight victory of the season here Tuesday night, beating Garden 75-62 in a Central League contest.

Groleau, leading scorer in the Upper Peninsula last season and setting the pace again this year, hit the target with 13 field goals and four free throws for 30 points.

The 6 foot, 5 inch senior pivotman continued to dominate the Arrows in shooting and rebounding, clearing the boards 24 times, but Coach Owen Peterson was impressed with the help provided Groleau's running mates.

Don Johnson reached the 20-point mark for the first time this season while Tom Krutina fired in 12 points and Terry Larscheid 10.

Groleau boosted his season scoring total to 114 points in three games for an average of 38 per game. He scored 703 in 22 games for a 32 point average last season.

Coach Dave Pelletier's Garden Jets, still playing without the services of scoring star Barry Rochefort who is sidelined with injuries sustained in an auto mishap, gave the Arrows a run for their money.

Garden led 16-15 at the end of the first period but Nahma spurted shortly before halftime to take the intermission with a 32-29 lead.

Nahma cemented the victory in the third quarter in which the Arrows outscored the Jets 22 to 12. The balanced scoring paid off in that period as Groleau tallied seven points, Larscheid six and Johnson five.

Garden rallied in the final period to play the Arrows on even terms, each team hitting 21 points down the stretch.

Jan Farley, a 6-foot senior, turned in an outstanding game for Garden, scoring 20 points and hauling down 18 of his team's 34 rebounds. Cal Richard also reached double scoring figures with 12 points.

Nahma scored 32 field goals on 75 shots and added 11 of 19 free throw attempts. Garden hit 26 of 72 from the field and 10 of 16 from the foul line.

Nahma plays next Dec. 6 at Rock and Garden travels to Cooks the same night.

Garden won last night's jayvee game 42-30.

Detroit Could Wreck Packers

DETROIT (AP)—The Green Bay Packers are quitting the traditional series of Thanksgiving Day games at Detroit—but the Detroit Lions have one more chance Thursday to spoil a holiday for Packers fans.

The Lions banished Green Bay's holiday cheer last Thanksgiving by dumping the National Football League's Western Division leaders, 26-14. The Packers still finished first, but the Lions won in embarrassing style, continually throwing quarterback Bart Starr for losses.

Detroit is in a better position to ruin the Packers this season, since a loss would all but knock Green Bay out of the title running.

The Packers, with a 9-2 record, are on the heels of the division-leading Chicago Bears, who have a 9-1-1 mark. They need three victories and a Chicago loss to win the division title.

Claiming that the Thanksgiving Day game at Detroit doesn't give him enough time to get his men ready, Green Bay Coach Cince Lombardi has been trying for years to get out of the game.

He convinced NFL Commissioner Pete Rozelle that after Thursday, the Western Division teams should take turns playing at Detroit on Thanksgiving Day.

The Thanksgiving Day game is the only regular season NFL game which always has played to capacity crowds and a nationwide television audience.

Wilt Pushed In Point Race

NEW YORK (AP)—The new Wilt Chamberlain, whose feeding and defense reshaped the attack of the San Francisco Warriors, has thrown the National Basketball Association scoring race into a scramble.

The old Chamberlain poured points at a record rate through his first four years in the NBA.

But the new Wilt has cut his point production sharply and as a result three other players threaten his 32.6 average. St. Louis' Bob Pettit, the leader in total points with 554 and a 27.7 average, Jerry West of Los Angeles, with a 28.9 percentage, and Cincinnati's Oscar Robertson, who's hitting 26.7 per game all have a chance to catch Wilt the Stilt.

Carney Is First To Register 100

CARNEY — Coach Bob Kuntze's Carney Wolves became the first Upper Peninsula team to reach the century mark in scoring this season when they licked Perkins 100-63 here Tuesday night.

The victory was the third straight this season for the Wolves who compete in the Big Eight Conference. The defeat was the third in a row for Perkins of the Central League.

Kuntze used all 11 players on his squad and all of them contributed to the scoring column. He substituted freely through the game. Top point man as the Wolves set a new gym scoring record was Bob Macco with 22. The old gym record was 93 points, set last year against Pembine.

The Wolves displayed fine marksmanship, hitting 41 of 86 field goal attempts and pumping in 18 of 22 gift shots. Perkins clicked on 21 of 62 from the field and 21 of 35 from the charity line.

Carney jumped to a 28-12 lead in the first period and was never threatened.

Jim Brandstrom and Len Eagle scored a combined 33 points for Coach Joe Vestich.

Carney won the jayvee game 61-28.

St. Paul Beats Rocket Cagers For Third Win

RAPID RIVER — The Negaunee St. Paul Emeralds chalked up their third straight triumph of the season here Tuesday night by downing the Rapid River Rockets 76-48.

Coach Allan Dighera's Emeralds, who reached the state tournament Class D finals in East Lansing last season, won with two big quarters.

Rapid River trailed only 17-15 at the end of the first frame, folded in the second and third, and came back to match the Emeralds with 21 points in the finale.

Rodney Guizzetti, 6 foot 3 inch senior center, led the Emeralds with 27 points and Dom Jacobetti canned 15. Guizzetti turned in an outstanding game on the boards, hauling in 26 rebounds.

Doug Moss furnished almost half of Rapid River's scoring output with 20 points for Coach Barney McCall.

Rapid River won the jayvee preliminary game 61-37.

Staubach Named Winner Of Heisman Grid Trophy

ANNAPOLIS, Md. (AP)—Roger Staubach, Navy's exciting quarterback and 1963 Heisman Trophy winner, is a football perfectionist who works as hard keeping his skills sharp as he did in acquiring them.

Almost any afternoon after practice, he can be seen on the field working individually on some phase of his game.

He may be taking handoffs under center, sharpening his passing with two or three receivers who stayed to run a few more patterns, or sprinting to build up wind for those loping, easy runs that are so deceptive and have demolished many enemy defenses this fall.

His favorite pastime during summer leave is passing a football with friends.

"You'd think he was a kid trying to make the team instead of being one of the best football players in the country," an observer said one day recently as Jolly Roger sailed through a few extra wind sprints after practice.

The Heisman Trophy board took him out of the class of "one of the best" Tuesday, it voted the long-legged Cincinnati, Ohio, junior the outstanding college football player in the country.

In leading Navy to No. 2 national ranking and an 8-1 season which will be climaxed in a postponed game with Army Dec. 7, he has rolled up 1,738 yards passing and running, passed for seven touchdowns and run for eight.

Staubach was chosen by a wide margin — 517 first place votes to 65—over Georgia Tech's versatile senior quarterback Billy Lothridge, who placed second.

He is only the third junior to win the 29-year-old trophy. The others were Felix (Doc) Blanchard at Army in 1945 and Doak Walker at Southern Methodist in 1948. Neither repeated in his senior year.

The 21-year-old midshipman is scheduled to receive the award from the sponsoring Downtown Athletic Club in New York Dec. 4, the same week he leads the bowl-minded Middies against an Army team he made a shambles of as a sophomore last year.

Staubach, whose precision passes, Houdini escapes from tacklers and scrambling runs have made him one of the most exciting players in college football, reacted with typical modesty to announcement of the award.

"The Heisman Trophy is something you hear about in high school and suddenly it happens to you," he said. "I can hardly believe it . . . it's something I'll treasure all my life."

"I owe it to everyone," he said, citing coaches from grade school through Wayne Hardin and also the Navy teammates who have thrown so many blocks for him and gotten up to throw them again as he scrambled to set up a pass or take off on an unbelievable run.

He is immensely popular with his teammates, many of whom have asked him to autograph pictures to send to friends, and with the brigade of midshipmen who cheer every honor that comes his way.

Off the field he is known as a quiet, deeply religious midshipman who attends Catholic mass and communion at 6 a.m. daily and is an average student.

Staubach is Hardin's second Heisman winner in three years. Halfback Joe Bellino, who won it in 1960, was the first Navy player ever to gain the honor.

Northern Wins Season Opener

OSHKOSH, Wis. (AP) — Bob Armstead scored 22 points and Dave Cade added 16 in leading Northern Michigan to a 74-71 non-conference basketball victory over Oshkosh State Tuesday night.

Northern Michigan had a 39-32 halftime lead in the season opener for both schools.

Eagles Extend Victory String Over Trenary

EBEN — The Eben Eagles tightened their grip on first place in the Central League basketball race here Tuesday night with a 63-45 victory over previously unbeaten Trenary.

Coach Jim DePew's Eben cagers fashioned their fourth straight victory of the season, all against Central League foes, with a strong second half performance.

The tall, fast moving Eagles wore their opponents down with a tight press throughout the game. They dominated the boards with Bill Carlson and Andy Freberg hauling down 17 apiece.

Coach Steve Ellis' Trenary Comets ripped out to a 13-11 lead in the first period with Gary Flynn and Wayne Lusardi setting the pace.

Eben made its move midway in the second period and wrested a 28-23 lead at the half. The Eagles took command in the third period in which they outscored the Comets 18-7 for a 46-30 cushion entering the fourth quarter.

Arne Haavisto, 6 foot 1 inch sophomore, led the Eagles in scoring with 15 points. Freberg hit 14 and Stan Smith 10. Lusardi led Trenary with 13 and Flynn chipped in 12.

Trenary won the jayvee game 29-28.

Lansing Team State Champ

LANSING (AP)—Lansing Sexton's football team Tuesday received the Glenn C. MacDonald Memorial Trophy, presented annually to Michigan's Class A state high school football champion as decided by The Associated Press.

The trophy, donated three years ago by the Bay City Times in memory of its late publisher, was presented at a school assembly to Principal Christian Roosenraad and head coach Russ Maples.

Members of the AP's panel of sportswriters and sportscasters named Sexton, which had completed a 7-0-1 season, the top team on their final ballots.

The Lansing school had been ranked second and third through most of the season, and jumped into the No. 1 spot to stay just two weeks before the season ended.

Bay City Handy and Ann Arbor were the previous holders of the rotating trophy.

Grid Draft Is Slated Saturday

NEW YORK (AP)—A total of 200 collegians, including such eligibles as Navy quarterback Roger Staubach, the 1963 Heisman Trophy winner, and Scott Appleton, outstanding Texas tackle, are expected to be chosen in the American Football League draft Saturday.

There will be 25 rounds with all eight teams drawing in the first round.

Either Denver or Kansas City will have first pick, depending upon the outcome of the Oakland-Denver game, the league's lone Thanksgiving Day encounter.

The selections will be made in inverse order of the standings as of Friday. If Oakland defeats Denver, the Broncos will have first pick. If the Broncos win, Kansas City will make the first choice. New York's Jets will have third pick.

Plan Eulogy For Halftime

EAST LANSING (AP) — A tribute to the late President John F. Kennedy will be presented during halftimw ceremonies at Thursday's Michigan State-Illinois Big Ten champpionship decider.

When the game was postponed Saturday in deference to the nationwide mourning for the slain President, MSU officials revamped the elaborate halftime festivities.

A brief eulogy for President Kennedy will be read as the band plays God Bless America. Spectators then will be asked to observe a minute of silent tribute.

Peninsula Prep Cagers Taller Than In Past

MARQUETTE — More than any other year, most Upper Peninsula high school basketball coaches should be especially thankful this Thanksgiving Day.

They're blessed with taller cagers than ever before.

No one's ever kept any kind of official figures on the height of basketball players in the Peninsula, but it's apparent from sports writers' observations and from figures made available by about 75 per cent of high school coaches the last several years that the prepsters were getting taller.

A sudden spurt is noticeable this year, both on the basketball court and in coaches' figures.

From the mid-50's through last winter, a gradual rise was noted, although there was a downturn in 1960-61. In 1956-57, for instance, U. P. teams listed 33 players who stood 6 feet 3 inches or taller. The number in that height group slumped unexplainably to 21 in 1960-61, but it was up to 36 again in 1961-62 and last year it had reached 40.

Sixty-six coaches listing their players' height this season revealed that 58 stand 6-3 or taller, including 12 who go 6-4, five each at 6-5 and 6-6 and one at 6-7.

Biggest change has come in the larger school lineups, where the six-footer has become the rule instead of the exception. Of the 54 boys suiting up for games at the Peninsula's four Class A schools (enrollment of 900 or more), 31 stand 6 feet or taller.

The appearance of tall players is more noticeable at some schools than at others.

Rudyard in 1956-57 was a Class D school (enrollment under 225), had only one player over 6 feet. The Bulldogs compiling a 10-10 record, reached the regional tournament to become one of Chassell's many victims during that school's 65-game winning streak.

Rudyard's enrollment began climbing as personnel buildup continued at nearby Kincheloe Air Force Base. An enrollment of 421 last year put the school in Class B. After compiling a season's mark of 13-3, mostly against smaller schools in the eastern U. P., the Bulldogs went up against bigger-name teams, beating Munising, Manistique, Ironwood and Gladstone in succession to take the Upper Peninsula championship and went as far as the state semi-finals before being eliminated in post-season tournament action.

The fact that Rudyard had an all-6-foot lineup, including three 6-4 players and one who stood 6-3, had a lot to do with the school's brilliant performance.

Newberry had only a couple of players around the 6-foot mark back in 1957. Today two of its seniors go 6-6.

WAYNE SEIBERT, Escanaba's senior center, is the tallest player in the Upper Peninsula this season at 6 feet, 7 inches. (Daily Press Photo)

San Jose State Repeat Champ

EAST LANSING (AP) — "We run seven days a week, 365 days a year," said Coach Dean Miller of San Jose State, the team winner of the 25th annual NCAA Cross Country run at Michigan State University Tuesday.

That helps explain why the West Coast entries are suddenly moving in to take over the NCAA championship, formerly dominated by eastern and midwestern entries.

San Jose State, a repeat team champion, won with a low of 53 points by placing men third, fifth and eighth in the individual finishes. The University of Oregon was second with 68 points.

Notre Dame was third with 128 points, Kansas fourth with 130 and host team Michigan State fifth with 175 points.

Vic Zwolak, a slender former marine from Villanova, was the individual winner with a good time of 19:35.0. It was the fourth best time on record for the meet.

Zwolak finished 10 yards ahead of John Camien of Emporia (Kan.) State Teachers, in second place.

Others in the top ten in the record field of 168 finishers included:

3, Jeffrey Fishback, San Jose State; 4, Geoff Walker, Houston; 5, Danny Murphy, San Jose State; 3¼, Doug Brown, Montana State; 7, Dick Schramm, Miami of Ohio; 8, Ben Tucker, San Jose State; 9, Arthur Scott, Idaho State; 10 Dick Sharkey Michigan State.

The remainder of the team scoring:

6, Tie between Houston and Ohio University, 192; 8, Miami of Ohio, 214; 9, Villanova, 236; 10, Western Michigan, 245; 11, Wisconsin, 329; 12, Brown, 339; 13, Bowling Green, 369; 14, Providence, 377; 15, Syracuse, 429; 16, Drake, 430; 17, William and Mary, 444; 18, Rutgers, 466; 19, Oklahoma City University, 475; 20 West Virginia, 501; 21, North Carolina 508.

Broncos Play Raiders On TV

DENVER (AP) — With a long delay expected to help the home team, the Denver Broncos will meet the Oakland Raiders in a nationally televised (ABC) American Football League game here Thursday.

Kickoff will be at 11:30 a.m. EST.

No other AFL games are scheduled Thanksgiving Day. On Sunday, Kansas City will be at New York, Houston at San Diego and Buffalo at Boston.

Postponed from Sunday because of the death of President Kennedy, the Denver-Oakland game will find the Broncos in better physical shape due to the added healing time for injuries. But the Raiders have not played since Nov. 10 when they beat Kansas City 22-7.

Denver is in second place in the league's Western Division. Denver is fourth.

Gentile Traded For Siebern By Baltimore Club

BALTIMORE (AP)—The Baltimore Orioles, willing to sacrifice power for consistent hitting and hustle, have swapped moody slugger Jim Gentile to the Kansas City Athletics in exchange for Norm Siebern.

The Orioles had to sweeten the pot with $25,000 in cash to swing Tuesday's trade of first basemen, indicating how Gentile's market value has slumped along with his batting average and home runs during the past two seasons.

For the Athletics, striving mightily to add power to their attack, it was the second major deal in the past eight days. On Nov. 18, the A's sent second baseman Jerry Lumpe and pitchers Ed Rakow and Dave Wickersham to Detroit in exchange for slugger Rocky Colavito and pitcher Bob Anderson.

In Kansas City, General Manager Pat Friday of the Athletics said, "You can bet we will be trying to make further trades at the winter meeting. We are looking for a center fielder with power."

After a great 1961 season, when he slugged 46 homers, drove in 141 runs and batted .302, Gentile has slipped to .251 and .248 the past two years. His home run output dropped to 33, and then 24.

The 29-year-old left-handed batter led the club in two unofficial departments — breaking his bat deliberately after striking out and failing to run out grounders and fly balls.

Siebern, 30, and also a left-handed batter, hit 16 homers and drove in 83 runs with a .272 average last season.

Addressing the local Rotary Club Monday Michael J. Anuta, Rotary Governor of this area, linked Gladstone Rotarians with more than a half-million other business and professional men who belong to Rotary Clubs in communities around the world.

"Rotary Clubs are functioning in more than 11,500 communities in 129 countries," he said, "and despite the diversity of their languages, customs, and political and religious beliefs, they are working toward community betterment, the promotion of high standards in business, and the advancement of world understanding."

Michael J. Anuta, the Judge of the Municipal Court of Menominee, was in Gladstone on Monday making his official visit to the local Rotary Club, one of the thirty-six clubs in his district.

In the field of youth, Mr. Anuta spoke of the new club for boys that is now a part of the Rotary program. It is called INTERACT, it is for boys in the upper three years of high school. "It is a club for international action," he said, "and is designed to turn the attention of young men to service and international understanding."

Weekend Sets Record For TV

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Television-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—It will be days before the national figures are compiled, but the most authoritative rating service estimates that in the metropolitan New York area, a massive 93 per cent of television-equipped homes were using their sets to watch the funeral services for President John F. Kennedy.

A spokesman for the A. C. Nielsen Co. said that if the New York figure proves to be typical of the whole nation, "more people were watching television on Monday than at any other time in the history of the medium."

During the period between Friday and Monday, Nielsen estimates, the average New York television set was in use for a total of 34 hours, more than twice the normal number.

On Sunday morning, normally a light viewing period, an extraordinary number of sets were in use—about 42 per cent. But after the shooting of Lee Harvey Oswald in Dallas, the figure zoomed to a fantastic 77 per cent by 1 p.m.

Tuesday morning, things got back to normal. Commercials came back. Programs began and ended precisely on the hour and the half hour. Game show hosts on taped shows made jokes and laughed heartily at them. The soap opera characters resumed their tangled lives.

Mr. Novak's problems Tuesday night with a difficult student were really quite relaxing because you knew he'd come out of it all right.

Red Skelton's and Martha Raye's antics in a ridiculous Wild West sketch were mildly amusing, but it was good to laugh a little.

With Majority

WASHINGTON (AP) — Michigan's Democratic Sens. Patrick V. McNamara and Philip A. Hart voted with the majority Tuesday night when the Senate tabled and thus killed a bill to ban use of credit by government agencies to finance any trade with Communist nations. The vote was 57 to 35.

Theater Organ Is Heard Again

By S. GORDON GAPPER
Flint Journal Music Editor

FLINT (AP) — Arthur W. Donelson, Flint, has spent 100 hours turning the clock back and isn't satisfied yet.

It has taken Donelson that long to put the Capitol Theater's old Barton organ in working order.

Because of his labor of love, a voice which has been silent for a decade or more has begun to "speak" again for movie audiences.

Donelson tunes pianos and organs for a living but considers himself only a buff as far as theater-organ music goes.

His interest in hearing theater organs on visits to Detroit led him to approach Earl Berry, Manager of Flint's downtown Capitol, about renovating the Barton.

His idea was to start a theater-organ club.

Installed In 1928

Records show that the organ, installed when the theater was built in 1928, was last serviced 13 years ago.

"And even then it wasn't a proper servicing job, I don't believe," Donelson observed.

Most of the pipes—several hundred of them—would not produce a sound when the keys were pressed.

This meant complete repair of the motors and electrical relay system between the console and the organ chambers and replacement of leather in bellows and valves.

Neither leatherwork nor fine tuning of the pipes is finished but the organ is in playing order.

Movie audiences have, with some surprise, watched the lighted baroque consol emerge from the semidarkness during intermissions of weekend shows.

Seated at the massive control panel was Mrs. Donelson. She teaches at Michigan School for the Deaf here and organ playing is just a hobby—in which Berry has allowed her to indulge for the benefit of patrons.

More Pipes Needed

"Next thing you know," said Berry, "we'll be having some of those old bouncing-ball films."

A big job ahead of Donelson is cleaning the pipe-packed organ lofts each side of the proscenium.

"Someone replastered the place and because the organ wasn't being used didn't bother to clean up," he said.

He also wants to add more pipes to the pedal division, which, he feels, does not sound heavy enough for a theater organ.

The instrument has three manuals—great, solo and accompaniment — and a host of stops to give tonal variety and special effects.

The Capitol's daily show schedule may preclude use of the organ by a club, but at least for audiences Donelson's reviving of the past has assured a real old-fashioned future.

Kennedy's Text On Thanksgiving

WASHINGTON (AP)—Here is the text of the Thanksgiving Day proclamation issued by President Kennedy on Nov. 5 which President Johnson urged be read in the nation's churches on Thursday:

Over three centuries ago our forefathers in Virginia and in Massachusetts far from home in a lonely wilderness set aside a time for thanksgiving. On the appointed day, they gave reverent thanks for their safety, for the health of their children, for the fertility of their fields, for the laws which bound them together and for the faith which united them under their God.

So, too when the colonies achieved their independence, our first president in the first year of his first administration proclaimed Nov. 26, 1789, as "a day of public thanksgiving and prayer to be observed by acknowledging with grateful hearts the many signal favors of almighty God" and called upon the people of the new republic to "beseech Him to pardon our national and other transgressions, to promote the knowledge and practice of true religion and virtue and generally to grant unto all mankind such a degree of temporal prosperity as He alone knows to be best."

And so too in the midst of America's tragic Civil War, President Lincoln proclaimed the last Thursday of November, 1863, as a day to renew our gratitude for America's "fruitful fields' for our "national strength and vigor" and for our "singular deliverance and blessings."

Much time has passed since the first colonists came to rocky shores and dark forests of an unknown continent, much time since President Washington led a young people into the experience of nationhood, much time since President Lincoln saw the American nation through the ordeal of fraternal war — and in these years our population, our plenty and our power have all grown apace. Today we are a nation of nearly two hundred million souls, stretching from coast to coast, on into the Pacific and north toward the arctic, a nation enjoying the fruits of an ever-expanding agriculture and industry and achieving standards of living unknown in previous history. We give our humble thanks for this.

Yet, as our power has grown, so has our peril. Today we give our thanks, most of all, for the ideals of honor and faith we inherit from our forefathers—for the decency of purpose, steadfastness of resolve and strength of will, for the courage and the humility, which they possessed and which we must seek every day to emulate. As we express our gratitude, we must never forget that the highest appreciation is not to utter words but to live by them.

Let us therefore proclaim our gratitude to Providence for manifold blessings — let us be humbly thankful for inherited ideals — and let us resolve to share those blessings and those ideals with our fellow human beings throughout the world.

Now, therefore, I, John F. Kennedy, President of the United States in consonance with the joint resolution of Congress approved Dec. 26, 1941, 55 Stat. 862, 5 U.S.C. 87 B, designating the fourth Thursday of November in each year as Thanksgiving Day do hereby proclaim Thursday, Nov. 28, 1963, as a day of national thanksgiving.

On that day let us gather in sanctuaries dedicated to worship and in homes blessed by family affection to express our gratitude for the glorious gifts of God; and let us earnestly and humbly pray that He will continue to guide and sustain us in the great unfinished tasks of achieving peace, justice and understanding among all men and all nations and of ending misery and suffering wherever they exist.

Statisticians estimate that the earth contains 6,586 quintillion tons of matter.

Playoff Plan Is Announced

NEW YORK (AP)—The National Football League has rolled out a playoff schedule with 11 different possibilities involving six teams in the event the conference crowns are not decided by the end of the regular season.

One of the possibilities involves the Chicago Bears and Green Bay Packers, running 1-2 in the Western Conference. The other 10 involve the four teams still in contention for the Eastern title—Cleveland, St. Louis and New York, all tied at 8-3, and Pittsburgh, 6-3-2.

If the Bears, 9-1-1, and Packers, 9-2, wind up in a tie, they will play at Green Bay, Dec. 22 for the right to represent the West in the championship game. All teams have three games remaining.

The Eastern playoff schedule provides for four versions of triple ties and six different combinations for two-way ties. Commissioner Pete Rozelle said a four-way tie was not considered.

If a triple tie results, the championship set for Dec. 29 would be pushed back a week to Sunday, Jan. 5. The game will be played in the home city of the Western champion.

Rozelle drew up the schedule after a long session on the phone with representatives of the six clubs. The club officials made a call on the flip of a coin by league office personnel.

Expect Wide Open Race In Big Ten This Season

By JOE MOOSHIL

CHICAGO (AP) — Big Ten basketball teams swing into preconference action Saturday in what could turn out to be one of the league's most open races.

Some 60 nonconference games will be played before a hectic swirl through various holiday tournaments prior to the opening of the championship race Jan. 4.

A poll of conference coaches finds no less than six teams given a chance to win the title shared by Ohio State and Illinois last season.

Ohio State, mainly because of All-America Gary Bradds, and talent-loaded Michigan are considered the teams to beat.

But Indiana, Minnesota, Illinois and Northwestern are capable of strong challenges. This leaves, Iowa, Wisconsin, Purdue and Michigan State presumably out of the running. But anyone of these clubs—all of whom finished in the second division—could turn into a contender if some bright sophomore star were to come onto the scene.

Top Scorer

Bradds, 6-8, was the Big Ten's leading scorer last season and was third in rebounding. Dick Ricketts and Don Devoe are back to help the Buckeyes try for a fifth straight title.

Michigan's lofty ranking results mainly from the talents of Bill Buntin, a 232-pound, 6-7 junior. Buntin last season lifted the Wolverines into the first division. He finished fourth in scoring and second in rebounding.

Michigan also has Bobby Cantrell and Doug Herner back in addition to sophomore Cazzie Russell who has enough ability to step in and take over a starring role.

Indiana will be without Jimmy Rayl and Tom Bolyard, two of the league's top scorers. But the Hoosiers have the fabulous Van Arsdale twins—Dick and Tom — returning. Also in the wings is 6-8 Ron Peyser who saw limited service as a sophomore. Gary Geiger and Max Walker are a couple of sophomores to watch.

Downy Is Gone

Illinois also lost its one-two scoring punch of Dave Downey and Bill Small. Yet, the Illini can field such veterans as Skip Thoren, Tal Brody, Bogie Redmon and Bill Edwards. Sophomore Don Freeman rates high.

Terry Kunze is Minnesota's top man among six returning lettermen. Although the Gophers lost Eric Magdanz, Tom McGrann and Bob Bateman, Minnesota has high hopes because of three sophomore speedsters. They are Louis Hudson, Don Yates and Archie Clark. All three could win starting jobs and give Minnesota its fastest basketball team in history.

Rich Falk, Rick Lopossa and Marty Riessen are proven veterans in Northwestern's scheme.

Iowa hopes to improve on its 5-9 record but will need help from sophomores. Dave Roach, the Hawkeyes' leading scorer and rebounder is back.

Lost Close Ones

Michigan State wasn't as bad as its 3-11 record but the Spartans failed to win any close games and suffered three losses by one point. Veterans Fred Thomann, Pete Gent and Marcus Sanders make up a solid nucleus. Stan Washington is the team's outstanding sophomore prospect.

Purdue finished last in 1963 but will come up with a needed big man this season. He's 7-foot sophomore George Grams.

Wisconsin will lack height and must rely on team speed and outstanding shooting to climb out of the second division.

Seven conference teams will be in action Saturday with Southern Illinois at Indiana, Northern Michigan at Michigan State, Western Michigan at Northwestern, Davis of California at Ohio State, Illinois at Butler, Michigan at Ball State and Minnesota at Kansas State.

Rose Is Named Rookie Of Year

FT. KNOX, Ky. (AP) — Take it from Pvt. Pete Rose, there's nothing like being told you've been named National League Rookie of the Year to wipe away the memory of a long day of KP detail.

"Great!" exclaimed the hustling Cincinnati second baseman, "I thought I had a chance at it."

"And I don't believe in all that stuff about the sophomore jinx. I'm going to try to bat .300 and be the next Sophomore of the Year," he added.

Rose had gotten up for a KP detail at 3 a.m. Tuesday, the day the award was announced.

Rose, a member of the Ohio National Guard in Army basic training, had 170 hits, including 26 doubles, nine triples and six home runs with the Reds last season. He scored 101 runs, drove in 41 and stole 13 bases.

He entered basic training Oct. 30. He will be at Fort Knox until Jan. 18, 1964, then will go to a special school for a month. He will be through with his active requirement in time to miss only about a week of spring training.

Rose, 21, a Cincinnati native played for Macon in the Class A Sally League a year ago.

He became a hallmark of aggressiveness for the Reds this season—appearing in 157 games and batting .273. Defensively, he compiled a fielding mark of .971, which helped impress the panel of 20 sports writers which Tuesday gave him 17 votes.

He topped Ron Hunt, New York Mets' second baseman, who had two votes, and Ray Culp, Philadelphia Phillies' pitcher, who received the other vote.

Bullets Miss From FT Line

By The Associated Press

Don't mention charity to Bob Leonard, coach of the National Basketball Association's Baltimore Bullets.

The Philadelphia 76ers all but handed Tuesday night's game to Baltimore with foul shots but Leonard's Bullets misfired from the free throw line and lost their ninth in the last 10 games.

Hal Greer's last second basket gave Philadelphia the victory, 115-113, after the Bullets kept the 76ers alive by blowing 15 of 36 free throw attempts. Greer's 12-footer was in the air as the final buzzer sounded and when it swished through Philadelphia had its fourth straight triumph and fifth in a row at home.

Al Bianchi coached Philadelphia in the absense of Dolph Schayes, who was in New York because of the death of his mother.

In a New York doubleheader, a crowd of 14,585 watched Cincinnati limit Wilt Chamberlain to 23 points and whip San Francisco, 123-112, and Los Angeles stifle a last-gasp New York rally to win, 119-112.

Pass Swiper 'Top Player'

NEW YORK (AP) — Y. A. Tittle took great pride in his record of only four interceptions in the first 10 games played by the New York Giants. Then Sunday he had two intercepted in the same ball game. Lary Wilson of St. Louis came up with both as the Cardinals upset the Giants 24-17.

As a result of Wilson's fine defensive play in the Cards' deep defense, he was named Player of the Week in the National Football League by The Associated Press.

Wilson's specialty in four years as a safety man in the NFL has been his colorful blitz play from the safety spot. He is a rangy 6-foot, 190-pounder with good speed and quick hands. In his high school days at Rigby, Idaho, he was a fullback. At Utah he was a halfback. The interceptions were his third and fourth of the season.

Don Hultz, Minnesota's rookie from Southern Methodist, also was a candidate for top honors with his two recoveries of Detroit fumbles, tying the NFL record of eight for the season. Tommy Mason scored the clincher in the closing minutes of the Vikings 34-31 victory after Hultz recovered Dan Lewis' fumble. Paul Flatley ao had two great catches in the winning drive.

Giant Offense Best In NFL

NEW YORK (AP) — New York's offense and Chicago's defense continue to dominate the National Football League's weekly team statistics although the Giants were beaten Sunday and the Bears had to scramble for a tie in Pittsburgh.

The Giants have ground out a total offense of 4,051 yards in 11 games.

The Bears gave up 17 points to the Steelers in their tie game but still have allowed only 106 points, less than 10 a game. They have given up 2,507 yards.

Army-Navy Grid Clash Rescheduled For Dec. 7

By MIKE RATHET
Associated Press Sports Writer

Army and Navy will meet in their traditional football battle—but a week later than scheduled — and will bring down the curtain on a 10-day period beginning Thanksgiving that figures to find bowl offers frantically flung around the country.

The decision on the Army-Navy game came Tuesday from the Pentagon and overshadowed two other major developments—the naming of Navy's Roger Staubach as the Heisman Trophy winner and Louisiana State University's acceptance of a Bluebonnet Bowl bid.

The Army-Navy game will be pushed back to Dec. 7 — Pearl Harbor Day — in deference to the memory of the late President Kennedy. The Pentagon said the Kennedy family intervened so that the annual service classic would not be canceled.

The official statement said the game will be dedicated to his memory.

The announcement further crambled a puzzling major college bowl picture currently filled in at only three spots — top-ranked Texas in the Cotton Bowl seventh-ranked Nebraska in the Orange Bowl and LSU in the Bluebonnet Bowl.

The Thanksgiving Day program and this Saturday's schedule, including many key games that were postponed from last week due to the assassination of President Kennedy, were expected to wrap up most of the holes. But the Army-Navy postponement complicated the situation.

The second-ranked Middies and Staubach, now dubbed the best player in the country by the Heisman voters, were expected to tangle with Texas in the Cotton Bowl providing they beat Army for the fifth consecutive year.

However, their possible participation in a post-season game may have vanished when the postponement appeared. It is believed the sentiment in the Pentagon for cancellation of the game, plus the lengthening of the regular schedule by a week may rule out a bowl trip for Navy.

It also may rule out a top match-up in the Cotton Bowl. Promoters said Tuesday they will wait until after the Dec. 7 schedule, presumably to get Navy's decision. Their second choice is Pitt, which also plays that Saturday, against Penn State.

Pitt, however, does not have to wait until its final game to make a decision — and might be agreeable to an offer from another major bowl. If Pitt goes elsewhere, then Navy declines, the Cotton Bowl will be lacking a top-flight opponent for the unbeaten and untied Longhorns.

Meanwhile, Illinois and Michigan State prepared for their Big Ten clash, a Thanksgiving Day battle that will fill one of the Rose Bowl spots. Other bowl candidates also will be in action Thursday, as well as Saturday.

The winner of the Big Ten battle between the fourth-ranked Spartans and eighth-ranked Illini at East Lansing, Mich., gets a Rose berth against a Big Six opponent which will come out of two Saturday games, Washington at Washington State and Southern California at UCLA. Washington has the inside track.

Also headlining the Thursday program is the meeting between Texas and arch rival Texas AM plus games involving bowl hopefuls Syracuse and North Carolina. The Orange, who meet Notre Dame in New York, could wind up in the Gator Bowl against the Tar Heels, who are at Duke.

The Saturday schedule will fill the West Coast Rose Bowl entry and two Orange and Sugar bowl spots. Auburn could grab an Orange berth with a victory over Alabama, another bowl hopeful, while Mississippi likely will be Sugar Bowl host with a victory over Mississippi State.

A Mississippi State victory, on the other hand, probably would bring the Bulldogs the berth.

Johnson Began Running As Boy; Never Stopped

By RELMAN MORIN
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sunshine tinged the tops of the pecan and sycamore trees, swept across the town of Stonewall, Tex., and glowed in the room where Sam Ealey Johnson Jr. was shaking his son's foot.

"Get up, Lyndon," he said. "Everybody in town's got a two-hour head start on you."

Lyndon Baines Johnson began running. He has never stopped.

Today, he is president of the United States.

But the greatest race of Johnson's life lies ahead of him. In less than a year, another presidential election campaign will be under way. To be serving by reason of tragedy is one thing. To be elected president is the supreme goal of any American politician.

Political Heritage

And Johnson is the ultimate polician.

Johnson was born on a ranch near Stonewall Aug. 27, 1908. On that day, so the story goes, his grandfather said, "He'll be a U.S. senator some day."

True or not, only a few years were to elapse before Johnson was on his way.

He had a political background. His grandfather and his father both served in the Texas House of Representatives. Another forebear was a signer of the Texas Declaration of Independence.

On his mother's side, his relatives were Baptist clergymen and educators. His great-grandfather headed Baylor University for two years.

After Johnson finished high school, at 15, a curious hiatus came in his life.

He neither went to college nor showed any interest in a career. Instead, with some other boys, he walked and hitchhiked to California. Seven months later, he was home, working as a highway laborer, driving a truck, pushing a wheelbarrow, wielding pick and shovel.

Worked As Janitor

Finally, after a heart-to-heart talk, his parents persuaded him to go to college. Johnson borrowed $75 and enrolled in Southwest Texas State Teachers College at San Marcos.

"I took 40 courses and got 35 A's," he says.

To help pay his expenses, he worked as a janitor. Having enrolled in a public-speaking course, he practiced speech-making while sweeping out the classrooms. He graduated in 1930.

The following year is an important one in the Johnson story.

He went to Washington as secretary of Congressman Richard Kleberg and fell head over heels in love with politics. In short order, he won his first election—speaker of the "Little Congress," a mock legislature composed of congressmen's secretaries.

Next, he was appointed state administrator for Texas of the National Youth Administration. He returned to Texas in that capacity in 1935.

Nickname Sticks

Johnson married in 1934. Claudia Alta Taylor has been known all her life as "Lady Bird." When a Negro nurse first saw her, she said, "She's as pretty as a lady bird." Even the congressional directory today lists her under the nickname.

They have two daughters, Lynda Bird, 19, and Lucy Baines, 16.

Johnson's first big political move came in 1937. After the death of Rep. James Buchanan, Johnson ran for the seat.

He waged a shrewd, boldly conceived campaign which was fortuitous for two reasons—it won, and it brought him to the attention of President Franklin D. Roosevelt.

Nine others were in the race. Johnson concluded that, to get in the spotlight, he must do something dramatic. He came out for the main planks of the New Deal and won.

Close To Throne

Roosevelt, fishing off Corpus Christi at the time, was delighted. He invited Johnson to ride to Washington on the presidential train.

He also arranged to have Johnson seated on the important Naval Affairs Committee—a rare thing for a freshman congressman—and brought him to the White House for Sunday breakfasts.

Johnson was close to the throne from the start of the political life. "He (Roosevelt) was like a daddy to me," Johnson often said.

Johnson's first try for the Senate, in 1941, failed. Gov W. Lee O'Daniel beat him by 1,311 votes. Johnson went back to the House.

Then came Pearl Harbor.

Two days later, Johnson, a naval reserve officer, obtained leave from the House and went to war. He served on a three-man commission inspecting conditions in the Southwest Pacific and rode on some bombing missions. Gen. Douglas MacArthur decorated him with the Silver Star. In mid-1942, Roosevelt ordered him back to the House.

Gets Things Done

His victorious 1948 campaign for the Senate is notable in several respects. He campaigned by helicopter. And he defeated Gov. Coke Stevenson by 87 votes out of nearly a million cast.

His natural talent for getting along in the Senate and getting things done soon asserted themselves. He was elected Democratic whip in 1951 and Democratic leader in 1953. At 44, he was the youngest floor leader in history.

Johnson once said he had no presidential ambitions. "I'm conscious of my limitations," he said. "I think it's fair to say nobody but my mama ever thought I'd get as far as I have."

Nahma Gets Third Win; Groleau Hits 30 Points

NAHMA—The Nahma Arrows, with big Pat Groleau getting a balanced assist from his mates, ran up their third straight victory of the season here Tuesday night, beating Garden 75-62 in a Central League contest.

Groleau, leading scorer in the Upper Peninsula last season and setting the pace again this year, hit the target with 13 field goals and four free throws for 30 points.

The 6 foot, 5 inch senior pivotman continued to dominate the Arrows in shooting and rebounding, clearing the boards 24 times, but Coach Owen Peterson was impressed with the help provided Groleau's running mates.

Don Johnson reached the 20-point mark for the first time this season while Tom Krutina fired in 12 points and Terry Larscheid 10.

Groleau boosted his season scoring total to 114 points in three games for an average of 38 per game. He scored 703 in 22 games for a 32 point average last season.

Coach Dave Pelletier's Garden Jets, still playing without the services of scoring star Barry Rochefort who is sidelined with injuries sustained in an auto mishap, gave the Arrows a run for their money.

Garden led 16-15 at the end of the first period but Nahma spurted shortly before halftime to take the intermission with a 32-29 lead.

Nahma cemented the victory in the third quarter in which the Arrows outscored the Jets 22 to 12. The balanced scoring paid off in that period as Groleau tallied seven points, Larscheid six and Johnson five.

Garden rallied in the final period to play the Arrows on even terms, each team hitting 21 points down the stretch.

Jan Farley, a 6-foot senior, turned in an outstanding game for Garden, scoring 20 points and hauling down 18 of his team's 34 rebounds. Cal Richard also reached double scoring figures with 12 points.

Nahma scored 32 field goals on 75 shots and added 11 of 19 free throw attempts. Garden hit 26 of 72 from the field and 10 of 16 from the foul line.

Nahma plays next Dec. 6 at Rock and Garden travels to Cooks the same night.

Garden won last night's jayvee game 42-30.

Detroit Could Wreck Packers

DETROIT (AP)—The Green Bay Packers are quitting the traditional series of Thanksgiving Day games at Detroit—but the Detroit Lions have one more chance Thursday to spoil a holiday for Packers fans.

The Lions banished Green Bay's holiday cheer last Thanksgiving by dumping the National Football League's Western Division leaders, 26-14. The Packers still finished first, but the Lions won in embarrassing style, continually throwing quarterback Bart Starr for losses.

Detroit is in a better position to ruin the Packers this season, since a loss would all but knock Green Bay out of the title running.

The Packers, with a 9-2 record, are on the heels of the division-leading Chicago Bears, who have a 9-1-1 mark. They need three victories and a Chicago loss to win the division title.

Claiming that the Thanksgiving Day game at Detroit doesn't give him enough time to get his men ready, Green Bay Coach Cince Lombardi has been trying for years to get out of the game.

He convinced NFL Commissioner Pete Rozelle that after Thursday, the Western Division teams should take turns playing at Detroit on Thanksgiving Day.

The Thanksgiving Day game is the only regular season NFL game which always has played to capacity crowds and a nationwide television audience.

Wilt Pushed In Point Race

NEW YORK (AP)—The new Wilt Chamberlain, whose feeding and defense reshaped the attack of the San Francisco Warriors, has thrown the National Basketball Association scoring race into a scramble.

The old Chamberlain poured points at a record rate through his first four years in the NBA.

But the new Wilt has cut his point production sharply and as a result three other players threaten his 32.6 average. St. Louis' Bob Pettit, the leader in total points with 554 and a 27.7 average, Jerry West of Los Angeles, with a 28.9 percentage, and Cincinnati's Oscar Robertson, who's hitting 26.7 per game all have a chance to catch Wilt the Stilt.

Carney Is First To Register 100

CARNEY — Coach Bob Kuntze's Carney Wolves became the first Upper Peninsula team to reach the century mark in scoring this season when they licked Perkins 100-63 here Tuesday night.

The victory was the third straight this season for the Wolves who compete in the Big Eight Conference. The defeat was the third in a row for Perkins of the Central League.

Kuntze used all 11 players on his squad and all of them contributed to the scoring column. He substituted freely through the game. Top point man as the Wolves set a new gym scoring record was Bob Macco with 22. The old gym record was 93 points, set last year against Pembine.

The Wolves displayed fine marksmanship, hitting 41 of 86 field goal attempts and pumping in 18 of 22 gift shots. Perkins clicked on 21 of 62 from the field and 21 of 35 from the charity line.

Carney jumped to a 28-12 lead in the first period and was never threatened.

Jim Brandstrom and Len Eagle scored a combined 33 points for Coach Joe Vestich.

Carney won the jayvee game 61-28.

St. Paul Beats Rocket Cagers For Third Win

RAPID RIVER — The Negaunee St. Paul Emeralds chalked up their third straight triumph of the season here Tuesday night by downing the Rapid River Rockets 76-48.

Coach Allan Dighera's Emeralds, who reached the state tournament Class D finals in East Lansing last season, won with two big quarters.

Rapid River trailed only 17-15 at the end of the first frame, folded in the second and third, and came back to match the Emeralds with 21 points in the finale.

Rodney Guizzetti, 6 foot 3 inch senior center, led the Emeralds with 27 points and Dom Jacobetti canned 15. Guizzetti turned in an outstanding game on the boards, hauling in 26 rebounds.

Doug Moss furnished almost half of Rapid River's scoring output with 20 points for Coach Barney McCall.

Staubach Named Winner Of Heisman Grid Trophy

ANNAPOLIS, Md. (AP)—Roger Staubach, Navy's exciting quarterback and 1963 Heisman Trophy winner, is a football perfectionist who works as hard keeping his skills sharp as he did in acquiring them.

Almost any afternoon after practice, he can be seen on the field working individually on some phase of his game.

He may be taking handoffs under center, sharpening his passing with two or three receivers who stayed to run a few more patterns, or sprinting to build up wind for those loping, easy runs that are so deceptive and have demolished many enemy defenses this fall.

His favorite pastime during summer leave is passing a football with friends.

"You'd think he was a kid trying to make the team instead of being one of the best football players in the country," an observer said one day recently as Jolly Roger sailed through a few extra wind sprints after practice.

The Heisman Trophy board took him out of the class of "one of the best" Tuesday, it voted the long-legged Cincinnati, Ohio, junior the outstanding college football player in the country.

In leading Navy to No. 2 national ranking and an 8-1 season which will be climaxed in a postponed game with Army Dec. 7, he has rolled up 1,738 yards passing and running, passed for seven touchdowns and run for eight.

Staubach was chosen by a wide margin — 517 first place votes to 65—over Georgia Tech's versatile senior quarterback Billy Lothridge, who placed second.

He is only the third junior to win the 29-year-old trophy. The others were Felix (Doc) Blanchard at Army in 1945 and Doak Walker at Southern Methodist in 1948. Neither repeated in his senior year.

The 21-year-old midshipman is scheduled to receive the award from the sponsoring Downtown Athletic Club in New York Dec. 4, the same week he leads the bowl-minded Middies against an Army team he made a shambles of as a sophomore last year.

Staubach, whose precision passes, Houdini escapes from tacklers and scrambling runs have made him one of the most exciting players in college football, reacted with typical modesty to announcement of the award.

"The Heisman Trophy is something you hear about in high school and suddenly it happens to you," he said. "I can hardly believe it . . . it's something I'll treasure all my life."

"I owe it to everyone," he said, citing coaches from grade school through Wayne Hardin and also the Navy teammates who have thrown so many blocks for him and gotten up to throw them again as he scrambled to set up a pass or take off on an unbelievable run.

He is immensely popular with his teammates, many of whom have asked him to autograph pictures to send to friends, and with the brigade of midshipmen who cheer every honor that comes his way.

Off the field he is known as a quiet, deeply religious midshipman who attends Catholic mass and communion at 6 a.m. daily and is an average student.

Staubach is Hardin's second Heisman winner in three years. Halfback Joe Bellino, who won it in 1960, was the first Navy player ever to gain the honor.

Northern Wins Season Opener

OSHKOSH, Wis. (AP) — Bob Armstead scored 22 points and Dave Cade added 16 in leading Northern Michigan to a 74-71 non-conference basketball victory over Oshkosh State Tuesday night.

Northern Michigan had a 39-32 halftime lead in the season opener for both schools.

Eagles Extend Victory String Over Trenary

EBEN — The Eben Eagles tightened their grip on first place in the Central League basketball race here Tuesday night with a 63-45 victory over previously unbeaten Trenary.

Coach Jim DePew's Eben cagers fashioned their fourth straight victory of the season, all against Central League foes, with a strong second half performance.

The tall, fast moving Eagles wore their opponents down with a tight press throughout the game. They dominated the boards with Bill Carlson and Andy Freberg hauling down 17 apiece.

Coach Steve Ellis' Trenary Comets ripped out to a 13-11 lead in the first period with Gary Flynn and Wayne Lusardi setting the pace.

Eben made its move midway in the second period and wrested a 28-23 lead at the half. The Eagles took command in the third period in which they outscored the Comets 18-7 for a 46-30 cushion entering the fourth quarter.

Arne Haavisto, 6 foot 1 inch sophomore, led the Eagles in scoring with 15 points. Freberg hit 14 and Stan Smith 10. Lusardi led Trenary with 13 and Flynn chipped in 12.

Trenary won the jayvee game 29-28.

Lansing Team State Champ

LANSING (AP)—Lansing Sexton's football team Tuesday received the Glenn C. MacDonald Memorial Trophy, presented annually to Michigan's Class A state high school football champion as decided by The Associated Press.

The trophy, donated three years ago by the Bay City Times in memory of its late publisher, was presented at a school assembly to Principal Christian Roosenraad and head coach Russ Maples.

Members of the AP's panel of sportswriters and sportscasters named Sexton, which had completed a 7-0-1 season, the top team on their final ballots.

The Lansing school had been ranked second and third through most of the season, and jumped into the No. 1 spot to stay just two weeks before the season ended.

Bay City Handy and Ann Arbor were the previous holders of the rotating trophy.

Grid Draft Is Slated Saturday

NEW YORK (AP)—A total of 200 collegians, including such eligibles as Navy quarterback Roger Staubach, the 1963 Heisman Trophy winner, and Scott Appleton, outstanding Texas tackle, are expected to be chosen in the American Football League draft Saturday.

There will be 25 rounds with all eight teams drawing in the first round.

Either Denver or Kansas City will have first pick, depending upon the outcome of the Oakland-Denver game, the league's lone Thanksgiving Day encounter.

The selections will be made in inverse order of the standings as of Friday. If Oakland defeats Denver, the Broncos will have first pick. If the Broncos win, Kansas City will make the first choice. New York's Jets will have third pick.

Plan Eulogy For Halftime

EAST LANSING (AP) — A tribute to the late President John F. Kennedy will be presented during halftimw ceremonies at Thursday's Michigan State-Illinois Big Ten champpionship decider.

When the game was postponed Saturday in deference to the nationwide mourning for the slain President, MSU officials revamped the elaborate halftime festivities.

A brief eulogy for President Kennedy will be read as the band plays God Bless America. Spectators then will be asked to observe a minute of silent tribute.

Peninsula Prep Cagers Taller Than In Past

MARQUETTE — More than any other year, most Upper Peninsula high school basketball coaches should be especially thankful this Thanksgiving Day.

They're blessed with taller cagers than ever before.

No one's ever kept any kind of official figures on the height of basketball players in the Peninsula, but it's apparent from sports writers' observations and from figures made available by about 75 per cent of high school coaches the last several years that the prepsters were getting taller.

A sudden spurt is noticeable this year, both on the basketball court and in coaches' figures.

From the mid-50's through last winter, a gradual rise was noted, although there was a downturn in 1960-61. In 1956-57, for instance, U. P. teams listed 33 players who stood 6 feet 3 inches or taller. The number in that height group slumped unexplainably to 21 in 1960-61, but it was up to 36 again in 1961-62 and last year it had reached 40.

Sixty-six coaches listing their players' height this season revealed that 58 stand 6-3 or taller, including 12 who go 6-4, five each at 6-5 and 6-6 and one at 6-7.

Biggest change has come in the larger school lineups, where the six-footer has become the rule instead of the exception. Of the 54 boys suiting up for games at the Peninsula's four Class A schools (enrollment of 900 or more), 31 stand 6 feet or taller.

The appearance of tall players is more noticeable at some schools than at others.

Rudyard in 1956-57 was a Class D school (enrollment under 225), had only one player over 6 feet. The Bulldogs compiling a 10-10 record, reached the regional tournament to become one of Chassell's many victims during that school's 65-game winning streak.

Rudyard's enrollment began climbing as personnel buildup continued at nearby Kincheloe Air Force Base. An enrollment of 421 last year put the school in Class B. After compiling a season's mark of 13-3, mostly against smaller schools in the eastern U. P., the Bulldogs went up against bigger-name teams, beating Munising, Manistique, Ironwood and Gladstone in succession to take the Upper Peninsula championship and went as far as the state semi-finals before being eliminated in post-season tournament action.

The fact that Rudyard had an all-6-foot lineup, including three 6-4 players and one who stood 6-3, had a lot to do with the school's brilliant performance.

Newberry had only a couple of players around the 6-foot mark back in 1957. Today two of its seniors go 6-6.

WAYNE SEIBERT, Escanaba's senior center, is the tallest player in the Upper Peninsula this season at 6 feet, 7 inches. (Daily Press Photo)

San Jose State Repeat Champ

EAST LANSING (AP) — "We run seven days a week, 365 days a year," said Coach Dean Miller of San Jose State, the team winner of the 25th annual NCAA Cross Country run at Michigan State University Tuesday.

That helps explain why the West Coast entries are suddenly moving in to take over the NCAA championship, formerly dominated by eastern and midwestern entries.

San Jose State, a repeat team champion, won with a low of 53 points by placing men third, fifth and eighth in the individual finishes. The University of Oregon was second with 68 points.

Notre Dame was third with 128 points, Kansas fourth with 130 and host team Michigan State fifth with 175 points.

Vic Zwolak, a slender former marine from Villanova, was the individual winner with a good time of 19:35.0. It was the fourth best time on record for the meet.

Zwolak finished 10 yards ahead of John Camien of Emporia (Kan.) State Teachers, in second place.

Others in the top ten in the record field of 168 finishers included:

3, Jeffrey Fishback, San Jose State; 4, Geoff Walker, Houston; 5, Danny Murphy, San Jose State; ¾, Doug Brown, Montana State; 7, Dick Schramm, Miami of Ohio; 8, Ben Tucker, San Jose State; 9, Arthur Scott, Idaho State; 10 Dick Sharkey Michigan State.

The remainder of the team scoring:

6, Tie between Houston and Ohio University, 192; 8, Miami of Ohio, 214; 9, Villanova, 236; 10, Western Michigan, 245; 11, Wisconsin, 329; 12, Brown, 339; 13, Bowling Green, 369; 14, Providence, 377; 15, Syracuse, 429; 16, Drake, 430; 17, William and Mary, 444; 18, Rutgers, 466; 19, Oklahoma City University, 475; 20 West Virginia, 501; 21, North Carolina 508.

Broncos Play Raiders On TV

DENVER (AP) — With a long delay expected to help the home team, the Denver Broncos will meet the Oakland Raiders in a nationally televised (ABC) American Football League game here Thursday.

Kickoff will be at 11:30 a.m. EST.

No other AFL games are scheduled Thanksgiving Day. On Sunday, Kansas City will be at New York, Houston at San Diego and Buffalo at Boston.

Postponed from Sunday because of the death of President Kennedy, the Denver-Oakland game will find the Broncos in better physical shape due to the added healing time for injuries. But the Raiders have not played since Nov. 10 when they beat Kansas City 22-7.

Denver is in second place in the league's Western Division. Denver is fourth.

Gentile Traded For Siebern By Baltimore Club

BALTIMORE (AP)—The Baltimore Orioles, willing to sacrifice power for consistent hitting and hustle, have swapped moody slugger Jim Gentile to the Kansas City Athletics in exchange for Norm Siebern.

The Orioles had to sweeten the pot with $25,000 in cash to swing Tuesday's trade of first basemen, indicating how Gentile's market value has slumped along with his batting average and home runs during the past two seasons.

For the Athletics, striving mightily to add power to their attack, it was the second major deal in the past eight days. On Nov. 18, the A's sent second baseman Jerry Lumpe and pitchers Ed Rakow and Dave Wickersham to Detroit in exchange for slugger Rocky Colavito and pitcher Bob Anderson.

In Kansas City, General Manager Pat Friday of the Athletics said, "You can bet we will be trying to make further trades at the winter meeting. We are looking for a center fielder with power."

After a great 1961 season, when he slugged 46 homers, drove in 141 runs and batted .302, Gentile has slipped to .251 and .248 the past two years. His home run output dropped to 33, and then 24.

The 29-year-old left-handed batter led the club in two unofficial departments — breaking his bat deliberately after striking out and failing to run out grounders and fly balls.

Siebern, 30, and also a left-handed batter, hit 16 homers and drove in 83 runs with a .272 average last season.

Playoff Plan Is Announced

NEW YORK (AP)—The National Football League has rolled out a playoff schedule with 11 different possibilities involving six teams in the event the conference crowns are not decided by the end of the regular season.

One of the possibilities involves the Chicago Bears and Green Bay Packers, running 1-2 in the Western Conference. The other 10 involve the four teams still in contention for the Eastern title—Cleveland, St. Louis and New York, all tied at 8-3, and Pittsburgh, 6-3-2.

If the Bears, 9-1-1, and Packers, 9-2, wind up in a tie, they will play at Green Bay, Dec. 22 for the right to represent the West in the championship game. All teams have three games remaining.

The Eastern playoff schedule provides for four versions of triple ties and six different combinations for two-way ties. Commissioner Pete Rozelle said a four-way tie was not considered.

If a triple tie results, the championship set for Dec. 29 would be pushed back a week to Sunday, Jan. 5. The game will be played in the home city of the Western champion.

Rozelle drew up the schedule after a long session on the phone with representatives of the six clubs. The club officials made a call on the flip of a coin by league office personnel.

Expect Wide Open Race In Big Ten This Season

By JOE MOOSHIL

CHICAGO (AP) — Big Ten basketball teams swing into preconference action Saturday in what could turn out to be one of the league's most open races.

Some 60 nonconference games will be played before a hectic swirl through various holiday tournaments prior to the opening of the championship race Jan. 4.

A poll of conference coaches finds no less than six teams given a chance to win the title shared by Ohio State and Illinois last season.

Ohio State, mainly because of All-America Gary Bradds, and talent-loaded Michigan are considered the teams to beat.

But Indiana, Minnesota, Illinois and Northwestern are capable of strong challenges. This leaves, Iowa, Wisconsin, Purdue and Michigan State presumably out of the running. But anyone of these clubs—all of whom finished in the second division—could turn into a contender if some bright sophomore star were to come onto the scene.

Top Scorer

Bradds, 6-8, was the Big Ten's leading scorer last season and was third in rebounding. Dick Ricketts and Don Devoe are back to help the Buckeyes try for a fifth straight title.

Michigan's lofty ranking results mainly from the talents of Bill Buntin, a 232-pound, 6-7 junior. Buntin last season lifted the Wolverines into the first division. He finished fourth in scoring and second in rebounding.

Michigan also has Bobby Cantrell and Doug Herner back in addition to sophomore Cazzie Russell who has enough ability to step in and take over a starring role.

Indiana will be without Jimmy Rayl and Tom Bolyard, two of the league's top scorers. But the Hoosiers have the fabulous Van Arsdale twins—Dick and Tom — returning. Also in the wings is 6-8 Ron Peyser who saw limited service as a sophomore. Gary Geiger and Max Walker are a couple of sophomores to watch.

Downy Is Gone

Illinois also lost its one-two scoring punch of Dave Downey and Bill Small. Yet, the Illini can field such veterans as Skip Thoren, Tal Brody, Bogie Redmon and Bill Edwards. Sophomore Don Freeman rates high.

Terry Kunze is Minnesota's top man among six returning lettermen. Although the Gophers lost Eric Magdanz, Tom McGrann and Bob Bateman, Minnesota has high hopes because of three sophomore speedsters. They are Louis Hudson, Don Yates and Archie Clark. All three could win starting jobs and give Minnesota its fastest basketball team in history.

Rich Falk, Rick Lopossa and Marty Riessen are proven veterans in Northwestern's scheme.

Iowa hopes to improve on its 5-9 record but will need help from sophomores. Dave Roach, the Hawkeyes' leading scorer and rebounder is back.

Lost Close Ones

Michigan State wasn't as bad as its 3-11 record but the Spartans failed to win any close games and suffered three losses by one point. Veterans Fred Thomann, Pete Gent and Marcus Sanders make up a solid nucleus. Stan Washington is the team's outstanding sophomore prospect.

Purdue finished last in 1963 but will come up with a needed big man this season. He's 7-foot sophomore George Grams.

Wisconsin will lack height and must rely on team speed and outstanding shooting to climb out of the second division.

Seven conference teams will be in action Saturday with Southern Illinois at Indiana, Northern Michigan at Michigan State, Western Michigan at Northwestern, Davis of California at Ohio State, Illinois at Butler, Michigan at Ball State and Minnesota at Kansas State.

Rose Is Named Rookie Of Year

FT. KNOX, Ky. (AP) — Take it from Pvt. Pete Rose, there's nothing like being told you've been named National League Rookie of the Year to wipe away the memory of a long day of KP detail.

"Great!" exclaimed the hustling Cincinnati second baseman, "I thought I had a chance at it."

"And I don't believe in all that stuff about the sophomore jinx. I'm going to try to bat .300 and be the next Sophomore of the Year," he added.

Rose had gotten up for a KP detail at 3 a.m. Tuesday, the day the award was announced.

Rose, a member of the Ohio National Guard in Army basic training, had 170 hits, including 26 doubles, nine triples and six home runs with the Reds last season. He scored 101 runs, drove in 41 and stole 13 bases.

He entered basic training Oct. 30. He will be at Fort Knox until Jan. 18, 1964, then will go to a special school for a month. He will be through with his active requirement in time to miss only about a week of spring training.

Rose, 21, a Cincinnati native played for Macon in the Class A Sally League a year ago.

He became a hallmark of aggressiveness for the Reds this season—appearing in 157 games and batting .273. Defensively, he compiled a fielding mark of .971, which helped impress the panel of 20 sports writers which Tuesday gave him 17 votes.

He topped Ron Hunt, New York Mets' second baseman, who had two votes, and Ray Culp, Philadelphia Phillies' pitcher, who received the other vote.

Bullets Miss From FT Line

By The Associated Press

Don't mention charity to Bob Leonard, coach of the National Basketball Association's Baltimore Bullets.

The Philadelphia 76ers all but handed Tuesday night's game to Baltimore with foul shots but Leonard's Bullets misfired from the free throw line and lost their ninth in the last 10 games.

Hal Greer's last second basket gave Philadelphia the victory, 115-113, after the Bullets kept the 76ers alive by blowing 15 of 36 free throw attempts. Greer's 12-footer was in the air as the final buzzer sounded and when it swished through Philadelphia had its fourth straight triumph and fifth in a row at home.

Al Bianchi coached Philadelphia in the absense of Dolph Schayes, who was in New York because of the death of his mother.

In a New York doubleheader, a crowd of 14,585 watched Cincinnati limit Wilt Chamberlain to 23 points and whip San Francisco, 123-112, and Los Angeles stifle a last-gasp New York rally to win, 119-112.

Pass Swiper 'Top Player'

NEW YORK (AP) — Y. A. Tittle took great pride in his record of only four interceptions in the first 10 games played by the New York Giants. Then Sunday he had two intercepted in the same ball game. Lary Wilson of St. Louis came up with both as the Cardinals upset the Giants 24-17.

As a result of Wilson's fine defensive play in the Cards' deep defense, he was named Player of the Week in the National Football League by The Associated Press.

Wilson's specialty in four years as a safety man in the NFL has been his colorful blitz play from the safety spot. He is a rangy 6-foot, 190-pounder with good speed and quick hands. In his high school days at Rigby, Idaho, he was a fullback. At Utah he was a halfback. The interceptions were his third and fourth of the season.

Don Hultz, Minnesota's rookie from Southern Methodist, also was a candidate for top honors with his two recoveries of Detroit fumbles, tying the NFL record of eight for the season. Tommy Mason scored the clincher in the closing minutes of the Vikings 34-31 victory after Hultz recovered Dan Lewis' fumble. Paul Flatley ao had two great catches in the winning drive.

Giant Offense Best In NFL

NEW YORK (AP) — New York's offense and Chicago's defense continue to dominate the National Football League's weekly team statistics although the Giants were beaten Sunday and the Bears had to scramble for a tie in Pittsburgh.

The Giants have ground out a total offense of 4,051 yards in 11 games.

The Bears gave up 17 points to the Steelers in their tie game but still have allowed only 106 points, less than 10 a game. They have given up 2,507 yards.

Army-Navy Grid Clash Rescheduled For Dec. 7

By MIKE RATHET
Associated Press Sports Writer

Army and Navy will meet in their traditional football battle—but a week later than scheduled — and will bring down the curtain on a 10-day period beginning Thanksgiving that figures to find bowl offers frantically flung around the country.

The decision on the Army-Navy game came Tuesday from the Pentagon and overshadowed two other major developments—the naming of Navy's Roger Staubach as the Heisman Trophy winner and Louisiana State University's acceptance of a Bluebonnet Bowl bid.

The Army-Navy game will be pushed back to Dec. 7 — Pearl Harbor Day — in deference to the memory of the late President Kennedy. The Pentagon said the Kennedy family intervened so that the annual service classic would not be canceled.

The official statement said the game will be dedicated to his memory.

The announcement further scrambled a puzzling major college bowl picture currently filled in at only three spots — top-ranked Texas in the Cotton Bowl seventh-ranked Nebraska in the Orange Bowl and LSU in the Bluebonnet Bowl.

The Thanksgiving Day program and this Saturday's schedule, including many key games that were postponed from last week due to the assassination of President Kennedy, were expected to wrap up most of the holes. But the Army-Navy postponement complicated the situation.

The second-ranked Middies and Staubach, now dubbed the best player in the country by the Heisman voters, were expected to tangle with Texas in the Cotton Bowl providing they beat Army for the fifth consecutive year.

However, their possible participation in a post-season game may have vanished when the postponement appeared. It is believed the sentiment in the Pentagon for cancellation of the game, plus the lengthening of the regular schedule by a week may rule out a bowl trip for Navy.

It also may rule out a top match-up in the Cotton Bowl. Promoters said Tuesday they will wait until after the Dec. 7 schedule, presumably to get Navy's decision. Their second choice is Pitt, which also plays that Saturday, against Penn State.

Pitt, however, does not have to wait until its final game to make a decision — and might be agreeable to an offer from another major bowl. If Pitt goes elsewhere, then Navy declines, the Cotton Bowl will be lacking a top-flight opponent for the unbeaten and untied Longhorns.

Meanwhile, Illinois and Michigan State prepared for their Big Ten clash, a Thanksgiving Day battle that will fill one of the Rose Bowl spots. Other bowl candidates also will be in action Thursday, as well as Saturday.

The winner of the Big Ten battle between the fourth-ranked Spartans and eighth-ranked Illini at East Lansing, Mich., gets a Rose berth against a Big Six opponent which will come out of two Saturday games, Washington at Washington State and Southern California at UCLA. Washington has the inside track.

Also headlining the Thursday program is the meeting between Texas and arch rival Texas AM plus games involving bowl hopefuls Syracuse and North Carolina. The Orange, who meet Notre Dame in New York, could wind up in the Gator Bowl against the Tar Heels, who are at Duke.

The Saturday schedule will fill the West Coast Rose Bowl entry and two Orange and Sugar bowl spots. Auburn could grab an Orange berth with a victory over Alabama, another bowl hopeful, while Mississippi likely will be Sugar Bowl host with a victory over Mississippi State.

A Mississippi State victory, on the other hand, probably would bring the Bulldogs the berth.

Johnson Began Running As Boy; Never Stopped

By RELMAN MORIN
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sunshine tinged the tops of the pecan and sycamore trees, swept across the town of Stonewall, Tex., and glowed in the room where Sam Ealey Johnson Jr. was shaking his son's foot.

"Get up, Lyndon," he said. "Everybody in town's got a two-hour head start on you."

Lyndon Baines Johnson began running. He has never stopped.

Today, he is president of the United States.

But the greatest race of Johnson's life lies ahead of him. In less than a year, another presidential election campaign will be under way. To be serving by reason of tragedy is one thing. To be elected president is the supreme goal of any American politician.

Political Heritage

And Johnson is the ultimate polician.

Johnson was born on a ranch near Stonewall Aug. 27, 1908. On that day, so the story goes, his grandfather said, "He'll be a U.S. senator some day."

True or not, only a few years were to elapse before Johnson was on his way.

He had a political background. His grandfather and his father both served in the Texas House of Representatives. Another forebear was a signer of the Texas Declaration of Independence.

On his mother's side, his relatives were Baptist clergymen and educators. His great-grandfather headed Baylor University for two years.

After Johnson finished high school, at 15, a curious hiatus came in his life.

He neither went to college nor showed any interest in a career. Instead, with some other boys, he walked and hitchhiked to California. Seven months later, he was home, working as a highway laborer, driving a truck, pushing a wheelbarrow, wielding pick and shovel.

Worked As Janitor

Finally, after a heart-to-heart talk, his parents persuaded him to go to college. Johnson borrowed $75 and enrolled in Southwest Texas State Teachers College at San Marcos.

"I took 40 courses and got 35 A's," he says.

To help pay his expenses, he worked as a janitor. Having enrolled in a public-speaking course, he practiced speech-making while sweeping out the classrooms. He graduated in 1930.

The following year is an important one in the Johnson story.

He went to Washington as secretary of Congressman Richard Kleberg and fell head over heels in love with politics. In short order, he won his first election—speaker of the "Little Congress," a mock legislature composed of congressmen's secretaries.

Next, he was appointed state administrator for Texas of the National Youth Administration. He returned to Texas in that capacity in 1935.

Nickname Sticks

Johnson married in 1934. Claudia Alta Taylor has been known all her life as "Lady Bird." When a Negro nurse first saw her, she said, "She's as pretty as a lady bird." Even the congressional directory today lists her under the nickname.

They have two daughters, Lynda Bird, 19, and Lucy Baines, 16.

Johnson's first big political move came in 1937. After the death of Rep. James Buchanan, Johnson ran for the seat.

He waged a shrewd, boldly conceived campaign which was fortuitous for two reasons—it won, and it brought him to the attention of President Franklin D. Roosevelt.

Nine others were in the race. Johnson concluded that, to get in the spotlight, he must do something dramatic. He came out for the main planks of the New Deal and won.

Close To Throne

Roosevelt, fishing off Corpus Christi at the time, was delighted. He invited Johnson to ride to Washington on the presidential train.

He also arranged to have Johnson seated on the important Naval Affairs Committee—a rare thing for a freshman congressman—and brought him to the White House for Sunday breakfasts.

Johnson was close to the throne from the start of the political life. "He (Roosevelt) was like a daddy to me," Johnson often said.

Johnson's first try for the Senate, in 1941, failed. Gov W. Lee O'Daniel beat him by 1,311 votes. Johnson went back to the House.

Then came Pearl Harbor.

Two days later, Johnson, a naval reserve officer, obtained leave from the House and went to war. He served on a three-man commission inspecting conditions in the Southwest Pacific and rode on some bombing missions. Gen. Douglas MacArthur decorated him with the Silver Star. In mid-1942, Roosevelt ordered him back to the House.

Gets Things Done

His victorious 1948 campaign for the Senate is notable in several respects. He campaigned by helicopter. And he defeated Gov. Coke Stevenson by 87 votes out of nearly a million cast.

His natural talent for getting along in the Senate and getting things done soon asserted themselves. He was elected Democratic whip in 1951 and Democratic leader in 1953. At 44, he was the youngest floor leader in history.

Johnson once said he had no presidential ambitions. "I'm conscious of my limitations," he said. "I think it's fair to say nobody but my mama ever thought I'd get as far as I have."

Thanksgiving

By DON OAKLEY

The very name Thanksgiving conjures up an image of a table heaped with an abundance of different foods. One can almost taste the dark, rich turkey gravy and breathe the smell of steaming hot chestnuts.

This is as it should be, for Thanksgiving is the day to remember the special blessings we as Americans enjoy, and surely one of them has always been a plentitude of food. In this respect, Thanksgiving is the most American of our holidays.

For chances are that most tables across the nation are set almost exclusively with foods that were known to the Indians long before the white man came and which they taught settlers to use.

They range from the traditional turkey, potatoes (white or yellow), different kinds of beans, cranberries, squash, pumpkin and corn right through to the after-dinner tobacco.

Other grown-in-America foods are tapioca, chocolate, pineapple, avocado, peppers and various nuts.

To be really authentic, our menus should include these dishes which the Pilgrims also enjoyed: pigeons, partridges, venison, fish, clams and oysters. Our turkeys should be wild, and stuffed with beechnuts.

Speaking of the noble bird, our domestic store-bought fowl are not descendants of the Pilgrims' bird but are immigrants from Europe of a stock which was developed by the Aztecs and was carried over from Mexico by the Spaniards. So the turkey is doubly American.

★ ★ ★

It originally got its name from confusing it with the guinea cock, a bird that was raised in Turkey. (In Turkey, the turkey is known as "the American bird.")

There is probably one further similarity between a modern Thanksgiving and that of the Pilgrims: Undoubtedly more than one of the partakers of that first feast staggered away from the groaning board absolutely convinced that he would never want to eat another morsel in his life.

This, while his good wife sat with head on hand contemplating a monumental clean-up job and what to do with the leftovers.

Hard To Sell

U.S. Commissioner of Education Francis Keppel believes that to convey the urgency of our educational needs requires an extremely difficult leap of the imagination. "Children are not crushed in school rooms as they are on highways. This is the difference . . . The basic problem is that there is no real drama. Growth is only dramatic to grandparents.

"It is extraordinarily difficult to get drama into the question of school improvement when the payoff is so far away."

Keppel stresses the lag between the launching of new educational programs and the "payoff" in better educated youngsters, equipped for more highly skilled, better paying jobs.

State after state and city after city in this country are busy enlarging their educational structures, adding schools at all levels and including many technical institutions.

Nevertheless the gains come hard—for the reason cited. An outlay of millions for a new technical school will not pay dividends in better trained workers for years to come. To many citizens it must appear there are many more immediately practical ways to spend money.

In truth, there are not. For education is the key not only to the life of the individual but to the life of the nation.

Cautious Eye Kept On Pneumonia

By Dr. Wayne G. Brandstadt, M.D.

Pneumonia has been robbed of much of its terror, thanks to the new wonder drugs. It used to be fatal in over 25 per cent of its victims. Although that figure has been cut to 5 per cent, this is not a disease to be taken lightly.

In pneumonia, the disease germs or viruses in the lungs cause an outpouring of serum into the air sacs. The serum clots, and the involved segment of the lung is unable to function properly. Pneumonia is usually a complication of a persistent cold, influenza or other pulmonary infection, but it may also occur after exposure to a high concentration of an irritating gas. The onset is sudden and is attended by a high fever.

If the victim is not treated promptly, even though he recovers, he may be left with a serious complication such as pleurisy, an inflammation of the outer lining of the lung; empyema, a collection of pus in the space between the lungs and the chest wall; or the infection may get into the blood stream and damage the heart valves, the kidneys, the joints, the middle ear or the brain.

Because a variety of germs and viruses may cause pneumonia, it is important for your doctor to identify the exact culprit, because the sulfa drug or antibiotic that cures one infection often will not cure another.

Pneumonia takes its highest toll among the very young, the very old, and the debilitated, especially chronic alcoholics. Coal miners and others who work in a very dusty atmosphere are susceptible to this disease. Unlike measles, an attack of pneumonia gives no immunity, and many persons have lived through several attacks. This may be because, like the common cold, different attacks are probably caused by different organisms.

Early diagnosis and treatment saves lives. If your doctor thinks you should be in a hospital, don't argue. Hospitals are equipped to take care of emergencies and complications as they arise and, if they don't arise, your chances for a speedy recovery will be enhanced by treatment in a hospital. Don't discontinue taking the medicine prescribed until your doctor tells you to. Stopping too soon has caused many a relapse.

Remember that the advances in medical treatment do not depend alone on drugs and doctors they depend on your co-operation as well.

Edson In Washington

By PETER EDSON

WASHINGTON — (NEA) — Only 53 per cent of 3,000 Americans questioned in a scientifically conducted national survey think there is a good chance to avoid a third world war.

The poll was taken by the Elmo Roper organization for the Atlantic Council of the United States, Inc.

Atlantic Council is a private organization to promote a stronger alliance between western Europe and North America. Its three honorary chairmen are ex-Presidents Hoover, Truman and Eisenhower. Its active chairman is Gen. Lauris Norstad, former commander in chief of North Atlantic Treaty Organization armed forces.

Carefully tabulated results of the comprehensive, 60-question survey indicate that "internationalist" sentiment in the United States has made impressive gains over "isolationist" sentiment during the last 10 years.

But the grim fact that only slightly more than half of the adult populace thinks there is a chance of avoiding World War III sticks out in this report with an ominous warning.

Thirty-two per cent of those polled said they thought this war was inevitable, with 15 per cent saying they did not know.

★ ★ ★

This is almost an exact reversal of the results in a similar poll taken for the Atlantic Council in 1952. With the Korean War still on at that time, 53 per cent of those interviewed thought a third world war was inevitable, with only 35 per cent thinking it might be avoided.

The increase from 35 to 53 per cent in those who think another world conflict can be avoided is still regarded as a kind of "skin-of-our-teeth" escape from disaster. But it can be interpreted to explain many facets of current political thought.

It reflects the opinions of many highly vocal Americans who mistrust the Russians, favor a big build-up of U. S. military forces, think this country must be prepared to fight communism wherever it rears its ugly head, oppose both the nuclear test ban treaty and any steps toward disarmament.

These are the causes held most dear by many of the conservative minority groups in America.

A measure of this minority sentiment is revealed in the Atlantic Council survey finding that only 29 per cent think the United States is doing all it could to prevent World War III. On the other hand, 59 per cent think the United States is doing its best to preserve world peace.

★ ★ ★

As for policies to prevent war, 9 per cent of those responding in the survey think the United States should not join any more international alliances. And 7 per cent think the U. S. should get out of the alliances it is now in.

But 21 per cent think the United States should continue to work with the United Nations; 35 per cent think the U. N. should be strengthened, and 11 per cent think steps should be taken to convert it into a world government.

Only 12 per cent of those polled, however, would favor surrender of American sovereignty to achieve this end.

As for the kinds of military preparedness the U. S. should take, 3 per cent of those polled think there should be a "preventive" war just as soon as American military leaders feel they can win.

Four per cent say quit relying on military strength and make the best deal possible with the Communists, even if it means some sacrifice or appeasement.

In between these two extremes, 17 per cent think the United States should rely wholly on its own resources and 68 per cent favor building up friendly country alliances.

★ ★ ★

This poll is considered important not just as a measure of American opinion on foreign policy, but also as a guide for U. S. political parties and candidates in the 1964 elections.

It would indicate two-to-one support for the Kennedy, Eisenhower or Rockefeller policies on international cooperation.

The policy for a more wholly self-sufficient America, with less dependence on foreign alliances, which is being espoused by many of the supporters of Sen. Goldwater would seem to have the backing of that third of the popuation which the Atlantic Council poll finds believing World War III is inevitable.

Ask The Dentist

Q. Why do dentists advise people to keep their lower teeth as long as possible? Three dentists have said my upper teeth should be removed, but they don't want to remove the lowers. I'd just as soon get both plates and get it over with.

A. The upper jawbone, after an initial "settling" period, usually shrinks very slowly after all teeth are removed. So most persons can count on a serviceable "foundation" for upper dentures throughout life.

The lower jawbone, however, can shrink away so rapidly after the teeth are gone that in ten or twenty years nothing is left that will stabilize the lower plate. This doesn't happen to everyone, but the percentage is so high that everyone is urged to keep those lowers clean and healthy. Fight that tendency to let them deteriorate. Carefully clean around each tooth with dental floss daily and get all cavities filled. With proper care they'll last for years.

Q. A few months ago I read that dentists sometimes fill gullies in teeth even though they're not decayed much. Wouldn't it be better if they waited until there was a bigger decayed spot? Seems to me that the filling would then be newer at a later date, so would last that much longer.

A. Dentists occasionally do watch certain types of cavities develop for a period, sometimes before filling them. But they prefer to fill the tiny starting cavities in deep grooves of children's permanent teeth.

Having decay at the bottom of such grooves, where the enamel is often imperfect, is like having the opposing football team on your three yard line. Filling the area sets the decay back "on its own twenty," putting a lot of "hard yardage" between bacteria and the pulp or nerve part of the tooth.

MINT JULEP

The mint julep is said to be a variation of ancient Arabic and Persian drinks called julab and gulab, which were made with rose water and alcohol.

The Rev. G. A. Herbert, pastor of Zion Lutheran church in Manistique, was honored at a farewell reception by members and friends of the congregation last evening. He has gone to Chicago to assume charge of the Tabor Lutheran church in that city.

Lester Johnson, 1423 First Ave. N., veteran jeweler with the Blomstrom & Peterson Jewelry store, has purchased the business at 911 Ludington St. The name of the store will remain unchanged.

Twenty Years Ago

The Rev. James G. Ward, rector of St. Stephen's Episcopal church, delivered the oration at this year's memorial rites of the Escanaba Elks Lodge.

Shipping came to an end in Escanaba today. Records show that Escanaba was the only port on the Great Lakes that exceeded last year's shipment figures.

War restrictions on groceries have threatened many a Thanksgiving dinner, but an Escanaba store advertises a "Point Free Menu" and it isn't half bad. Here are the point free items: Soup, crackers, roast fowl, celery, olives, sweet potatoes, brussels sprouts, cranberry sauce, dressing, pan rolls, fruit cake, coffee and nuts. Where Are Those Musical Windfalls Of Yesteryear?

By DICK KLEINER

NEW PORK — (NEA) —The cruel facts of life in the music business are catching up with Christmas songs. That's why chances are slim that there will be a new Christmas hit this year — or for many years to come.

The last major Christmas hit — using the million-seller criterion — was Jimmy Boyd's "I Saw Mommy Kissing Santa Claus" in 1952. A few others since then — "Rock Around the Christmas Tree" and "Jingle Bell Rock" — have become teen-age standards, but not major hits.

Not only are hits scarcer, but new Christmas songs are infrequent these days. Fifteen or 20 years ago, record companies would put out up to a dozen new Christmas songs each year; today they will issue three or four at the most. And many of these will be carols or standards in new versions.

The cause of this Christmas music slump is economic.

In recent years, radio stations have refused to play Christmas music until after play a song simply has no Thanksgiving. Without radio air chance of becoming a hit.

Years ago, stations would begin programming Christmas songs in October. That gave a record sufficient time to catch on. But if the public doesn't hear a song until late November, they just don't have time to fall in love with it and buy it. It takes exposure to make a song a hit. Radio stations are generally too confined to a format — like the top 40 — to bother with Christmas records.

The Ol' Groaner gives out with a Christmas tune.

Another hard fact — retail selling methods have changed. Virtually gone are the old-fashioned record stores with listening booths. Instead, more and more records are sold in racks in supermarkets and drug stores. Rack jobbers — the men who stock these racks — are unwilling to give up valuable space on a gamble. They want to sell records, and they figure they have more chance stocking records with a long selling season. They are therefore reluctant to take on Christmas records.

All this has had its effect. Decca, for example, will issue four new Christmas singles this year. Three are by established artists singing established songs. Only one is new — and that's by the Surfaris, in an attempt to cash in on the surf music trend.

RCA is issuing three, and one of these is on its rock 'n roll subsidiary, Groove.

Columbia, which calls itself "a Christmas company," is doing more than the others. Robert Goulet will be heard with a new song called "The Christmas I Spend With You." Andy Williams and The New Christy Ministrels also have holiday singles.

And Columbia is keeping its corporate fingers crossed about "Here's Love." This Meredith Wilson musical, based on Miracle on 34th Street," has a Christmas theme and several holiday-flavored tunes. Songs like "That Man Over There," "The Big Fat Caloons" and "Pine Cones and Holly Berries" are, Columbia feels, potential Christmas standards. They will all be issued on singles. Mitch Miller has already waxed "Pine Cones and Holly Berries."

Of course, no company would turn down a Christmas song they felt had potential. After all, once it is established, it is a permanent seller. Bing Crosby, for example, has sold 20 million copies of "White Christmas," 10 million "Silent Nights," 7 million "Jingle Bells" and 10 million LPs of his Christmas album, "Merry Christmas."

And such tunes as "Rudolph the Red-Nosed Reindeer" are gold mines. Trouble is, there's much less chance for them to be heard nowa-days.

Some Cities Of State Vitalize Industry Drive

LANSING — How some Michigan communities have coped with the problem of invigorating their business supports was told to a session of the Committee on Economic Development of the Michigan House of Representatives here recently.

The committee is inquiring into ways that some communities have solved their major problems and how new state legislation might help promote the economic upturn.

Nearly always, the meeting heard, accomplishments started with a group of townspeople pooling funds and bidding for new industry through industrial development projects — providing capital, sites and buildings for new industry. The start was usually small.

Raising $12,000 and borrowing another $10,000 an Olivet group put up a building for several young men who until then had used a vacant hardward store as a factory.

"That was the beginning," beamed David O. Farrand, president of the Olivet industrial Development Corp.

Today, the group takes credit for helping to bring five manufacturing concerns to town. These firms employ 160 people and have gross sales of $2,500,000

The Olivet Development Corp., has not only paid small dividends but also returned to the 58 original stockholders their original investment, plus a 10 per cent profit.

A similar plight faced Plymouth in 1958 when the Daisy Manufacturing Co., closed down.

Plymouth's first community-wide effort at forming a small business investment company met with failure.

Fought Harder

But a new nonprofit organization has raised more than $100,000 and has played some part in filling every vacant plant in the community — entirely through volunteer efforts.

Gaylord community leaders said they "only worked harder" when they learned a major industry was ready to pass up their Otsego County town "because they thought we were too small."

"We made up in enthusiasm for what we lack in size," said Harold Elgas, a banker and sparkplug behind a drive which resulted in the U. S. Plywood Co., locating a plant there that eventually will employ 40.

Adrian patterned a new method in raising funds for industrial development work.

Rather than reduce taxes 15 cents per $1,000 the city commission earmarked the same amount for the development projects.

Since then, the Greater Adrian Industrial Development Corp., was reactivated and this fall — with the aid of a professional fund raiser — overshot its goal by 14 per cent in raising $142,533.

Muskegon representatives told how it lost jobs when Norge Corp., employing 1,500 men, moved to another state.

Through civic leaders, the unions and Greater Muskegon Industrial Fund, an automatic pinsetter plant with 1,400 workers was brought in.

In addition to stories of accomplishment, the committee heard appeals for help yesterday.

In addition to stories of accomplishment, the committee heard appeals for help.

Urge New Laws

The state was urged to:

- Repeal Michigan's patchwork of "Blue Sky" laws, written to protect investors in the sale of securities.
- Link industrial expansion with major research facilities at state-supported schools.
- Search out new processes to convert raw materials, such as iron ore and timber products, into marketable goods.

One of the most frequent complaints heard by the legislators concerned the need to change Michigan's securities act which has not undergone a major overhaul since going on the books in 1923.

Hit Restrictions

Keeve M. Siegel, president of Conductron Corp., of Ann Arbor, a military research and development firm, blamed the Blue Sky laws for stifling the influx of research projects.

"The primary problem impeding the start of new businesses in the state is" a lack of "financial stimulus and risk capital looking for speculations in Michigan," he said.

John Stranahan of Ironwood, executive director for GO-Inc. (Gogebic Organization for an Industrially New County), reported "good iron ore deposits" still dot the Gogebic Range and recommended funds be alloted to Michigan Tech to develop research uses for iron ore pellets.

One mining firm, Stranahan said, attributes its continuation in business to processes developed at Michigan Tech.

Ann Arbor's emergence as a major research center was credited by officials there to the cooperation and long-range planning with the University of Michigan.

The legislators heard an appeal for the reactivation of the Michigan Industrial Ambassador Corps.

"Outside stimulus is needed to overcome the apathy in our town, which is becoming a critical area of unemployment," warned Edwin C. Loomis, president of the Elk Rapids Industrial Development Corp., — an organization which he said has fallen apart since the mid-50s when it attracted industry through $1-a-week membership fees.

COUPLE OF QUEENS

BOWLING GREEN, Ky. (AP) — There were two homecoming queens at Western Kentucky State College.

Students picked Miss Pat Norman of Glasgow to reign over the celebration.

And seniors on the football team picked their own queen — Mrs. Brad Mutchler of Paducah, mother of Western linebacker John Mutchler.

Staebler Ready To Run In 1964

WASHINGTON (AP) — Indications are strong that Rep. Neil Staebler, D - Mich., will be a candidate for the governorship of Michigan by the first of the year.

Although Staebler, Michigan Democratic National Committeeman, is shying away from stating his intentions, some sources say he will make the run even if former Democratic Gov. John B. Swainson tries to recapture his old job.

And the White House, prior to the assassination of President Kennedy, also was reported to have entered the picture.

One source said the White House had been concerned about Michigan in the 1964 presidential election and Kennedy had believed Staebler would make the strongest candidate to run against Republican Gov. George Romney.

Romney defeated Swainson last year 1,420,086 to 1,339,513 or a margin of 80,573. Staebler, running for the at - large House seat, defeated former Rep. Alvin M. Bentley, the Republican nominee, 1,392,221 to 1,282,082, or a margin of 110,139.

Earlier this year Staebler said he would not be a candidate for governor if Swainson decided to make the race. However, those who know the situation say that Staebler now is edging away from this position and has about decided to run for the governorship in any case.

The stomach of the grebe invariably contains a ball of its own feathers.

Silver Items Are Timeless

Nothing adds more to the charm and festivity of holiday tables than the luster of fine silver.

For Christmas and for use throughout the years, beautiful silver bowls, platters, candlesticks, ash trays, compotes and vases are gifts of timeless value. A fine silver service grows more beautiful with use and can make every meal a festive occasion.

Most popular in the silver holloware gift lineup are silver bowls of all sizes and designs, with the classic Revere bowl a perennial favorite, available in sizes from tiny individual ash-trays to huge centerpiece bowls for flowers or fruit.

The thoughtful giver will order such gifts well in advance to allow time for the personal touch of initialing or monogramming — an added sentiment quotient sure to be appreciated.

Silver trays are always in demand, and no household ever had too many of them—big, handsome trays to hold a complete coffee service or small trays to hold an individual cup or glass.

Anything from a set of silver coasters to a handsome tea or coffee service will win undying gratitude from any homemaker. And the silver may be sterling or plated, precious or budget-priced.

The art of the finest designers is available in silver pieces in all price ranges, with some of the most beautiful of modern designs seen in inexpensive silver plate.

Silver occupies a place of honor on top of Santa's pack this year—a gift for holiday entertaining and use every day of the year.

A Daily Press want ad can do a big job for you.

Jewelry Store Full Of Ideas

For centuries the jewelry store has been traditional gift headquarters at Christmas, carrying the most exciting selection of memorable gifts to be cherished through the years.

Gift-buyers, the Jewelry Industry Council reports, welcome the taste, trained fashion sense, good judgment and integrity that are synonymous with jewelers. This year, you will find an even greater assortment from which to make your selections.

When shopping for a watch, for instance, handsome styling and individuality are likely to be as important as accuracy to the wearer. And so great is the variety in watches this Christmas that only the trained jeweler can point out the merits and suitability of each one.

Utility watches, for out-of-door wear and sports; pocket watches and chains for formal wear and wrist watches designed especially for professional business people are found to be in striking attractive styles.

Silver holloware—tea sets, bowls, dishes, trays—reflects the good taste of the giver as few gifts can. Because today's silverware is the focal point of fashion in the home, the factor of style judgment in selection can make for the most happiness all around, regardless of intrinsic value or price alone.

A glance at the showcases in your jewelry store will show you that each age group has been studied by designers with an eye to fashion and appropriateness. The jeweler offers gifts for infants such as: bent-handle spoons, silver rattles or teething rings with silver bells, brush and comb sets, pearls for starting a necklace, cups, bib holders, porringers and tiny gift rings.

For older boys, and men for that matter, the right tie tack, tie clip, cuff links, key chain or pen-knife are to be found at the jewelers.

A wide variety of gift suggestions for young girls includes a piece of sterling in her chosen pattern, her first piece of precious jewelry in the form of a pin, bracelet, locket or sterling picture frame.

Young women's gift choices are sure to include compacts, jeweled earrings and pins, clips and rings. Gifts of jewelry make any woman seem prettier —and younger.

Santa is linked in the minds of many with the fashions of today. That means jewelry and more of it. Again the jeweler can be helpful, for he makes it his business to know the fashion trends, whether it emphasizes longer waistlines, shorter sleeves, distinctive necklines, or whether the jewel accent is to be near the face, lapel, waist or elsewhere.

Sterling identification bracelets are worn early today by young men in their teens; their pen and pencil sets, leather wallets and desk accessories will tend to reflect personal tastes as well as future professions or occupations. Smoking accessories take on importance, including lighters, cigarette cases and holders.

Rings may assume the importance of fraternal insignia, the dignity of initial or signet designs. Perhaps the birthstone ring has become significant in the young man's life as a gift ring worth having and wearing for its symbolic meaning and proof of someone's lasting affection and regard.

Thanksgiving

By DON OAKLEY

The very name Thanksgiving conjures up an image of a table heaped with an abundance of different foods. One can almost taste the dark, rich turkey gravy and breathe the smell of steaming hot chestnuts.

This is as it should be, for Thanksgiving is the day to remember the special blessings we as Americans enjoy, and surely one of them has always been a plentitude of food. In this respect, Thanksgiving is the most American of our holidays.

For chances are that most tables across the nation are set almost exclusively with foods that were known to the Indians long before the white man came and which they taught settlers to use.

★ ★ ★

They range from the traditional turkey, potatoes (white or yellow), different kinds of beans, cranberries, squash, pumpkin and corn right through to the after-dinner tobacco.

Other grown-in-America foods are tapioca, chocolate, pineapple, avocado, peppers and various nuts.

To be really authentic, our menus should include these dishes which the Pilgrims also enjoyed: pigeons, partridges, venison, fish, clams and oysters. Our turkeys should be wild, and stuffed with beechnuts.

Speaking of the noble bird, our domestic store-bought fowl are not descendants of the Pilgrims' bird but are immigrants from Europe of a stock which was developed by the Aztecs and was carried over from Mexico by the Spaniards. So the turkey is doubly American.

★ ★ ★

It originally got its name from confusing it with the guinea cock, a bird that was raised in Turkey. (In Turkey, the turkey is known as "the American bird.")

There is probably one further similarity between a modern Thanksgiving and that of the Pilgrims: Undoubtedly more than one of the partakers of that first feast staggered away from the groaning board absolutely convinced that he would never want to eat another morsel in his life.

This, while his good wife sat with head on hand contemplating a monumental clean-up job and what to do with the leftovers.

Hard To Sell

U.S. Commissioner of Education Francis Keppel believes that to convey the urgency of our educational needs requires an extremely difficult leap of the imagination. "Children are not crushed in school rooms as they are on highways. This is the difference . . . The basic problem is that there is no real drama. Growth is only dramatic to grandparents.

"It is extraordinarily difficult to get drama into the question of school improvement when the payoff is so far away."

Keppel stresses the lag between the launching of new educational programs and the "payoff" in better educated youngsters, equipped for more highly skilled, better paying jobs.

State after state and city after city in this country are busy enlarging their educational structures, adding schools at all levels and including many technical institutions.

Nevertheless the gains come hard—for the reason cited. An outlay of millions for a new technical school will not pay dividends in better trained workers for years to come. To many citizens it must appear there are many more immediately practical ways to spend money.

In truth, there are not. For education is the key not only to the life of the individual but to the life of the nation.

The Doctor Says:

Cautious Eye Kept On Pneumonia

By Dr. Wayne G. Brandstadt, M.D.

Pneumonia has been robbed of much of its terror, thanks to the new wonder drugs. It used to be fatal in over 25 per cent of its victims. Although that figure has been cut to 5 per cent, this is not a disease to be taken lightly.

In pneumonia, the disease germs or viruses in the lungs cause an outpouring of serum into the air sacs. The serum clots, and the involved segment of the lung is unable to function properly. Pneumonia is usually a complication of a persistent cold, influenza or other pulmonary infection, but it may also occur after exposure to a high concentration of an irritating gas. The onset is sudden and is attended by a high fever.

If the victim is not treated promptly, even though he recovers, he may be left with a serious complication such as pleurisy, an inflammation of the outer lining of the lung; empyema, a collection of pus in the space between the lungs and the chest wall; or the infection may get into the blood stream and damage the heart valves, the kidneys, the joints, the middle ear or the brain.

Because a variety of germs and viruses may cause pneumonia, it is important for your doctor to identify the exact culprit, because the sulfa drug or antibiotic that cures one infection often will not cure another.

Pneumonia takes its highest toll among the very young, the very old, and the debilitated, especially chronic alcoholics. Coal miners and others who work in a very dusty atmosphere are susceptible to this disease. Unlike measles, an attack of pneumonia gives no immunity, and many persons have lived through several attacks. This may be because, like the common cold, different attacks are probably caused by different organisms.

Early diagnosis and treatment saves lives. If your doctor thinks you should be in a hospital, don't argue. Hospitals are equipped to take care of emergencies and complications as they arise and, if they don't arise, your chances for a speedy recovery will be enhanced by treatment in a hospital. Don't discontinue taking the medicine prescribed until your doctor tells you to. Stopping too soon has caused many a relapse.

Remember that the advances in medical treatment do not depend alone on drugs and doctors, they depend on your co-operation as well.

Edson In Washington

By PETER EDSON

WASHINGTON — (NEA) — Only 53 per cent of 3,000 Americans questioned in a scientifically conducted national survey think there is a good chance to avoid a third world war.

The poll was taken by the Elmo Roper organization for the Atlantic Council of the United States, Inc.

Atlantic Council is a private organization to promote a stronger alliance between western Europe and North America. Its three honorary chairmen are ex-Presidents Hoover, Truman and Eisenhower. Its active chairman is Gen. Lauris Norstad, former commander in chief of North Atlantic Treaty Organization armed forces.

Carefully tabulated results of the comprehensive, 60-question survey indicate that "internationalist" sentiment in the United States has made impressive gains over "isolationist" sentiment during the last 10 years.

But the grim fact that only slightly more than half of the adult populace thinks there is a chance of avoiding World War III sticks out in this report with an ominous warning.

Thirty-two per cent of those polled said they thought this war was inevitable, with 15 per cent saying they did not know.

★ ★ ★

This is almost an exact reversal of the results in a similar poll taken for the Atlantic Council in 1952. With the Korean War still on at that time, 53 per cent of those interviewed thought a third world war was inevitable, with only 35 per cent thinking it might be avoided.

The increase from 35 to 53 per cent in those who think another world conflict can be avoided is still regarded as a kind of "skin-of-our-teeth" escape from disaster. But it can be interpreted to explain many facets of current political thought.

It reflects the opinions of many highly vocal Americans who mistrust the Russians, favor a big build-up of U. S. military forces, think this country must be prepared to fight communism wherever it rears its ugly head, oppose both the nuclear test ban treaty and any steps toward disarmament.

These are the causes held most dear by many of the conservative minority groups in America.

A measure of this minority sentiment is revealed in the Atlantic Council survey finding that only 29 per cent think the United States is doing all it could to prevent World War III. On the other hand, 59 per cent think the United States is doing its best to preserve world peace.

★ ★ ★

As for policies to prevent war, 9 per cent of those responding in the survey think the United States should not join any more international alliances. And 7 per cent think the U. S. should get out of the alliances it is now in.

But 21 per cent think the United States should continue to work with the United Nations; 35 per cent think the U. N. should be strengthened, and 11 per cent think steps should be taken to convert it into a world government.

Only 12 per cent of those polled, however, would favor surrender of American sovereignty to achieve this end.

As for the kinds of military preparedness the U. S. should take, 3 per cent of those polled think there should be a "preventive" war just as soon as American military leaders feel they can win.

Four per cent say quit relying on military strength and make the best deal possible with the Communists, even if it means some sacrifice or appeasement.

In between these two extremes, 17 per cent think the United States should rely wholly on its own resources and 68 per cent favor building up friendly country alliances.

★ ★ ★

This poll is considered important not just as a measure of American opinion on foreign policy, but also as a guide for U. S. political parties and candidates in the 1964 elections.

It would indicate two-to-one support for the Kennedy, Eisenhower or Rockefeller policies on international cooperation.

The policy for a more wholly self-sufficient America, with less dependence on foreign alliances, which is being espoused by many of the supporters of Sen. Goldwater would seem to have the backing of that third of the popuation which the Atlantic Council poll finds believing World War III is inevitable.

Ask The Dentist

Q. Why do dentists advise people to keep their lower teeth as long as possible? Three dentists have said my upper teeth should be removed, but they don't want to remove the lowers. I'd just as soon get both plates and get it over with.

A. The upper jawbone, after an initial "settling" period, usually shrinks very slowly after all teeth are removed. So most persons can count on a serviceable "foundation" for upper dentures throughout life.

The lower jawbone, however, can shrink away so rapidly after the teeth are gone that in ten or twenty years nothing is left that will stabilize the lower plate. This doesn't happen to everyone, but the percentage is so high that everyone is urged to keep those lowers clean and healthy. Fight that tendency to let them deteriorate. Carefully clean around each tooth with dental floss daily and get all cavities filled. With proper care they'll last for years.

Q. A few months ago I read that dentists sometimes fill gullies in teeth even though they're not decayed much. Wouldn't it be better if they waited until there was a bigger decayed spot? Seems to me that the filling would then be newer at a later date, so would last that much longer.

A. Dentists occasionally do watch certain types of cavities develop for a period, sometimes before filling them. But they prefer to fill the tiny starting cavities in deep grooves of children's permanent teeth.

Having decay at the bottom of such grooves, where the enamel is often imperfect, is like having the opposing football team on your three yard line. Filling the area sets the decay back "on its own twenty," putting a lot of "hard yardage" between bacteria and the pulp or nerve part of the tooth.

The mint julep is said to be a variation of ancient Arabic and Persian drinks called julab and gulab, which were made with rose water and alcohol.

Memory Lane

Ten Years Ago

Pfc. Donald Ambeau, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Ambeau, 816 N. 18th St., was killed in action while serving with the American forces in Korea, according to word received yesterday by his parents.

The Rev. G. A. Herbert, pastor of Zion Lutheran church in Manistique, was honored at a farewell reception by members and friends of the congregation last evening. He has gone to Chicago to assume charge of the Tabor Lutheran church in that city.

Lester Johnson, 1423 First Ave. N., veteran jeweler with the Blomstrom & Peterson Jewelry store, has purchased the business at 911 Ludington St. The name of the store will remain unchanged.

Twenty Years Ago

The Rev. James G. Ward, rector of St. Stephen's Episcopal church, delivered the oration at this year's memorial rites of the Escanaba Elks Lodge.

Shipping came to an end in Escanaba today. Records show that Escanaba was the only port on the Great Lakes that exceeded last year's shipment figures.

War restrictions on groceries have threatened many a Thanksgiving dinner, but an Escanaba store advertises a "Point Free Menu" and it isn't half bad. Here are the point free items: Soup, crackers, roast fowl, celery, olives, sweet potatoes, brussels sprouts, cranberry sauce, dressing, pan rolls, fruit cake, coffee and nuts. But go easy on the butter!

Thirty Years Ago

Robert Furlong, district superintendent of the conservation department, announces that many miles of fire lanes will be cut in Delta with CWA labor.

Petitions are being circulated in Gladstone asking that permits for the sale by the glass of beer and liquor be granted in that city.

The Escanaba city council at its meeting last night approved the expenditure of $73,000 for the sponsorship of CWA projects in the city. Included in the list of projects is the development of a city airport.

Where Are Those Musical Windfalls Of Yesteryear?

By DICK KLEINER

NEW PORK — (NEA) —The cruel facts of life in the music business are catching up with Christmas songs. That's why chances are slim that there will be a new Christmas hit this year — or for many years to come.

The last major Christmas hit — using the million-seller criterion — was Jimmy Boyd's "I Saw Mommy Kissing Santa Claus" in 1952. A few others since then — "Rock Around the Christmas Tree" and "Jingle Bell Rock" — have become teen-age standards, but not major hits.

Not only are hits scarcer, but new Christmas songs are infrequent these days. Fifteen or 20 years ago, record companies would put out up to a dozen new Christmas songs each year; today they will issue three or four at the most. And many of these will be carols or standards in new versions.

The cause of this Christmas music slump is economic.

In recent years, radio stations have refused to play Christmas music until after play a song simply has no Thanksgiving. Without radio air chance of becoming a hit.

Years ago, stations would begin programming Christmas songs in October. That gave a record sufficient time to catch on. But if the public doesn't hear a song until late November, they just don't have time to fall in love with it and buy it. It takes exposure to make a song a hit. Radio stations are generally too confined to a format — like the top 40 — to bother with Christmas records.

The Ol' Groaner gives out with a Christmas tune.

Another hard fact — retail selling methods have changed. Virtually gone are the old-fashioned record stores with listening booths. Instead, more and more records are sold in racks in supermarkets and drug stores. Rack jobbers — the men who stock these racks — are unwilling to give up valuable space on a gamble. They want to sell records, and they figure they have more chance stocking records with a long selling season. They are therefore reluctant to take on Christmas records.

All this has had its effect. Decca, for example, will issue four new Christmas singles this year. Three are by established artists singing established songs. Only one is new — and that's by the Surfaris, in an attempt to cash in on the surf music trend.

RCA is issuing three, and one of these is on its rock 'n roll subsidiary, Groove.

Columbia, which calls itself "a Christmas company," is doing more than the others. Robert Goulet will be heard with a new song called "The Christmas I Spend With You." Andy Williams and The New Christy Ministrels also have holiday singles.

And Columbia is keeping its corporate fingers crossed about "Here's Love." This Meredith Wilson musical, based on Miracle on 34th Street," has a Christmas theme and several holiday-flavored tunes. Songs like "That Man Over There," "The Big Fat Caloons" and "Pine Cones and Holly Berries" are, Columbia feels, potential Christmas standards. They will all be issued on singles. Mitch Miller has already waxed "Pine Cones and Holly Berries."

Of course, no company would turn down a Christmas song they felt had potential. After all, once it is established, it is a permanent seller. Bing Crosby, for example, has sold 20 million copies of "White Christmas," 10 million "Silent Nights," 7 million "Jingle Bells" and 10 million LPs of his Christmas album, "Merry Christmas."

And such tunes as "Rudolph the Red-Nosed Reindeer" are gold mines. Trouble is, there's much less chance for them to be heard nowa-days.

Some Cities Of State Vitalize Industry Drive

LANSING — How some Michigan communities have coped wth the problem of invigorating their business supports was told to a session of the Committee on Economic Development of the Michigan House of Representatives here recently.

The committee is inquiring into ways that some communities have solved their major problems and how new state legislation might help promote the economic upturn.

Nearly always, the meeting heard, accomplishments started with a group of townspeople pooling funds and bidding for new industry through industrial development projects — providing capital, sites and buildings for new industry. The start was usually small.

Raising $12,000 and borrowing another $10,000 an Olivet group put up a building for several young men who until then had used a vacant hardward store as a factory.

"That was the beginning," beamed David O. Farrand, president of the Olivet industrial Development Corp.

Today, the group takes credit for helping to bring five manufacturing concerns to town. These firms employ 160 people and have gross sales of $2,500,000

The Olivet Development Corp., has not only paid small dividends but also returned to the 58 original stockholders their original investment, plus a 10 per cent profit.

A similar plight faced Plymouth in 1958 when the Daisy Manufacturing Co., closed down.

Plymouth's first community-wide effort at forming a small business investment company met with failure.

Fought Harder

But a new nonprofit organization has raised more than $100,000 and has played some part in filling every vacant plant in the community — entirely through volunteer efforts.

Gaylord community leaders said they "only worked harder" when they learned a major industry was ready to pass up their Otsego County town "because they thought we were too small."

"We made up in enthusiasm for what we lack in size," said Harold Elgas, a banker and sparkplug behind a drive which resulted in the U. S. Plywood Co., locating a plant there that eventually will employ 40.

Adrian patterned a new method in raising funds for industrial development work.

Rather than reduce taxes 15 cents per $1,000 the city commission earmarked the same amount for the development projects.

Since then, the Greater Adrian Industrial Development Corp., was reactivated and this fall — with the aid of a professional fund raiser — overshot its goal by 14 per cent in raising $142,533.

Muskegon representatives told how it lost jobs when Norge Corp., employing 1,500 men, moved to another state.

Through civic leaders, the unions and Greater Muskegon Industrial Fund, an automatic pinsetter plant with 1,400 workers was brought in.

In addition to stories of accomplishment, the committee heard appeals for help yesterday.

In addition to stories of accomplishment, the committee heard appeals for help.

Urge New Laws

The state was urged to:

- Repeal Michigan's patchwork of "Blue Sky" laws, written to protect investors in the sale of securities.
- Link industrial expansion with major research facilities at state-supported schools.
- Search out new processes to convert raw materials, such as iron ore and timber products, into marketable goods.

One of the most frequent complaints heard by the legislators concerned the need to change Michigan's securities act which has not undergone a major overhaul since going on the books in 1923.

Hit Restrictions

Keeve M. Siegel, president of Conductron Corp., of Ann Arbor, a military research and development firm, blamed the Blue Sky laws for stifling the influx of research projects.

"The primary problem impeding the start of new businesses in the state is" a lack of "financial stimulus and risk capital looking for speculations in Michigan," he said.

John Stranahan of Ironwood, executive director for GO-Inc. (Gogebic Organization for an Industrially New County), reported "good iron ore deposits" still dot the Gogebic Range and recommended funds be alloted to Michigan Tech to develop research uses for iron ore pellets.

One mining firm, Stranahan said, attributes its continuation in business to processes developed at Michigan Tech.

Ann Arbor's emergence as a major research center was credited by officials there to the cooperation and long-range planning with the University of Michigan.

The legislators heard an appeal for the reactivation of the Michigan Industrial Ambassador Corps.

"Outside stimulus is needed to overcome the apathy in our town, which is becoming a critical area of unemployment," warned Edwin C. Loomis, president of the Elk Rapids Industrial Development Corp., — an organization which he said has fallen apart since the mid-50s when it attracted industry through $1-a-week membership fees.

COUPLE OF QUEENS

BOWLING GREEN, Ky. (AP) — There were two homecoming queens at Western Kentucky State College.

Students picked Miss Pat Norman of Glasgow to reign over the celebration.

And seniors on the football team picked their own queen — Mrs. Brad Mutchler of Paducah, mother of Western linebacker John Mutchler.

Staebler Ready To Run In 1964

WASHINGTON (AP) — Indications are strong that Rep. Neil Staebler, D - Mich., will be a candidate for the governorship of Michigan by the first of the year.

Although Staebler, Michigan Democratic National Committeeman, is shying away from stating his intentions, some sources say he will make the run even if former Democratic Gov. John B. Swainson tries to recapture his old job.

And the White House, prior to the assassination of President Kennedy, also was reported to have entered the picture.

One source said the White House had been concerned about Michigan in the 1964 presidential election and Kennedy had believed Staebler would make the strongest candidate to run against Republican Gov. George Romney.

Romney defeated Swainson last year 1,420,086 to 1,339,513 or a margin of 80,573. Staebler, running for the at - large House seat, defeated former Rep. Alvin M. Bentley, the Republican nominee, 1,392,221 to 1,282,082, or a margin of 110,139.

Earlier this year Staebler said he would not be a candidate for governor if Swainson decided to make the race. However, those who know the situation say that Staebler now is edging away from this position and has about decided to run for the governorship in any case.

The stomach of the grebe invariably contains a ball of its own feathers.

Wishing For A Dishwasher?

With Christmas almost here, the "hinting season" is in full swing, and husbands are fair game—especially if it's a family gift you're aiming at.

Here are a few "hinting" tips for a homemaker who has her heart set on a major item —an electric dishwasher, for example:

1. Collect dishwasher ads from the local paper and national magazines. Show them to your personal Santa Claus and tell him what style and features you especially like. You might choose a built-in model, a portable, or a convertible that can be built in later.

Tell him about the choice of cycles for light or heavy loads, the easy-to-load rack designs, and the new powerful washing action that gets dishes really clean, and the hot-air drying that leaves them sparkling.

2. Tell him that an automatic dishwasher will save your hands from that rough redness constant hand - dishwashing gives them. Explain that your hands won't have to do anything except brush food off the plates and place tableware and kitchen utensils in the machine.

Don't forget to say that an electric dishwasher uses water much hotter and detergent much stronger than your hands could stand.

3. Explain how much time an automatic dishwasher will save —time you can spend helping the children with their homework or doing something else that's important to the family. If your children help with the dishes, get them to help persuade Daddy that an automatic dishwasher would be a wonderful Christmas gift.

4. Since men like to see how appliances work, get him to take a look at a friend's dishwasher. Let her or her husband show him how easy it is to use, how clean and bright it gets the dishes, and how neat the kitchen stays when dirty dishes go right into the dishwasher after every meal.

AMERICAN CHECKS

So many bank checks are written by Americans that it would take a stack of wood 25 miles high and four feet by eight feet to produce the supply of 15 million checks for one year.

Some Hints For Your Card List

Those gay Christmas cards that decorated mantel and mirror and tree can serve a practical purpose when you take them down.

That is the best time—and they are the simplest means—for making up your 1964 Christmas card list. If the list is revised now, while new names and addresses are ready at hand, the addressing of cards next Christmas will be almost effortless.

For those to whom maintaining a list is a problem in itself, the card maker offers a number of easy solutions, some of which are available in stores and others hand-fashioned at home.

If your list runs to several hundred people and you must of necessity be meticulous about it, then probably the best system is to post the names and addresses on file cards and index them in a small file box. An advantage of this system is that the cards offer ample space to jot down information about the person and his family as it is received during the year.

For those with shorter lists, the personal telephone directory is a handy reference. A tiny check mark beside a name may be used to indicate that you two exchanged cards the previous Christmas. A second mark could be used for those to whom you send gifts.

"Any Purchase Gladly Held For Christmas Delivery"

A TREE LIKE this should bring back many fond memories to people who remember sitting in the living room on Christmas Eve and stringing popcorn for the tree. Mrs. Marie Peterson, 420½ 2nd Ave. S. decorated this tree with an old fashioned flare, complete with sugar cookies hanging from the boughs in shapes of stars, snowmen and bells. (Daily Press Photo)

Silver Items Are Timeless

Nothing adds more to the charm and festivity of holiday tables than the luster of fine silver.

For Christmas and for use throughout the years, beautiful silver bowls, platters, candlesticks, ash trays, compotes and vases are gifts of timeless value. A fine silver service grows more beautiful with use and can make every meal a festive occasion.

Most popular in the silver holloware gift lineup are silver bowls of all sizes and designs, with the classic Revere bowl a perennial favorite, available in sizes from tiny individual ashtrays to huge centerpiece bowls for flowers or fruit.

The thoughtful giver will order such gifts well in advance to allow time for the personal touch of initialing or monogramming — an added sentiment quotient sure to be appreciated.

Silver trays are always in demand, and no household ever had too many of them—big, handsome trays to hold a complete coffee service or small trays to hold an individual cup or glass.

Anything from a set of silver coasters to a handsome tea or coffee service will win undying gratitude from any homemaker. And the silver may be sterling or plated, precious or budget-priced.

The art of the finest designers is available in silver pieces in all price ranges, with some of the most beautiful of modern designs seen in inexpensive silver plate.

Silver occupies a place of honor on top of Santa's pack this year—a gift for holiday entertaining and use every day of the year.

A Daily Press want ad can do a big job for you.

Jewelry Store Full Of Ideas

For centuries the jewelry store has been traditional gift headquarters at Christmas, carrying the most exciting selection of memorable gifts to be cherished through the years.

Gift-buyers, the Jewelry Industry Council reports, welcome the taste, trained fashion sense, good judgment and integrity that are synonymous with jewelers. This year, you will find an even greater assortment from which to make your selections.

When shopping for a watch, for instance, handsome styling and individuality are likely to be as important as accuracy to the wearer. And so great is the variety in watches this Christmas that only the trained jeweler can point out the merits and suitability of each one.

Utility watches, for out-of-door wear and sports; pocket watches and chains for formal wear and wrist watches designed especially for professional business people are found to be in striking attractive styles.

Silver holloware—tea sets, bowls, dishes, trays—reflects the good taste of the giver as few gifts can. Because today's silverware is the focal point of fashion in the home, the factor of style judgment in selection can make for the most happiness all around, regardless of intrinsic value or price alone.

A glance at the showcases in your jewelry store will show you that each age group has been studied by designers with an eye to fashion and appropriateness. The jeweler offers gifts for infants such as: bent-handle spoons, silver rattles or teething rings with silver bells, brush and comb sets, pearls for starting a necklace, cups, bib holders, porringers and tiny gift rings.

For older boys, and men for that matter, the right tie tack, tie clip, cuff links, key chain or pen-knife are to be found at the jewelers.

A wide variety of gift suggestions for young girls includes a piece of sterling in her chosen pattern, her first piece of precious jewelry in the form of a pin, bracelet, locket or sterling picture frame.

Young women's gift choices are sure to include compacts, jeweled earrings and pins, clips and rings. Gifts of jewelry make any woman seem prettier —and younger.

Santa is linked in the minds of many with the fashions of today. That means jewelry and more of it. Again the jeweler can be helpful, for he makes it his business to know the fashion trends, whether it emphasizes longer waistlines, shorter sleeves, distinctive necklines, or whether the jewel accent is to be near the face, lapel, waist or elsewhere.

Sterling identification bracelets are worn early today by young men in their teens; their pen and pencil sets, leather wallets and desk accessories will tend to reflect personal tastes as well as future professions or occupations. Smoking accessories take on importance, including lighters, cigarette cases and holders.

Rings may assume the importance of fraternal insignia, the dignity of initial or signet designs. Perhaps the birthstone ring has become significant in the young man's life as a gift ring worth having and wearing for its symbolic meaning and proof of someone's lasting affection and regard.

Wishing For A Dishwasher?

With Christmas almost here, the "hinting season" is in full swing, and husbands are fair game—especially if it's a family gift you're aiming at.

Here are a few "hinting" tips for a homemaker who has her heart set on a major item —an electric dishwasher, for example:

1. Collect dishwasher ads from the local paper and national magazines. Show them to your personal Santa Claus and tell him what style and features you especially like. You might choose a built-in model, a portable, or a convertible that can be built in later.

Tell him about the choice of cycles for light or heavy loads, the easy-to-load rack designs, and the new powerful washing action that gets dishes really clean, and the hot-air drying that leaves them sparkling.

2. Tell him that an automatic dishwasher will save your hands from that rough redness constant hand - dishwashing gives them. Explain that your hands won't have to do anything except brush food off the plates and place tableware and kitchen utensils in the machine.

Don't forget to say that an electric dishwasher uses water much hotter and detergent much stronger than your hands could stand.

3. Explain how much time an automatic dishwasher will save —time you can spend helping the children with their homework or doing something else that's important to the family. If your children help with the dishes, get them to help persuade Daddy that an automatic dishwasher would be a wonderful Christmas gift.

4. Since men like to see how appliances work, get him to take a look at a friend's dishwasher. Let her or her husband show him how easy it is to use, how clean and bright it gets the dishes, and how neat the kitchen stays when dirty dishes go right into the dishwasher after every meal.

AMERICAN CHECKS

So many bank checks are written by Americans that it would take a stack of wood 25 miles high and four feet by eight feet to produce the supply of 15 million checks for one year.

Some Hints For Your Card List

Those gay Christmas cards that decorated mantel and mirror and tree can serve a practical purpose when you take them down.

That is the best time—and they are the simplest means—for making up your 1964 Christmas card list. If the list is revised now, while new names and addresses are readily at hand, the addressing of cards next Christmas will be almost effortless.

For those to whom maintaining a list is a problem in itself, the card maker offers a number of easy solutions, some of which are available in stores and others hand-fashioned at home.

If your list runs to several hundred people and you must of necessity be meticulous about it, then probably the best system is to post the names and addresses on file cards and index them in a small file box. An advantage of this system is that the cards offer ample space to jot down information about the person and his family as it is received during the year.

For those with shorter lists, the personal telephone directory is a handy reference. A tiny check mark beside a name may be used to indicate that you two exchanged cards the previous Christmas. A second mark could be used for those to whom you send gifts.

Ann Landers

Vicious Maze

Dear Ann Landers: Do you know what it's like to have your own mother tell you she hates the sight of you, that you make her sick to her stomach and she wishes you were never born? Well, I do because I hear it almost every day. At night when I go to sleep my pillow is soaking wet.

My grades used to be good, but this year they have slipped badly because I can't concentrate on anything. Can it be that my unhappiness is driving me crazy. When I get up to recite in school I shake like a leaf, and I forget everything.

Don't tell me to talk to my father. He has been an alcoholic for as long as I can remember and he makes no sense at all.

In two years I will be of legal age and can leave home. But what should I do in the meantime? Please help me.—MARY

Dear Mary: Your mother sounds like an emotional wreck—which is probably the result of your father's drinking (or maybe he drinks because she's so difficult). At any rate it's a vicious maze and you are trapped.

Talk to your favorite teacher about being placed in a foster home. And in the meantime, write to Al-Teen. (You'll find a number in the yellow pages under Alcoholics Anonymous.) This is a club for teenagers who must live with an alcoholic.

Dear Ann Landers: Have you had an opportunity to observe America's teenagers dance lately? My wife and I chaperoned a church dance for teenagers last week. I was knocked on my ear at the sight of these kids on the dance floor.

I'm not exactly a museum piece—I'll be 38 next month, but watching these kids made me feel as if I belonged to a different era. The bored look, that "don't give a damn" expression on their faces, the refusal to exert themselves must be symptomatic of something.

When we were teenagers we danced because it was fun. Dancing was exercise. It released tension. Today's kids slosh around on the floor, twitch a hip or lift a finger, make a move like a duck or a monkey or a horse. THIS they call dancing.

Do you have any observations on the subject? If so I'd like to hear them.—CLASS OF '47

Dear Class: You're a little out of date, dad. The trancelike dances—the Monkey, the Horse and the Duck—are out. The latest is the Tennessee U.—and it looks like the fertility rites of an African bush-tribe.

Dear Ann Landers: My husband was converted to my religion six years ago when we were married. After going to church with me regularly for two years he suddenly quit. He now insists religion is a lot of hooey, a crutch for ignorant people who find it easier to believe in black magic than to reason things out.

I've gone from one doctor to another trying to find out why I can't get pregnant. (My husband has been checked and he is all right.) The doctors all say it's probably my nerves.

Last month, in sheer despair, I went to an adoption agency connected with my church. They requested that I return with my husband so he could be interviewed.

When they asked him about his church attendance he told them he has not been inside a church in four years. Then he said some things about religion which are not printable. They told him to return in six months if he changes his mind.

I am heartsick because I know he is not going to change his mind and this agency will never give us a child so long as he shoots off his big mouth this way. What shall I do?—MARRIED TO AN ATHEIST

Dear Married: Contact adoption agencies which are not church-connected. You'll get nowhere with this agency so long as your husband sticks to his views, and he doesn't sound as if he is about to change.

Old Custom Is Happy One

The old custom of Christmas carol sings, so popular in European countries in the Middle Ages, is being revived by music-loving Americans.

And what nicer way to mark the holiday than by gathering a few friends for group singing of the beloved old carols, with eggnog and fruit cake to follow? In olden times people sang to the accompaniment of flutes and fiddles, but today the LP record has become a favored accompaniment.

Recognizing this trend, RCA Victor has introduced a "Victrola" with a "Sing Along" microphone for just such occasions. This is a deluxe portable model for stereo as well as mono, and could be used for carol singing in the schools and for other large groups as well as for home use.

Did you know the Christmas carol grew out of old dance tunes? Centuries ago a round dance known as the "chorea," the Latin word for "round," or "charalues," the French word for "flutist," was the most popuular form of entertainment with the light-hearted people of France, especially on holidays and feast days. Later the "chorea" became popular in England as well and the music was always an important part of the dance.

Other forms of dancing and entertainment replaced the round dance but the music gained rather than lost in popularity. Even today French music is still rich in refrains of these old songs, which gradually become a special part of the Christmas observance.

Meanwhile, the French word "charalues" had become the good English word, "carol" and the English had adopted the round dance and the music with it. In England as in France, the round dance was replaced by other forms of dancing but the old tunes remained popular and were adapted to new verses and sung at Christmas time.

Christmas hymns had been sung in the churches of England since the Fourth Century and later the religious play became a featured part of the Yuletide observance. Religious folk songs were interpolated in the plays and songs of wassailing and feasting vied with those about shepherds, angels and the Magi at Christmas.

Translations of Latin songs that had come down from pagan times were put into the vernacular and little by little the Christmas carol as we know it today evolved from these songs.

Old Santa Told 'I Want A Puppy'

By HELEN HENNESSY

NEW YORK —(NEA)— When Christmas comes, kennels empty out as fast as toy stores. Nearly every third letter addressed to the jolly gent with the long white beard begins, "I want a puppy."

There's no age limit on this request. It can be come from a school kid or from his great aunt Bessie, 75, who lives alone in a one-room apartment.

Pup shopping should be done as carefully as car shopping. After all, the dog usually lasts longer.

Make a mental check list, taking the personality and size of the recipient's living quarters into consideration. You wouldn't exactly brighten aunt Bessie's Christmas if she were backed into a corner of her room by your gift of a Great Dane.

* * *

Personality is a big factor—the new owner's, not the dog's. Is he the stay-at-home or the gadabout type? Does he like to take long walks or prefer to sit in front of the fire? Or will the new master be a child?

Armed with this knowledge, you're ready to pup shop.

You have 115 registered breeds to choose from, according to Bob Bartos (manager of a big Research Kennel). So if you have trouble locating a pup that will please, perhaps a nice selection of imported cheeses would be a more suitable gift.

Here's how you go about barking up the right tree: Elderly aunt Bessie probably can't take long hikes, spends a lot of time alone and has a motherly instinct.

For her you select one of the smaller breeds who loves being fussed over, such as the toy or miniature Poodle, the Dachshund, the miniature Schnauzer or Pekingese. These dogs need a minimum of exercise and adapt easily to apartment living. Small as they are, they still function as watchdogs and are mighty vocal when the need arises.

* * *

For the man who thinks of himself as the outdoor, pipe-in-mouth he-man, yet doesn't have an estate to go with this mental picture, a medium size, masculine-looking pet is ideal. These breeds include the Beagle, English Cocker, Airdale, Kerry Blue and the Boxer. Any one of these dogs will make the gals turn around for a second look.

Now for the children. The bluest blueblood or the dog with the most mixed-up canine family tree will be greeted with equal enthusiasm. But if the child is very young, choose a pup that can take it. You con count on Janie or Johnny to dish it out. Most children are prone to love a dog so much that it hurts — the dog, that is.

Better to get a pup six months of age or over. Try for the calm breeds such as the Collie or the hunting breeds. They're all good with children and in time will look upon the small fry as their own personal responsibility.

Before you're through shopping, you'll have a liberal education in dogdom. But watch it—you may fall in love yourself.

How Christmas Charity Began

The tradition of alms-giving at Christmas began with a legend, as did so many other holiday customs. It was believed at one time that the Christ Child went from door to door during the holiday season, disguised as a beggar, and asking alms, in search of kind and deserving souls.

Since no one knew when or where He might appear, Christians feared to turn beggars from their door lest they unknowingly turn away the Christ Child.

Thus began the custom of charity to the poor at Christmastime; today this charity is still practiced, but not out of fear . . . rather, it is done out of love, generosity and thankfulness by those who have been materially blessed.

A dog's life at Christmas isn't so bad.

Try Egg Nog

For many of us, Christmas just isn't Christmas without the tasty treat of egg nog. A welcome holiday sight in the traditional silver punch bowl at Christmas gatherings, and an equally welcome quick refreshment for friends who've dropped in unexpectedly, egg nog is the perfect holiday drink for young and old alike.

If you're planning a party or expecting friends and family over on Christmas Eve, bring out the punch bowl and stock up on bottled egg nog from your favorite dairy. You'll find today's ready-made egg nog better than most home-made versions and it saves so much extra work.

Leather Great For Furniture

After he makes his rounds on Christmas Eve, Santa is happy to take his ease at home. Logically enough, a favorite Christmas gift for Santa's family—and yours—is leather furniture which makes an evening at home an occasion.

Leather beautifies the home, is easy to care for, and lasts many years—more treasured the longer you live with it.

A natural product whose beauty is enhanced by modern or traditional design, leather in chairs, sofas, tables, lamps and headboards combines old-fashioned elegance with up-to-the-minute practicality.

For example, dining room chairs look handsome to Dad, accentuate a pleasing decor to Mom, and the kids don't have to be reprimanded for food stains that wipe away with a damp cloth.

Interior decorators frequently use occasional chairs in leather to counter-balance the main color theme of a room. Rich orange hues, deep reds, or vibrant greens are a few of the available color hues in new leathers. So supple it drapes over any shape, modern upholstery leather has sufficient "body" to give firm support to a tiny housewife or a husky householder.

The big comfortable leather chair Dad likes in his den still doubles as an ideal place for Mom to relax from her daily chores. And the kids can also lounge in it over a favorite book without fear of a reprimand when restless feet go acrobatic. No matter how many contortions youngsters get into in these big chairs the leather won't soil, sag or scratch.

Leather headboards are favored by everyone in the family. There are gentle pastel quilted leather headboards to give a bedroom a softly feminine look. Now bone and off-white or beige tufted headboards have a luxury look with a practical personality, for they resist soil and clean very easily.

Consider smart-looking accessories in leather, such as modern lamps with rich tooled leather bases, as family gifts. Leather-top desks give a quiet leather motif with leather-edged blotter holder, a leather-bound daily dairy, calendar and file basket.

Handsome end tables and new low modern coffee tables give a mellow warm look to a family room when they are finished off with a rich leather-inlay top.

There's a warmth to leather furnishings and leather furniture that underscores the saying, "there's no place like home."

Make It Mink For Her Gift

There are probably fewer gifts in the world more cherished by women than mink!

Whether it be a coat, stole, jacket or wrap, furriers this coming Yuletide season have made gifts of a mink even more tempting.

There is a wide variety of styles from which to choose gifts, and the twelve shades give every woman the added gift of choice of color—to suit her complexion, hair color or personal taste.

High on the list of fur fashions this year are those with casual styling. For example, a trench coat of Morning Light, natural blue-beige mink, is considered "in," whether over a skirt and sweater or over a long crepe dinner gown.

Jasmine, pure white mink long considered to be an evening fur has gone casual. One designer has styled the elegant fur into a notch-collared, double - breasted coat with patch pockets and labeled it a day-time fashion.

Yet another designer has fashioned the luscious white fur into a triangular shape, and as an added fillip, and has been edged with white ostrich feathers.

Vicious Maze

Dear Ann Landers: Do you know what it's like to have your own mother tell you she hates the sight of you, that you make her sick to her stomach and she wishes you were never born? Well, I do because I hear it almost every day. At night when I go to sleep my pillow is soaking wet.

My grades used to be good, but this year they have slipped badly because I can't concentrate on anything. Can it be that my unhappiness is driving me crazy. When I get up to recite in school I shake like a leaf, and I forget everything.

Don't tell me to talk to my father. He has been an alcoholic for as long as I can remember and he makes no sense at all.

In two years I will be of legal age and can leave home. But what should I do in the meantime? Please help me.—MARY

Dear Mary: Your mother sounds like an emotional wreck—which is probably the result of your father's drinking (or maybe he drinks because she's so difficult). At any rate it's a vicious maze and you are trapped.

Talk to your favorite teacher about being placed in a foster home. And in the meantime, write to Al-Teen. (You'll find a number in the yellow pages under Alcoholics Anonymous.) This is a club for teenagers who must live with an alcoholic.

Dear Ann Landers: Have you had an opportunity to observe America's teenagers dance lately? My wife and I chaperoned a church dance for teenagers last week. I was knocked on my ear at the sight of these kids on the dance floor.

Take The Hint

Dear Ann Landers: Please keep encouraging girls as well as boys to get a high school diploma and then go on and get some sort of training which will enable them to earn a living later in life if they have to.

I knew it all. Nobody could tell me anything. My husband was 22 and had a college degree. I was beautiful and sweet and he didn't think it was important for me to stay in high school and get my diploma. Why should I have to know anything? He would take care of me for the rest of my life! So, my heavy-hearted father walked me down the aisle and I was married at 17.

We had three children in six years. I devoted myself to my family. My husband went to night school and got a master's degree in business administration. Strange that he appreciated the value of education for himself — but not for me.

Five weeks ago my husband dropped dead of a heart attack at the age of 42. He left $15,000 in insurance and a $20,000 mortgage on our home, plus some big bills. I have three children to send to college within the next five years. I must go to work but I'm not trained for anything. I realize now as never before the necessity of preparing for the future, since none of us knows what it may bring.

Please print this letter as a warning from someone who had to learn the hard way. —SAD SANDRA

Dear Sandra: Many thanks for the letter. I hope the thousands of young girls see it and take the hint.

★ ★ ★

Dear Ann Landers: I work in a plant which has an unattended newsstand. It is the habit of certain employes to help themselves to the newspaper which prints your column. They take it into the cafeteria and read for about 10 minutes before the work day begins.

When they put the paper back, it usually has doughnut grease, breadcrumbs or coffee stains on it. Poor chumps (like me) who pay have to read a crumpled, pawed-over paper.

It would not upset me so if these people were desitute and couldn't afford the few pennies. But as is usually the case, the ones who have the most money are the cheapest.

I am writing in the hope that you will print my letter so the people involved will see how petty this practice looks to others. —PAYING CUSTOMER

Dear Customer: There will always be people who want something for nothing. For them there is no cure. They can't be shamed, cajoled or chided into changing their ways, so don't try.

Surely all the papers aren't pawed over, so why not take yours from the bottom of the pile.

★ ★ ★

Dear Ann Landers: If a girl slaps a boy's face, for no reason whatever, is the boy justified in slapping her back?

Several of us teen-agers are waiting for your answer because it happened to one of the greatest kids in our crowd and we want to know if what he did was right. Thank you. — JASPER, IND.

Dear Jasper: There's a reason for everything. The fact that you don't know the reason doesn't mean there is none.

The boy who got a clop in the chops may or may not have done a little something to earn it. If he was absolutely innocent then the girl is an erratic impulsive loon.

A boy who hits a girl for any reason whatever puts himself squarely in her class. The better approach is to take her straight home and lose her phone number.

Ann Landers' frank and informative new book, "Teen-Agers and Sex ($2.95), is now available at your book store.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

IT WAS A GOOD STORY

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Digging for an underground parking garage beneath the 10-acre Statehouse grounds has failed to reveal any sign of a tunnel to a hotel across the street.

According to a familiar story, the long-lost tunnel was put in a century ago to allow lawmakers who wanted to absent themselves from deliberations to get to the hotel without being seen.

Getting Ready Is Fun Too

An important part of the fun of Christmas is in preparing for it and since Christmas is for children, you'll want your youngsters to participate as much as possible in all the activities that the Yule season brings. Not only will it be an excellent opportunity for them to gain a sense of responsibility and to express themselves creatively, it will also afford your family many hours of being together and getting to know each other better.

Old Custom Is Happy One

The old custom of Christmas carol sings, so popular in European countries in the Middle Ages, is being revived by music-loving Americans.

And what nicer way to mark the holiday than by gathering a few friends for group singing of the beloved old carols, with eggnog and fruit cake to follow? In olden times people sang to the accompaniment of flutes and fiddles, but today the LP record has become a favored accompaniment.

Recognizing this trend, RCA Victor has introduced a "Victrola" with a "Sing Along" microphone for just such occasions. This is a deluxe portable model for stereo as well as mono, and could be used for carol singing in the schools and for other large groups as well as for home use.

Did you know the Christmas carol grew out of old dance tunes? Centuries ago a round dance known as the "chorea," the Latin word for "round," or "charalues," the French word for "flutist," was the most popuular form of entertainment with the light-hearted people of France, especially on holidays and feast days. Later the "chorea" became popular in England as well and the music was always an important part of the dance.

Other forms of dancing and entertainment replaced the round dance but the music gained rather than lost in popularity. Even today French music is still rich in refrains of these old songs, which gradually become a special part of the Christmas observance.

Meanwhile, the French word "charalues" had become the good English word, "carol" and the English had adopted the round dance and the music with it. In England as in France, the round dance was replaced by other forms of dancing but the old tunes remained popular and were adapted to new verses and sung at Christmas time.

Christmas hymns had been sung in the churches of England since the Fourth Century and later the religious play became a featured part of the Yuletide observance. Religious folk songs were interpolated in the plays and songs of wassailing and feasting vied with those about shepherds, angels and the Magi at Christmas.

Translations of Latin songs that had come down from pagan times were put into the vernacular and little by little the Christmas carol as we know it today evolved from these songs.

Old Santa Told 'I Want A Puppy'

By HELEN HENNESSY

NEW YORK —(NEA)— When Christmas comes, kennels empty out as fast as toy stores. Nearly every third letter addressed to the jolly gent with the long white beard begins, "I want a puppy."

There's no age limit on this request. It can be come from a school kid or from his great aunt Bessie, 75, who lives alone in a one-room apartment.

Pup shopping should be done as carefully as car shopping. After all, the dog usually lasts longer.

Make a mental check list, taking the personality and size of the recipient's living quarters into consideration. You wouldn't exactly brighten aunt Bessie's Christmas if she were backed into a corner of her room by your gift of a Great Dane.

* * *

Personality is a big factor—the new owner's, not the dog's. Is he the stay-at-home or the gadabout type? Does he like to take long walks or prefer to sit in front of the fire? Or will the new master be a child?

Armed with this knowledge, you're ready to pup shop.

You have 115 registered breeds to choose from, according to Bob Bartos (manager of a big Research Kennel). So if you have trouble locating a pup that will please, perhaps a nice selection of imported cheeses would be a more suitable gift.

Here's how you go about barking up the right tree: Elderly aunt Bessie probably can't take long hikes, spends a lot of time alone and has a motherly instinct.

For her you select one of the smaller breeds who loves being fussed over, such as the toy or miniature Poodle, the Dachshund, the miniature Schnauzer or Pekingese. These dogs need a minimum of exercise and adapt easily to apartment living. Small as they are, they still function as watchdogs and are mighty vocal when the need arises.

* * *

For the man who thinks of himself as the outdoor, pipe-in-mouth he-man, yet doesn't have an estate to go with this mental picture, a medium size, masculine-looking pet is ideal. These breeds include the Beagle, English Cocker, Airdale, Kerry Blue and the Boxer. Any one of these dogs will make the gals turn around for a second look.

Now for the children. The bluest blueblood or the dog with the most mixed-up canine family tree will be greeted with equal enthusiasm. But if the child is very young, choose a pup that can take it. You con count on Janie or Johnny to dish it out. Most children are prone to love a dog so much that it hurts — the dog, that is.

Better to get a pup six months of age or over. Try for the calm breeds such as the Collie or the hunting breeds. They're all good with children and in time will look upon the small fry as their own personal responsibility.

Before you're through shopping, you'll have a liberal education in dogdom. But watch it—you may fall in love yourself.

How Christmas Charity Began

The tradition of alms-giving at Christmas began with a legend, as did so many other holiday customs. It was believed at one time that the Christ Child went from door to door during the holiday season, disguised as a beggar, and asking alms, in search of kind and deserving souls.

Since no one knew when or where He might appear, Christians feared to turn beggars from their door lest they unknowingly turn away the Christ Child.

Thus began the custom of charity to the poor at Christmastime; today this charity is still practiced, but not out of fear . . . rather, it is done out of love, generosity and thankfulness by those who have been materially blessed.

A dog's life at Christmas isn't so bad.

Try Egg Nog

For many of us, Christmas just isn't Christmas without the tasty treat of egg nog. A welcome holiday sight in the traditional silver punch bowl at Christmas gatherings, and an equally welcome quick refreshment for friends who've dropped in unexpectedly, egg nog is the perfect holiday drink for young and old alike.

If you're planning a party or expecting friends and family over on Christmas Eve, bring out the punch bowl and stock up on bottled egg nog from your favorite dairy. You'll find today's ready-made egg nog better than most home-made versions and it saves so much extra work.

Leather Great For Furniture

After he makes his rounds on Christmas Eve, Santa is happy to take his ease at home. Logically enough, a favorite Christmas gift for Santa's family—and yours—is leather furniture which makes an evening at home an occasion.

Leather beautifies the home, is easy to care for, and lasts many years—more treasured the longer you live with it.

A natural product whose beauty is enhanced by modern or traditional design, leather in chairs, sofas, tables, lamps and headboards combines old-fashioned elegance with up-to-the-minute practicality.

For example, dining room chairs look handsome to Dad, accentuate a pleasing decor to Mom, and the kids don't have to be reprimanded for food stains that wipe away with a damp cloth.

Interior decorators frequently use occasional chairs in leather to counter-balance the main color theme of a room. Rich orange hues, deep reds, or vibrant greens are a few of the available color hues in new leathers. So supple it drapes over any shape, modern upholstery leather has sufficient "body" to give firm support to a tiny housewife or a husky householder.

The big comfortable leather chair Dad likes in his den still doubles as an ideal place for Mom to relax from her daily chores. And the kids can also lounge in it over a favorite book without fear of a reprimand when restless feet go acrobatic. No matter how many contortions youngsters get into in these big chairs the leather won't soil, sag or scratch.

Leather headboards are favored by everyone in the family. There are gentle pastel quilted leather headboards to give a bedroom a softly feminine look. Now bone and off-white or beige tufted headboards have a luxury look with a practical personality, for they resist soil and clean very easily.

Consider smart-looking accessories in leather, such as modern lamps with rich tooled leather bases, as family gifts. Leather-top desks give a quiet leather motif with leather-edged blotter holder, a leather-bound daily dairy, calendar and file basket.

Handsome end tables and new low modern coffee tables give a mellow warm look to a family room when they are finished off with a rich leather-inlay top.

There's a warmth to leather furnishings and leather furniture that underscores the saying, "there's no place like home."

Make It Mink For Her Gift

There are probably fewer gifts in the world more cherished by women than mink!

Whether it be a coat, stole, jacket or wrap, furriers this coming Yuletide season have made gifts of a mink even more tempting.

There is a wide variety of styles from which to choose gifts, and the twelve shades give every woman the added gift of choice of color—to suit her complexion, hair color or personal taste.

High on the list of fur fashions this year are those with casual styling. For example, a trench coat of Morning Light, natural blue-beige mink, is considered "in," whether over a skirt and sweater or over a long crepe dinner gown.

Jasmine, pure white mink long considered to be an evening fur has gone casual. One designer has styled the elegant fur into a notch-collared, double-breasted coat with patch pockets and labeled it a day-time fashion.

Yet another designer has fashioned the luscious white fur into a triangular shape, and as an added fillip, and has been edged with white ostrich feathers.

Your Toy Idea May Win

By ALICIA HART

NEW YORK — (NEA) — If you have dreams of making a million dollars with an original toy design, don't waste your time developing a four-handed checker game.

"We get one of those submitted about once a month," said Ned Strongin, a New York toy designer who gets many of his ideas from thousands of persons across the country.

About 2,000 ideas — in the form of sketches or cardboard models — arrive across Strongin's desk every year. They come from such people as bus drivers, housewives and airplane pilots. If the idea is considered good (only about 50 a year are) a split fee deal is arranged, and Strongin markets the product.

"One of our best was called 'Wonder Act,' a non-messy finger painting set. That was dreamed up by two Pan Am pilots. A big one this year is 'Hurdy Gurdy,' designed by a newspaper mechanic. And our 'Pretzel, the Pick-up Pooch' was thought up by a clerk."

Whammo! Electrified cars pile up on table-top track.

Plastic computer. It dares you to outwit it.

Toy ideas, explained Strongin, are judged by a nebulous standard of "play value." Three questions which must be asked before a toy is developed are: Can it be feasibly manufactured? Can it be made of plastic or must metal be used? Can it be sold at a realistic price?

"Some of the ideas are pretty wild," said Strongin. "One man came into the office, I recall, and made me shut all the doors. I spent about an hour convincing him that nobody was going to steal his idea. Then he spread a blotter on the resk and dumped paint on it.

"Then he produced a jar of live worms and spooned them onto the paint.

"'Worm painting!' he announced triumphantly. 'Then if you get tired of painting you can go fishing'!"

"I tried to keep a straight face, but I had to tell him that Dali thought that one up years ago."

Strongin is just one of hundreds of toy makers across the nation who are constantly hunting for the "perfect toy" — the one which will capture the imaginations of children and reap profits for the manufacturers.

A. C. Gilbert, for example, is counting this year on its "Flying Over Chicane" auto racing creation. With this, miniature cars zip electrically around a tabletop track. They jump open bridges, crash into one another and, if somebody is nimble on the remote control switch, one of them might even win a race now and then.

In the process of developing a set of ghoulish plastic characters, Aurora Plastics Co., of Long Island, consulted child psychiatrists. "Go ahead," came the answer. The horrors would amount to "harmless escapism." Called 'Movie Monsters," the set includes Dracula, The Mummy, Wolf Man and a little delight called The Creature From the Black Lagoon.

One mother wrote that her son had nightmares after seeing a monster movie. So she bought him a miniature Dracula; he played with it before going to bed and the nightmares ceased.

A New Jersey engineer, Irving Lieberman, turned his knowledge of electronic computers in the direction of toys. The result a miniature plastic computer, called "Digi-Comp," which operates by hand. With it problems of surprising intricacy can be solved. For example: the machine can tell you with the click of three buttons what number between 1 and 7 you are thinking of. The child can also play a numbers game with the computer in which he has to be on his toes to beat the machine.

Lieberman admits that adults would probably not understand how the computer works—but what with today's math in schools it should be a pushover for kids.

The Creature. Who knows? The nightmares could cease.

PROTECT INVESTMENT

A good alligator handbag is a worth-while but expensive investment. It's wise to carry a plastic case inside the bag so that you can protect it from damage should it rain.

CARRY PERFUME

Perfume must be re-used during the day ot keep its fragrance. A handy way to carry your purse perfume is in a new roll-on container which you can refill yourself.

Safety Rules Must Go With New Bicycle

Nothing brightens a boy's eyes like seeing a bicycle under the Christmas tree. The gleam of bright new paint, the shine of metal spokes and the flash of handle bars are reflected in his eyes.

As a parent you should make sure that the bike that you buy him has all the equipment that he needs—not the flashy accessories that impress the kid next door, but the basic safety equipment required for safe bicycling. He also needs to be told or reminded—about bike riding rules.

One way to do this is to see that the child participates in a national safety program being conducted by the V.F.W. Their posts throughout the country are conducting this program in conjunction with the National Safety Council. The local V. F. W. posts distributed free reflective tape to some four million youngsters in 1963 for use on their bicycles.

In addition, the V. F. W. is continuing a program to check the brakes, lights, handle bars, and tires of individual bicycles to make sure they are safe. They also check the ability of each youngster to handle his own bike.

Your child can have many hours of safe fun on his bike if he will just remember these basic rules.

Obey traffic laws, signs and signals.

A good bike rider always stays on the right and rides with traffic.

Always ride single file and in a straight line, never zig zag.

Night riding is always dangerous and should be avoided. If the child has to ride at night, for some reason, be sure that the bike is equipped with light, reflector, reflective tape and see that the child wears light-colored clothing.

Conduct periodic safety checks on the bike. Seats should be tight; feet must reach the pedals easily; reflectors should be visible from at least 300 feet away; brakes should stop fast; the chain shouldn't be too tight; worn-out pedals and handle grips should be replaced; handle bars should be in comfortable position; front light should be visible from at least 500 feet away; broken spokes should be replaced and tires should contain the proper amount of air.

Blender Will Lighten Tasks

Any cook worth her salt wants pleasure from preparing food. Yet, for many women, the holidays represent slavery over a hot stove.

Use an electric blender as the chef's helper, and you can simplify kitchen chores and save hours of hard work.

One blender, for example, will mince onions; mix pancakes; grate cheese; blend batters; even fresh-grind the coffee. It will also liquefy, churn, puree, emulsify, homogenize—and chop.

Here are two tested recipes, using a blender.

Hot Spicy Apple Eggnog

2 eggs, separated
¼ cup sugar
Dash of salt
½ teaspoon cinnamon
Dash of nutmeg
2/3 cup apple juice
4 cups scalded milk
1/3 cup whipped cream

Mix egg yolks, sugar, salt, cinnamon, nutmeg and apple juice and blend until sugar is dissolved. Add 1 cup scalded milk slowly. Pour this mixture into remaining scalded milk and quickly fold in stiffly beaten egg whites. Pour into hot eggnog server or carafe and serve topped with mound of whipped cream.

Holly Spread

8 oz. Swiss Cheese cut into 1-inch cubes
6 pimento-stuffed olives
¼ small green pepper
¼ cup mayonnaise

Put cheese into container and cover. Grade by turning on and off, on and off. Stop and add olives and green pepper. Cover and turn on and off once more. Empty into mixing bowl and moisten with enough mayonnaise to make a thick paste. Chill before serving. Yield: 1½ cups.

Ann Landers

Take The Hint

Dear Ann Landers: Please keep encouraging girls as well as boys to get a high school diploma and then go on and get some sort of training which will enable them to earn a living later in life if they have to.

I knew it all. Nobody could tell me anything. My husband was 22 and had a college degree. I was beautiful and sweet and he didn't think it was important for me to stay in high school and get my diploma. Why should I have to know anything? He would take care of me for the rest of my life! So, my heavy-hearted father walked me down the aisle and I was married at 17.

We had three children in six years. I devoted myself to my family. My husband went to night school and got a master's degree in business administration. Strange that he appreciated the value of education for himself — but not for me.

Five weeks ago my husband dropped dead of a heart attack at the age of 42. He left $15,000 in insurance and a $20,000 mortgage on our home, plus some big bills. I have three children to send to college within the next five years. I must go to work but I'm not trained for anything. I realize now as never before the necessity of preparing for the future, since none of us knows what it may bring.

Please print this letter as a warning from someone who had to learn the hard way. —SAD SANDRA

Dear Sandra: Many thanks for the letter. I hope the thousands of young girls see it and take the hint.

Dear Ann Landers: I work in a plant which has an unattended newsstand. It is the habit of certain employes to help themselves to the newspaper which prints your column. They take it into the cafeteria and read for about 10 minutes before the work day begins.

When they put the paper back, it usually has doughnut grease, breadcrumbs or coffee stains on it. Poor chumps (like me) who pay have to read a crumpled, pawed-over paper.

It would not upset me so if these people were desitute and couldn't afford the few pennies. But as is usually the case, the ones who have the most money are the cheapest.

I am writing in the hope that you will print my letter so the people involved will see how petty this practice looks to others. —PAYING CUSTOMER

Dear Customer: There will always be people who want something for nothing. For them there is no cure. They can't be shamed, cajoled or chided into changing their ways, so don't try.

Surely all the papers aren't pawed over, so why not take yours from the bottom of the pile.

★ ★ ★

Dear Ann Landers: If a girl slaps a boy's face, for no reason whatever, is the boy justified in slapping her back?

Several of us teen-agers are waiting for your answer because it happened to one of the greatest kids in our crowd and we want to know if what he did was right. Thank you. — JASPER, IND.

Dear Jasper: There's a reason for everything. The fact that you don't know the reason doesn't mean there is none.

The boy who got a clop in the chops may or may not have done a little something to earn it. If he was absolutely innocent then the girl is an erratic impulsive loon.

A boy who hits a girl for any reason whatever puts himself squarely in her class. The better approach is to take her straight home and lose her phone number.

Ann Landers' frank and informative new book, "Teen-Agers and Sex ($2.95), is now available at your book store.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

IT WAS A GOOD STORY

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Digging for an underground parking garage beneath the 10-acre Statehouse grounds has failed to reveal any sign of a tunnel to a hotel across the street.

According to a familiar story, the long-lost tunnel was put in a century ago to allow lawmakers who wanted to absent themselves from deliberations to get to the hotel without being seen.

Getting Ready Is Fun Too

An important part of the fun of Christmas is in preparing for it and since Christmas is for children, you'll want your youngsters to participate as much as possible in all the activities that the Yule season brings. Not only will it be an excellent opportunity for them to gain a sense of responsibility and to express themselves creatively, it will also afford your family many hours of being together and getting to know each other better.

Your Toy Idea May Win

By ALICIA HART

NEW YORK — (NEA) — If you have dreams of making a million dollars with an original toy design, don't waste your time developing a four-handed checker game.

"We get one of those submitted about once a month," said Ned Strongin, a New York toy designer who gets many of his ideas from thousands of persons across the country.

About 2,000 ideas — in the form of sketches or cardboard models — arrive across Strongin's desk every year. They come from such people as bus drivers, housewives and airplane pilots. If the idea is considered good (only about 50 a year are) a split fee deal is arranged, and Strongin markets the product.

"One of our best was called 'Wonder Act,' a non-messy finger painting set. That was dreamed up by two Pan Am pilots. A big one this year is 'Hurdy Gurdy,' designed by a newspaper mechanic. And our 'Pretzel, the Pick-up Pooch' was thought up by a clerk."

Whammo! Electrified cars pile up on table-top track.

Plastic computer. It dares you to outwit it.

Toy ideas, explained Strongin, are judged by a nebulous standard of "play value." Three questions which must be asked before a toy is developed are: Can it be feasibly manufactured? Can it be made of plastic or must metal be used? Can it be sold at a realistic price?

"Some of the ideas are pretty wild," said Strongin. "One man came into the office, I recall, and made me shut all the doors. I spent about an hour convincing him that nobody was going to steal his idea. Then he spread a blotter on the resk and dumped paint on it.

"Then he produced a jar of live worms and spooned them onto the paint.

"'Worm painting!' he announced triumphantly. 'Then if you get tired of painting you can go fishing'!"

"I tried to keep a straight face, but I had to tell him that Dali thought that one up years ago."

Strongin is just one of hundreds of toy makers across the nation who are constantly hunting for the "perfect toy" — the one which will capture the imaginations of children and reap profits for the manufacturers.

A. C. Gilbert, for example, is counting this year on its "Flying Over Chicane" auto racing creation. With this, miniature cars zip electrically around a tabletop track. They jump open bridges, crash into one another and, if somebody is nimble on the remote control switch, one of them might even win a race now and then.

In the process of developing a set of ghoulish plastic characters, Aurora Plastics Co., of Long Island, consulted child psychiatrists. "Go ahead," came the answer. The horrors would amount to "harmless escapism." Called 'Movie Monsters," the set includes Dracula, The Mummy, Wolf Man and a little delight called The Creature From the Black Lagoon.

One mother wrote that her son had nightmares after seeing a monster movie. So she bought him a miniature Dracula; he played with it before going to bed and the nightmares ceased.

A New Jersey engineer, Irving Lieberman, turned his knowledge of electronic computers in the direction of toys. The result a miniature plastic computer, called "Digi-Comp," which operates by hand. With it problems of surprising intricacy can be solved. For example: the machine can tell you with the click of three buttons what number between 1 and 7 you are thinking of. The child can also play a numbers game with the computer in which he has to be on his toes to beat the machine.

Lieberman admits that adults would probably not understand how the computer works—but what with today's math in schools it should be a pushover for kids.

The Creature. Who knows? The nightmares could cease.

PROTECT INVESTMENT

A good alligator handbag is a worth-while but expensive investment. It's wise to carry a plastic case inside the bag so that you can protect it from damage should it rain.

CARRY PERFUME

Perfume must be re-used during the day ot keep its fragrance. A handy way to carry your purse perfume is in a new roll-on container which you can refill yourself.

Safety Rules Must Go With New Bicycle

Nothing brightens a boy's eyes like seeing a bicycle under the Christmas tree. The gleam of bright new paint, the shine of metal spokes and the flash of handle bars are reflected in his eyes.

As a parent you should make sure that the bike that you buy him has all the equipment that he needs—not the flashy accessories that impress the kid next door, but the basic safety equipment required for safe bicycling. He also needs to be told or reminded—about bike riding rules.

One way to do this is to see that the child participates in a national safety program being conducted by the V.F.W. Their posts throughout the country are conducting this program in conjunction with the National Safety Council. The local V. F. W. posts distributed free reflective tape to some four million youngsters in 1963 for use on their bicycles.

In addition, the V. F. W. is continuing a program to check the brakes, lights, handle bars, and tires of individual bicycles to make sure they are safe. They also check the ability of each youngster to handle his own bike.

Your child can have many hours of safe fun on his bike if he will just remember these basic rules.

Obey traffic laws, signs and signals.

A good bike rider always stays on the right and rides with traffic.

Always ride single file and in a straight line, never zig zag.

Night riding is always dangerous and should be avoided. If the child has to ride at night, for some reason, be sure that the bike is equipped with light, reflector, reflective tape and see that the child wears light-colored clothing.

Conduct periodic safety checks on the bike. Seats should be tight; feet must reach the pedals easily; reflectors should be visible from at least 300 feet away; brakes should stop fast; the chain shouldn't be too tight; worn-out pedals and handle grips should be replaced; handle bars should be in comfortable position; front light should be visible from at least 500 feet away; broken spokes should be replaced and tires should contain the proper amount of air.

Blender Will Lighten Tasks

Any cook worth her salt wants pleasure from preparing food. Yet, for many women, the holidays represent slavery over a hot stove.

Use an electric blender as the chef's helper, and you can simplify kitchen chores and save hours of hard work.

One blender, for example, will mince onions; mix pancakes; grate cheese; blend batters; even fresh-grind the coffee. It will also liquefy, churn, puree, emulsify, homogenize—and chop.

Here are two tested recipes, using a blender.

Hot Spicy Apple Eggnog

2 eggs, separated
¼ cup sugar
Dash of salt
½ teaspoon cinnamon
Dash of nutmeg
2/3 cup apple juice
4 cups scalded milk
1/3 cup whipped cream

Mix egg yolks, sugar, salt, cinnamon, nutmeg and apple juice and blend until sugar is dissolved. Add 1 cup scalded milk slowly. Pour this mixture into remaining scalded milk and quickly fold in stiffly beaten egg whites. Pour into hot eggnog server or carafe and serve topped with mound of whipped cream.

Holly Spread

8 oz. Swiss Cheese cut into 1-inch cubes
6 pimento-stuffed olives
¼ small green pepper
¼ cup mayonnaise

Put cheese into container and cover. Grade by turning on and off, on and off. Stop and add olives and green pepper. Cover and turn on and off once more. Empty into mixing bowl and moisten with enough mayonnaise to make a thick paste. Chill before serving. Yield: 1½ cups.
